PREFACE.

---

THE present work consists of two parts, the first of which is completed, while only a portion of the second is comprised in this volume. Part I. contains a practically exhaustive List of the Aldermen of the City of London, arranged under their respective Wards in chronological succession, from the date of the earliest of the Letter Books preserved at Guildhall, viz.: the year 1276 (4 Edward I.), to the present time. To these have been appended special articles, the most important being a list of all the instances of the exercise of the Aldermanic Veto recorded in the Repertories, and a full account of the parliamentary services of those members of the Court of Aldermen who have at any time obtained seats in the great Council of the Nation, and in this connexion I have printed a detailed history of the parliamentary representation of the City from the reign of Edward I.

In Part II. I have given the chronological succession of the Aldermen (individually according to seniority of election, as distinct from the arrangement under Wards in Part I.) to the end of the 14th century, carrying that succession back to a period antecedent by nearly half a century to that at which the Guildhall records begin. I hope to be enabled, without undue delay, to finish this portion of the work, bringing it up to the date of publication, and to supplement it with lists comprising fuller details than have ever yet been published of the succession of Chief Magistrates, Sheriffs, Recorders, Chamberlains, Common Serjeants, Town Clerks, and other important Corporate Officials. I reserve the Historical Introduction and Index of Names till the whole is complete.

I am conscious of the fact that the work has assumed larger proportions and is carried out on a more extensive scale than had been originally proposed, or than at first I had myself contemplated. The publication of an authoritative record of this kind would almost necessarily, however meagre the information it contained, have delayed for many years a supplement by another hand. Having had, as all whose occupations make them familiar with the phenomena of historical and biographical research must have had, frequent experience of the extent to which the usefulness of standard books of reference, much more ambitious in design and elaborate in scope than the present work, is frequently marred by their incompleteness as well as by their inaccuracy, I could not but feel that a historical compilation on the subject of the Aldermen of London, issued with the sanction and under the authority of the most famous Municipal Corporation in the world, ought to be worthy of its sponsors and, so far as such a result could be ensured, should be so comprehensive as to leave as little as possible for others to supply. If it is an error of judgment to aim at so high a standard in a work on which the Corporation of London sets its seal, I plead guilty to the charge. Had my ability been adequate to the realisation of the idea present to my mind, it would have been my ambition to issue on behalf of the Corporation a work which might (si parva licet componere magnis) be as serviceable in its way to the genealogist and the historian of the future as the admirable series of Calendars by Dr. Sharpe, with their invaluable introductions, the publication of which by the governing body of the City has made many generations of future researchers its debtors.

That the execution of the work is far from commensurate with its author's conception I am only too conscious, and the fact that I am at times a fastidious and ungentle critic of other workers in the wide field of historical research would deprive me of any claim, if I desired to put one forward, to deprecate any severity of judgment on the part either of professional reviewers or of ordinary readers who may light upon uncorrected errors. I may, however, be permitted to draw special attention to the copious lists of Corrigenda (pp. 225-234, 409-422), in which, acting on the principle of which Mr. Cokayne ("G.E.C."), in his monumental Complete Peerage, has provided such an excellent illustration as a model for all future compilers of books of reference, I have noted all those deviations from accuracy, whether due to myself or to the printer (chiefly the former), which have not eluded my repeated efforts to detect them since these pages have been in type. I think it will be found that I have corrected not a few errata, especially in dates and numerals, which would in all probability have never been discovered, except possibly by Dr. Sharpe, had I not myself drawn attention to them.

I regret exceedingly that I did not, before printing the Ward Lists in Part I., direct my attention to the question of the accuracy of the Knighthoods ascribed in such profusion by most writers on the subject to early Mayors and Aldermen, and that consequently not a few errors of designation, due to Stow and others who have blindly followed him, are reproduced in this portion of the work; they are, however, corrected individually in the Corrigenda pages, and collectively in the special article on Aldermanic Knights and Baronets (pp. 255-260).

Anyone who may propose to use this book for the purposes of reference or research should be careful to supplement and correct the text from the Addenda and Corrigenda.

It remains for me to acknowledge the generous help I have received from many sources, and to apologise to any whose names I may pass over inadvertently in doing so.

In the first place my thanks are due in an especial degree to Mr. Deputy Baddeley,*<sup>1</sup> the publication of whose monograph on The Aldermen of Cripplegate Ward, (which with its valuable incidental articles to supplement the main subject of the book, has not only set an excellent example for others to follow, but has supplied an admirable model for their imitation), originally suggested the preparation of this work. I am indebted to him not only as the proposer of the motion in the Court of Common Council which sanctioned its publication under the authority of the Corporation, but also for the unflinching interest he has taken in its progress. In this connexion I must not omit to recognise the encouragement I received from the late Alderman Sir Reginald Hanson.

From the officials at Guildhall, who could in any way assist me, I have received most valuable aid. To the Records Clerk, Dr. Reginald R. Sharpe, it is impossible for me adequately to express a fraction of the measure of my obligations. His unique knowledge of all that pertains to the civic history of London has been placed ungrudgingly at my disposal: he has personally helped me to decipher or interpret countless entries in the records, has answered innumerable questions (often communicated in what are regarded by him and others as quasi-hieroglyphic characters), and during many years has devoted no inconsiderable portion of his time and attention to the elucidation of difficult points which I submitted to him for solution or comment. Whatever merit this work may possess in point of accuracy is largely due to his assistance.

*<sup>1</sup>The election on the 27th ult. of Mr. Deputy Baddeley to the office of Sheriff of London by a higher aggregate poll than has been recorded for any Commoner since 1723, the total of his votes having only once been exceeded by an Aldermanic Candidate, (in the case of Sir J. C. Dimsdale, the present Chamberlain, in 1893), for more than 130 years, is not only evidence of his personal popularity, but a well-deserved tribute to the active interest which he has manifested not only in the official business of the Corporation of London at the present day, but in all that tends to illustrate its historical development in the remote past and the steps by which it has attained to its unique prestige in the eyes of the world.

To the late and to the present City Librarians, Mr. C. Welch and Mr. E. M. Borrajo, I am indebted for constant and valuable help, always most courteously and readily rendered, and to the Library Staff generally for the invariable promptness with which my researches have been at all times facilitated, and in particular to Mr. Bernard Kettle for the alacrity and thoroughness with which he has repeatedly looked up authorities and made extracts for me when I have been unable to be present in London, as well as for occasional hints and suggestions as to sources of information with which I was not familiar.

Mr. F. J. Craker, of the Town Clerk's Office, has been always ready to aid my researches with his valuable notes, and the MS. List of Aldermen which he compiled many years ago served as a basis, and a very sound one, on which to start my work.

To the Clerks of many of the City Companies I have to express my grateful acknowledgments, in particular to the late Sir W. Sawyer (Drapers), Mr. Somers-Smith (Grocers), Mr. J. Wrench Towse (Fishmongers), Sir Owen Roberts and Mr. MacIntyre Evans (Clothworkers), the late Mr. Townend (Haberdashers), Mr. W. Arnold Hepburn (Leathersellers), Sir Walter Prideaux (Goldsmiths), Colonel Sewell (Spectacle Makers), Mr. Cecil Jennings (Loriners), and Mr. Higgins (Brewers), not merely for their assistance, but for the sympathetic and liberal spirit in which it has been accorded. In the case of some other Companies, if I received less ample help it was due rather to the meagreness of the material at command than to unwillingness to supply it. I must add a special expression of thanks to Mr. E. H. Beale, of Grocers' Hall, whose MS. collections relating to his Company have been very useful to me.

The Clerk of one of the minor Companies, which has contributed but few members to the Court of Aldermen in the last 250 years, expressed his readiness to consult his books on prepayment of a fee of a guinea. I fully appreciated his zeal in endeavouring to turn an honest penny for the benefit of his Company, but feeling that the information he could supply would probably be dear at the price, I determined to do without it, and I trust the value of the book has not suffered materially in consequence.

From a leading member of one of the greater Companies, more closely associated with the Corporation of London in earlier than later centuries, I extracted, with some difficulty, a considerable amount of more or less definite information, the value of the matter not being enhanced by any excess of suavity in the manner in which it was supplied, and the general attitude of the responsible officials of this particular Company with regard to the communication of any portion of the contents of the ancient records in their charge, which would afford invaluable material to the student of London History, was irresistibly suggestive of a familiar Æsopian fable which it would be superfluous to particularize more plainly.

I have received from other sources a great deal of valuable information, much of which will be utilized in the concluding portion of this work, relating to the Aldermen connected with the City Hospitals (for which I am indebted to Sir W. Vaughan Morgan, Mr. Wingfield Cross, Mr. Brewer and others), to the City Lieutenancy and the Trained Bands (the records relating to which I examined by the courtesy of Mr. C. F. Monckton), to the Irish Society (for which I have to thank Mr. Durie Miller) and to the Honourable Artillery Company (supplied very fully by Mr. B. Mills).

IN addition to the many officials connected with the Corporation and other civic institutions, I have to thank the Rev. W. J. Loftie, one of the greatest living authorities on the early history of London, for most helpful suggestions in regard to the introductory pages of Part II., and I have had the inestimable advantage of constant communication with Mr. G. E. Cokayne (Clarencieux King-at-Arms), whose knowledge is colossal and who stands alone in his special field of research, as well as with my old friend Mr. Duncombe Pink, whom all readers of Notes and Queries, as well as those who have the privilege of his personal acquaintance, know to be one of the most competent genealogists of his time, and to be in himself a kind of Court of Final Appeal on all matters relating to Members of Parliament in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. To these I must add Dr. W. A. Shaw, the learned and painstaking Editor of The Knights of England, who has frequently helped me by referring to documents at the Record Office, and in other ways given me the benefit of his stores of knowledge. •

I conclude with an apology for the long delay in issuing this volume, which is mainly due to the difficulties under which circumstances compel me to work, as I live in a provincial town and am able to spend an aggregate of only a few weeks each year in London, while my professional engagements at home have prevented me from applying myself continuously to its preparation at other times.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

In the Ward Lists, the word acting denotes that the person against whose name it is placed is either described definitely as Alderman of the particular Ward indicated at that date, or (as is more generally the case) as 'Alderman of that Ward' (illius Wardæ) which can be identified from the locality of the property dealt with in the deed which the Alderman is recorded as attesting.

The word present refers to the attendance at the Court of Aldermen, and shows that at the date indicated the person referred to was an Alderman, though his Ward is not specified or in any way suggested.

With the exception of the annual elections of 1377-1394, and the short periods 1350-1357, 1368-1377, 1423-1429, the actual dates of the elections of Aldermen of Wards are rarely given in the Guildhall Records until 1437, since which year there are only a comparatively few cases in which they have not been preserved. When such dates of election are not given, we can only approximate to them by noting and comparing the earliest and latest records of the attendance or "acting" of each individual Alderman.

It will be seen in the following pages that very close approximations are in most cases possible. In order to get these, the author has gone through and carefully noted all the attendances of Aldermen recorded in Letter Books A to K, and the entries in the Hustling Rolls and elsewhere, identifying, or facilitating the identifications of, the Wards for which they respectively served.

It is only in the later years of this period that specific identifications of the Wards are of common occurrence; in the great majority of the earlier instances, the Hustling Rolls and the Ancient Deeds at the Record Office give only the Parish or Parishes in which the property is situate in connexion with which the Alderman is named.

Some Parishes are or were entirely included in one Ward; in these cases there is no difficulty. They are the following (arranged under their respective Wards):—

ALDERSGATE.—St. Anne, Aldersgate; St. Botolph, Aldersgate.

ALDGATE.—St. Katharine Coleman (or Allhallows, Colemanchurch); St. Katharine Creed (or Cree), Holy Trinity the Great.*<sup>1</sup>

BASSISHAW.—St. Michael, Bassishaw.

BILLINGSGATE.—St. Andrew Hubbard; St. Botolph, Billingsgate; St. George, Botolph Lane (or Eastcheap); St. Mary-at-Hill.

BISHOPSGATE.—St. Ethelburga; St. Botolph, Bishopsgate; St. Helen.

BREAD STREET.—St. John Evangelist; St. Margaret Moses.

BRIDGE.—St. Magnus.

BROAD STREET.—St. Bartholomew Exchange (or the Little); St. Benet Fink; St. Peter-le-Poor.

CASTLE BAYNARD.—St. Andrew, Wardrobe; St. Benet, Paul's Wharf (or Woodwharf).

CHEAP.—All Hallows, Honey Lane; St. Martin, Pomeroy; St. Mary, Colechurch.

*<sup>1</sup>This was, doubtless, the Priory of Holy Trinity, which was geographically in Aldgate Ward, although the Prior was Alderman of Portsoken.

- COLEMAN STREET.—St. Stephen, Coleman Street.
 CORDWAINER.—St. Antholin; St. Mary Aldermay.
 CORNHILL.—St. Michael, Cornhill.
 CRIPPLEGATE.—St. Alban, Wood Street; St. Alphege; St. Mary, Aldermanbury;
 St. Michael, Wood Street (or Hoggen Lane); St. Giles, Cripplegate.
 DOWGATE.—All Hallows the Great (or at the Hay ['ad fanum']); All Hallows the Less (or super cellarium).
 FARRINGDON WITHIN.—St. Anne, Blackfriars; St. Nicholas Shambles; St. Ewen;
 St. Michael le Quern; St. Vedast, Foster Lane.
 FARRINGDON WITHOUT.—St. Andrew, Holborn; St. Bartholomew the Great; St.
 Bartholomew the Less; St. Bride; St. Dunstan in the West: St.
 Sepulchre.
 LIME STREET.—St. Augustine Pappey (or Papey); St. Mary Axe.
 PORTSOKEN.—St. Botolph, Aldgate.
 QUEENHITHE.—St. Mary Mouthaw; St. Mary Somerset; St. Michael, Queenhithe;
 St. Nicholas Olave.
 TOWER.—All Hallows, Barking; St. Dunstan in the East.
 VINTRY.—St. James, Garlickhithe; St. Martin, Vintry.
 WALBROOK.—St. Swithin, Candlewick Street.

The following Parishes were mainly in one Ward, though a few houses were in a second Ward (here enclosed in brackets):—

- CHRISTCHURCH.—Farringdon Within, (Castle Baynard).
 ST. DIONIS BACKCHURCH.—Langbourn, (Lime Street).
 ST. EDMUND THE KING.—Langbourn, (Cornhill).
 ST. GABRIEL (OR ST. MARY) FENCHURCH (OR FANCHURCH).—Langbourn, (Tower).
 ST. MARY WOOLNOTH.—Langbourn, (Cornhill).
 ST. NICHOLAS ACON.—Langbourn, (Candlewick).
 ST. GREGORY.—Castle Baynard, (Farringdon Within).
 ST. MARTIN, LUDGATE.—Farringdon Without, (Farringdon Within).
 ST. LEONARD, FOSTER LANE.—Aldersgate, (Farringdon Within).
 ST. MARY MAGDALEN, MILK STREET.—Cripplegate, (Bread Street).
 ST. MILDRED, BREAD STREET.—Bread Street, (Queenhithe).
 ST. OLAVE, JEWRY.—Coleman Street, (Cheap).
 ST. PANCRAS, SOPER LANE.—Cheap, (Cordwainer).

Other Parishes being in two or three different Wards, it is only indirectly that we can fix the particular Ward to which an Alderman named in connexion with that Parish should be assigned. Thus, if an Alderman is mentioned as acting for St. Mary Abchurch and for St. Mary Bothaw nearly contemporaneously, it may safely be inferred that he served for Walbrook, the Ward which comprises parts of both Parishes, and similarly if he acted for Allhallows, Gracechurch and Allhallows, London Wall, he would certainly be Alderman of Bishopsgate. The following list gives the Wards which include portions of the Parishes named with them.

- ALL HALLOWS, BREAD STREET.—Bread Street, Cordwainer.
 ST. ANDREW UNDERSHAFT (Also called St. Andrew, Cornhill).—Aldgate, Lime Street.
 ST. AUGUSTINE.—Bread Street, Farringdon Within.
 ST. BENET, GRACECHURCH.—Bridge, Langbourn.

- ST. BENET SHEREHOG.—Cordwainer, Cheap.
 ST. CHRISTOPHER.—Broad Street, Cornhill.
 ST. CLEMENT, EASTCHEAP (Also called St. Clement, Candlewick Street).—Candlewick, Langbourn.
 ST. FAITH.—Farringdon Within, Castle Baynard.
 ST. JOHN ZACHARY.—Aldersgate, Cripplegate.
 ST. LAWRENCE, JEWRY.—Cripplegate, Cheap.
 ST. LAWRENCE POUNTNEY (Also called St. Lawrence, Candlewick Street).—Dowgate, Candlewick.
 ST. MARGARET, LOTHBURY.—Coleman Street, Broad Street.
 ST. MARGARET, FISH STREET.—Bridge, Billingsgate.
 ST. MARGARET PATTENS.—Billingsgate, Tower.
 ST. MARTIN ORGAR.—Candlewick, Bridge.
 ST. MARTIN OUTWICH.—Bishopsgate, Broad Street.
 ST. MARY ABCHURCH.—Walbrook, Candlewick.
 ST. MARY-LE-BOW.—Cordwainer, Cheap.
 ST. MARY BOTHAW.—Dowgate, Walbrook.
 ST. MATTHEW, FRIDAY STREET.—Farringdon Within, Bread Street.
 ST. MICHAEL, CROOKED LANE.—Candlewick, Bridge.
 ST. MICHAEL, PATERNOSTER.—Vintry, Dowgate.
 ST. MILDRED, POULTRY.—Cheap, Broad Street.
 ST. NICHOLAS COLE ABBEY.—Bread Street, Queenhithe.
 ST. OLAVE, HART STREET.—Aldgate, Tower.

The foregoing details as to the material available for determining the Wards represented by Aldermen, and for approximating to their dates of election in the period anterior to specific records of such elections, will show that the preparation of the Ward Lists in the following pages was not, as might hastily be imagined, mere copying work, but has involved a considerable amount of what may be called "skilled labour." In many cases it was necessary to compare a dozen or a score of entries in the records before a particular conclusion could be satisfactorily established.

With regard to names of persons, I have not attempted to reproduce all the forms in which they are found, nor have I, on the other hand, adopted a rigidly uniform mode of spelling them in individual cases. The orthography of nomenclature, so far from being even approximately fixed, was liable to very eccentric variations at least as late as the 17th century, and even aspirates at the beginning of a name were supplied or omitted in the records and chronicles at the fancy of the scribe. I cannot determine satisfactorily whether the name of the Mayor of 1442-3 was Hatherle or Atherle, both forms (as well as other variants), occurring with sufficient frequency to establish some claim to authority. In the 17th century the name Elwes (the form of spelling which the family finally adopted), is written also Elwaies, Elways, Helwoys and Helwaies. The names of two eminent Lord Mayors, Penington and Pritchard, whose autograph signatures were in this form, are almost invariably represented as Pennington and Pritchard respectively. Where I have not been able to find evidence of the spelling adopted by the owner of the name, such cases being few before the 18th century, I have generally adopted what appears to be the predominant form, though in several instances I have found since the Ward Lists were in type, that the more or less close approximations in the records are not correct. "Peapes" for "Pepys" is an instance of a not unnatural attempt to represent sounds phonetically. In some cases curious perversions of the true form appear which are obviously due to eccentricities of penmanship, a source of error which I have perhaps exceptional qualifications for appreciating. In no other way can such a form as "Synah" be accounted for as a variant for "Lynch." Other eccentricities such as "Pharoh" for "Ferrer" would seem to be due to defects either of hearing or articulation, while some proceed from simple carelessness on the part of the clerk who entered the minutes, sublimely unconscious of the annoyance and trouble he was causing to a reader two centuries later. One supreme instance of this is to be found in Répertory 68, fo. 128 b, where the name of an Alderman whose election is there recorded appears in two forms, "John Godwin" and "George Godwin" in the actual minute, and in a third ("George Goodwyn") in the marginal summary, and to make confusion worse confounded, his successor is reported a few pages further on (fo. 134 b) to have taken the place of "John Godwyn." As I had no means of ascertaining how the worthy gentleman in question spelled his name himself, and I wished to observe strict impartiality as between the three forms appearing in the earlier entry, I have, at pp. 162, 337, adopted the later one ("John Godwyn") which is hardly more or less likely to be accurate than any of the others.

The Companies to which the Aldermen belonged are generally given in the few early records of election which have been preserved, (except where an Alderman was removed from one Ward to another), and with very few exceptions in those since the middle of the 16th century.*<sup>2</sup> Where the elections themselves are not actually recorded but have to be inferred as explained above, I have been able in very many instances to supply the Companies from other entries in the Letter Books, Journals or Husting Rolls. Details with regard to the association of the Aldermen with the respective Companies will be found in the special excursus at pp. 329-357. I regret that by an oversight I have in the Ward Lists inaccurately described some members of the old Guild of Tailors and Linen Armourers as Merchant Taylors, which latter designation dates only from 1503. These errors are corrected at pp. 226, 228, 230, 231, 233.

In recording the vacation of Aldermanic seats by voluntary withdrawal, I have taken the dates of official "discharge," an Alderman's resignation being not in itself complete, but only rendered effective when it has been accepted, and he has been formally "discharged," i.e. relieved of his charge. In one or two early instances the Alderman is said to have been "exonerated," or to have "surrendered" his Aldermanry.

In the dates of election and vacation (whether by death or resignation) of the early ex officio Aldermen of Portsoken (Priors of Holy Trinity) as given in the Ward List at pp. 180, 181, there are several errors discovered too late to be altered in the text. These errors which are due to the inaccuracy of the Liber Trinitatis (Guildhall transcript) and other authorities, I have corrected in the Addenda and Corrigenda, pp. 417, 418, and in the Chronological List in Part II.

In the footnotes to the Chronological List of Aldermen in Part II., I have corrected some errors in the articles on the persons indicated which appear in the Dictionary of National Biography. Had I not done so, I might have appeared to be ignorant of the discrepancies noted, and to have overlooked an authority of great weight and prestige. In these, as in other cases, I have not made such corrections rashly, and the inaccuracies I have pointed out are beyond question.

Some points of difficulty have arisen in the course of the preparation of this work, with regard to which I have seen occasion to modify the conclusion at which I had at first arrived. I have thought it best to indicate such cases, (and the reasons which have induced me to change my original opinion), in the later notes and corrigenda, at the risk of appearing to impair my own authority.

It should be noted that in year-dates I have throughout adopted the NEW STYLE for the sake of uniformity. It is often forgotten by writers who should be more careful, that previous to 1752 the official year began on March 25: hence a date between December 31 and March 25 was reckoned as belonging to the same year as the preceding Christmas Day. This is the case in all the civic records, as well as in the Wills preserved at Somerset House, throughout the period which preceded the change from the Julian to the Gregorian style in England. Consequently a large number of dates in this book may appear to be a year later than those given in other authorities.

All historians of repute are aware that the warrant for the judicial murder of Charles I. is dated January 1648, and that in original official documents the reign of William III. and Mary is represented as beginning in February 1688, but nevertheless all modern books assign to these events the dates 1649 and 1689 respectively, and there appears to be no good reason why this principle of dating, according to the New Style, should not be universally adopted with regard to less familiar occurrences. In the Calendars of State Papers a good example is set in this respect. It may be safely assumed that in most cases where the Old Style is used in modern works of reference, it is not so used of deliberate purpose, but from sheer forgetfulness and carelessness and disregard of the golden rule of the Oxford divine, "always verify your references."<sup>3</sup> The ideal method is, of course, to give the double date [e.g., 1296-7 for an event happening between December 31, 1296, and March 25, 1297 (new style)] as Dr. Sharpe has done in his Calendars, and I am conscious that I ought to have adopted that system in this book. I trust, however, that this explanation will remove all ambiguity on the point with regard to any of my dates.

Another remark it seems desirable to make on this subject of modes of dating. In the earlier period comprised in this work the original authorities are for the most part dated by regnal years, and by days of the week preceding or following some festival, when the occurrences chronicled did not take place on such a feast day. Thus the first election of William Walworth as Alderman is dated (Letter Book G, fol. 217) "Monday after the Feast of St. Martin, 42 Edw. III." Dr. Sharpe, in his Calendar, correctly inserts "[11 Nov.]" after "St. Martin's," and "[1368]" after "Edw. III.," the date "11 Nov.," of course, denoting St. Martin's Day, not the day of election, which was the following Monday, Nov. 13. In the Dictionary of National Biography the day of election is stated to be Nov. 11, the writer being apparently unfamiliar with the Church Kalendar, and hence misunderstanding Dr. Sharpe's date. Similarly the enrolment of Arnold fitz-Thedmar's Will [Hust. Roll 7 (35)] took place on "Monday, the morrow of the Feast of St. Sebastian, 3 Edw. I.," i.e., February 11, 1274-5, but the writer of the article on fitz-Thedmar in the D.N.B. (a historian of high repute and generally conspicuous for accuracy) has taken February 10, the date of the feast (as supplied by Dr. Sharpe), as being that of "the morrow of the feast."

I have taken warning from the way in which the dates of so accurate an authority as Dr. Sharpe have been misunderstood by these and other writers, and have, therefore, in all cases where the day of the week preceding or following a festival is the date given in the original MS., consulted the almanac for the year and adopted the precise day of the month thus supplied. This will account for some apparent discrepancies between my dates and those given elsewhere. I may say, generally, that (except for exact dates of death, as to which there are frequent variations in contemporary authorities) in almost every case in which my dates differ from those of other writers I am aware of the fact, and have adopted those in the text of this book deliberately, subject to the corrections therein contained, on what appears to me to be more or less trustworthy evidence.

Finally, mistakes are frequently made in representing regnal years by the corresponding dates A.D. Such mistakes are unhappily to be found where one would least expect to find them, and are the more worthy of censure in proportion to the higher reputation of those who commit them or of the works in which they occur. Many writers seem to think that all that is required to fix such a date as (e.g.) 4 Edward III., is to add 4 to 1327, the date of that King's accession, by which process they arrive at 1331, and ascribe every event occurring in 4 Edward III. to that year. This short and easy method is delusive. Regnal years are reckoned from the day of accession, and as this in Edward III.'s case was January 25, 1327, it follows that his fourth year ended on January 24, and his fifth year began on January 25, 1331, and any events occurring at a later period of the latter year should be dated 5 Edward III. Similarly as our present King began to reign in January 1901, it is a necessary consequence that the date at which I am now writing (July, 1908) is in the year 8 (not 7) Edward VII. An excellent example of the mistakes primarily due to such misreckoning of regnal years is afforded by the writer of the article on Sir Thomas More, in the Dictionary of National Biography, who makes More cease to be Under-Sheriff of London on July 23, 1519. The biographer has probably not seen the original authority, but followed, without taking the precaution to verify, some one who has misunderstood it. In Rep. 3, fo. 221 and Letter Book N, fo. 86, More's resignation is recorded under date, Friday, July 23, 10 Henry VIII. (i.e. 1518). A reference to the Almanac would have told the biographer (or the informant who has misled him) that July 23 fell on a Friday in 1518 and not in 1519, even had he been ignorant of the fact that as Henry VIII. began to reign April 22, 1509, a date in July, 10 Henry VIII., must necessarily be in the year 1518. When "old hands" of such literary eminence as the biographer in question go astray in matters of this kind, one is tempted to exclaim Nusquam tuta fides.

I have thought it desirable to explain these points fully, in order that it may be clear that in stating dates throughout this work, the considerations which should always be, but frequently are not, present to the mind of an author dealing with such matters have not been entirely overlooked, and while I am far from being vain enough to hope, or to deem it possible, that in the mass of facts, figures and dates which this book contains there are no errors, I trust it is not presumptuous to say that I have done my best to attain to a somewhat higher level of accuracy than appears to be deemed sufficient by more than one or two writers of much more firmly established literary standing than I can dream of attaining, even when they are engaged on works of reference which are in fact, as well as in name, of national rather than individual importance.

It fully confirms the suggestion made in the note as to the exchange of Wards between Parsons and Hawkins and the date at which it took place.

Note A.—Seccheford is mentioned as acting as Alderman of Cripplegate Ward, March 17 and April 25, 1336 [H.R., 63 (179) (189)] but it is not clear that this was a permanent appointment, and it seems probable that he was only acting pro tem. in Cripplegate, and retained or resumed his Aldermanry of Aldersgate. His successor in Cripplegate, Richard Costantyn is mentioned as being present with Seccheford among the Aldermen on July 22, 1336 (Letter Book E., fo. 248 b), this being the latest notice of Seccheford's appearance, and Crane who succeeded him in Aldersgate is not named as an Alderman until the following November. The most natural inference seems to be that in July Seccheford was Alderman of Aldersgate. It is, however, possible that Costantyn may have succeeded him in Aldersgate as well as afterwards in Cripplegate, but there is no evidence that such was the case.

Note B.—There is no official record of Hatherle as Alderman of Aldersgate Ward. I have assigned him to this Ward for the following reasons which appear conclusive: (1) From the reference in the text and other places, it is clear that he was an Alderman from at least as early as 1434; (2) a comparison of dates at H.R. 161 (49) and 163 (24) proves that Brockle removed from Aldersgate to Candlewick between May 12, 1433 and December 6, 1434; (3) the references given under Queenhithe prove that Hatherle became Alderman of that Ward between October 13 and December 1, 1437; (4) Sutton must have come to Aldersgate from Farringdon Without shortly before December 9, 1437, when his successor in the latter Ward was elected. There is thus strong positive presumptive evidence in favour of Hatherle's representing Aldersgate in the Court of Aldermen between 1434 and 1437, and there is the negative evidence that there is no other Ward unaccounted for during the period for which he could have served.

Note A.—There is no official record connecting Gisors with Bassishaw. It is, however, certain from various entries in the Letter Books that he was an Alderman of some Ward continuously from 1306 till after October 23, 1309, on which day he was present at a Court of Aldermen (Letter Book D, fo. 2). From the references quoted under Langbourn, it will appear that R. de Refham was transferred from Bassishaw to that Ward between October, 1305, and September, 1306. Gisors was admitted Alderman of Vintry on March 2, 1310, having been elected some time previously, the exact date not being recorded, and J. de Lincoln, as stated above, was chosen Alderman of Bassishaw on February 3 in that year. It will be seen that these dates point to Bassishaw being the Ward of which Gisors was Alderman between 1306 and 1310, and as all the other Wards are accounted for during that period, there seems to be no room for doubting that he should be assigned to it.

Note A.—THE ALDERMEN OF BILLINGSGATE, 1382.—According to the list of Aldermen chosen at the annual election of March, 1382, as given in Letter Book H, fo. 140, Exton was, as stated in the text, Alderman of Billingsgate. But at fo. 154 where his removal and the election of his successor, MAUNFELD (elsewhere called MAGHFELD), is recorded, the Ward is given as Queenhithe, and Dr. Sharpe ("London and the Kingdom," vol. I., p. 223) has accordingly, in noting the fact of Exton's removal assigned him to that ward, referring with his usual accuracy to the official records under his charge. It is, however, beyond doubt that there is an error on the part of the original scribe which had remained uncorrected for more than 500 years, inasmuch as MAUNFELD's name appears as acting Alderman of Billingsgate in three separate entries in Hustings Roll 111 (28, 33, 60), at the dates September 24, October 16, November 9, 1382. This evidence (for which I am indebted to Dr. Sharpe, who, since I called his attention to the possibility of an error in his authority, has examined the point for me very carefully) is conclusive in itself, and it receives additional confirmation from the following considerations: (1) at fo. 140 and also H.R. 110, (131), under date, June 7, 1382, the name of the Alderman of Queenhithe is given as WILLIAM NEUPORT, and it appears from ff. 58, 121 b, that he had represented that Ward in 1377 and 1380: (2) Exton had not represented any ward previously to 1382, but he was again elected for Billingsgate annually from 1385 to 1391 inclusive, and was succeeded in 1392 by MAGHFELD, whose name does not, in the interim or subsequently, appear as Alderman of Queenhithe, or of any other ward than Billingsgate. These facts, had they stood alone, would have rendered it more probable that Queenhithe has by a clerical error been written for Billingsgate at fo. 154, than that the wards of Exton and NEUPORT have been interchanged at fo. 140.

* The date in the MS. (Letter Book C, fo. 36 b), as well as in Dr. Sharpe's Calendar, is given as 26 Edw. I. Russell) and the Sheriffs (Darmenters and Fyngrie), here named as acting in these offices, were not elected till 1299. Moreover preceding and subsequent entries on this and the following folio refer to 1299 and not to 1298.

Note A.—I have inserted John de Norhamton here with considerable confidence but without certainty, as there is no official record connecting him with Bishopsgate Ward. His presence at a Court of Aldermen is recorded under dates December 10, 1298, March 31, 1299, and July 30, 1299, in Letter Books C, ff. 25 b, 28 b, B. fo. 39 b (xcix.), he being described at the first of these references as "John de Norhamton, son of John de Nott" (i.e. Nottingham). He is almost certainly identical with the John de Norhamton, junior, the executors of whose will are named, under date November 24, 1299, in Letter Book C, fo. 40 b (xcviii.). His tenure of a seat in the Court of Aldermen thus coincides with the interval between H. le Bole and S. de Paris, Aldermen of Bishopsgate.

Note B.—I am unable to find any record of the name of the Alderman of Billingsgate between 1415 and 1417, or anything which would aid me in suggesting a possible name which might be inserted. A very obvious solution would be that the date (1415), given by Stow and others as that of Barentyn's death was an error of pen or type for 1417, but in addition to the fact that his last recorded attendance is on October 13, 1415 (Letter Book I, fo. 159), there is positive evidence from H. R. 143 (35), where the executors of his will are named, that he was dead before July, 1416. Nor can the date of Whytingham's election be antedated from 1417 to 1415, for although the exact day is not given, the entries immediately before and after are dated 5 Hen. V., and on the same page are found Thursday, December 23, and Tuesday, January 11, the days of the week and month being those for December, 1417 and January, 1418. The names of Aldermen present at meetings of the Court on October 13, 1416, January 10, 1417, February 11, 1417, October 13, 1417, are preserved, there being as many as 24 out of a possible 25 on the last of these occasions, but each of them can be definitely assigned to another ward than Bishopsgate. It is possible that the Ward was without an Alderman for two years, but it is difficult to conceive the reason, if such was the case.

Note C.—The changes in the Aldermanic representation of certain wards in the years 1469 and 1470 as recorded in the Journals present difficulties which are almost inexplicable. The following are the data and the conclusion at which, after a very careful consideration of all the evidence, I have arrived. Five wards being necessarily affected by the course of the changes indicated, of which Bishopsgate is the first in alphabetical order, I have here set out in one comprehensive Note the nature of the problem to be solved and the grounds on which my solution has been adopted.

It is clear that at the beginning of 1469 the Aldermen of the Wards in question were:—

Bishopsgate	.. .. .	R. LEE.
Broad Street	.. .. .	J. CROSBY.
Lime Street	.. .. .	W. HULYN.
Walbrook	.. .. .	W. COSTANTYN.
Castle Baynard	.. .. .	Sir H. WAVER.

The Journals record the following elections and discharges from that date:—

June 7, 1469 (Journal vii., fo. 194), R. LEE, Walbrook.
 July 29, 1469 (Journal vii., fo. 198), R. FADYAN, lately elected for Bishopsgate, discharged
 November 28, 1469 (Journal vii., fo. 207). W. HARYOT, Castle Baynard, vice WAVER.
 March 23, 1470 (Journal vii., fo. 213), J. CROKE, Castle Baynard, vice WAVER.
 May 14, 1470 (Journal vii., fo. 215 b), R. LEE, Lime Street.
 November 8, 1470 (Journal viii., fo. 1 b), J. CROKE exonerated (Ward not stated).
 December 14, 1470 (Journal viii., fo. 2), J. STOKTON, Lime Street, vice CROKE.
 April 21st, 1472 (Journal viii., fo. 19 b), Sir B. JAMES, Walbrook, vice LEE, deceased.

The Husting Rolls show that the following Aldermen were acting for the undermentioned wards at the dates here given:—

December 1, 1468 [H.R. 198 (22)], Sir H. WAVER, Castle Baynard.
 June 1, 1470, and July 4, 1470 [H.R. 200 (11), (15)], W. HARYOT, Castle Baynard.
 November 5, 1470 [H.R. 190, (9)] W. HARYOT, Broad Street.
 February 8, 1472 [H.R. 201 (16)], Sir W. STOKKER, Castle Baynard.

In a list of Aldermen with their Wards recorded in Journal viii., fo. 282 in connection with an assessment of sums to be levied in the various wards by authority of Act of Parliament 12 Edward IV., the next preceding date in the Journal being May 8, 1472, the names stand thus:—

Bishopsgate	.. .. .	Sir J. CROSBY.
Broad Street	.. .. .	W. HERIOT.
Lime Street	.. .. .	Sir J. STOKTON.
Walbrook	.. .. .	Sir B. JAMES.
Castle Baynard	.. .. .	Sir W. STOKKER.

Waver attended the Court of Aldermen with great regularity after November 28, 1469 (the date of the election of Haryot to succeed him in Castle Baynard), having been present on December 1, 6, 12 and January 10, 15, 19, 24 (Journal vii., ff. 207, 207 b, 209, 210), his attendances ceasing after the last-mentioned date. Haryot was present with Waver on January 10, 15 and 24, as well as on December 16, when Waver was absent. There can therefore be no doubt that Waver represented some other ward than Castle Baynard in November and December 1469 and January 1470. Croke's first attendance was on March 28, 1470 (Journal vii., fo. 213), and he was present on 29 occasions between that date and October 13.

It seems, then, beyond question, that Crosby removed from Broad Street to Bishopsgate between 1469 and 1472, that Haryot (Heriot) followed Waver as Alderman of Castle Baynard in 1469, and that Haryot had succeeded Crosby in Broad Street before November, 1470 at the latest and most probably before July 17, 1470, on which day (Journal vii., fo. 219) Stokker, his successor in Castle Baynard, is first recorded to have been present at a Court of Aldermen. It is also evident that Lee did not remove from Walbrook to Lime Street but that he remained Alderman of the former ward till his death. Waver's seat for Castle Baynard is recorded as being filled up twice, viz.: by Haryot, in November, 1469, and by Croke in March, 1470, but Castle Baynard in the later entry is almost certainly a slip of the pen for some other Ward.

The most probable solution of the difficulties presented by the various records and omissions in the Journals and Husting Rolls seems to be the following:—

Autumn of 1469, Waver removed to Bishopsgate and was succeeded in Castle Baynard by Haryot.

March, 1470, Croke was elected for Bishopsgate (not Castle Baynard) on the death or discharge of Waver.

May, 1470, Lee was elected for Lime Street in place of Hulyon, who probably died about that time (he being then Alderman and his last recorded attendance on February 17, 1470 [Journal vii., fo. 211 b]), but he (Lee), apparently declined to remove from his Ward of Walbrook, and Lime Street was then taken by Croke, who had been one of the four candidates nominated at Lee's election, thus vacating Bishopsgate, to which Crosby removed from Broad Street, whereupon Haryot removed from Castle Baynard to Broad Street about July, 1470, and was succeeded in Castle Baynard by W. Stokker.

I think that this solution, though not entirely free from difficulties, is of all that can be suggested, the least inconsistent with the names and dates as recorded in the Journals and Husting Rolls.

Note A.—I have assigned Clopton to this Ward from 1492 to 1496, but it is at least possible that the Alderman of Bread Street during this period was William Purchase (see Cheap and Dowgate Wards), though the balance of probability seems to be in favour of the former. There is no direct evidence so far as I can discover, of Clopton's serving for Bread Street at all, nor is there any record to show beyond doubt the Ward or Wards represented by Purchase before his removal (during his Mayoralty) to Cheap on February 1, 1498. It may, however, be inferred from the fact that a vacancy in Dowgate was filled up on February 5, that he was transferred to Cheap from Dowgate. The last Alderman of Dowgate recorded before that date is Clopton, who was present in October 1495, and appears to have died between March 8, 1496, the date of his will, and February 13, 1497, when it was enrolled [H.R. 224 (15)]. Purchase first appears as an Alderman in 1492; the last recorded attendance of Billesdon, Alderman of Bread Street, was in December 1491, and Shaa was elected for Bread Street in June, 1496. From this it will be seen that the assignment of Clopton to Bread Street from 1492 to 1496 and of Purchase to Dowgate from 1492 to 1498 is entirely consistent with the other facts recorded. The only other alternative appears to be that Clopton may have remained Alderman of Dowgate till 1496, when he was succeeded by Purchase who had been elected for Bread Street in 1492.

It should be noted that the Bread Street vacancy in 1492 occurred during Clopton's Mayoralty, and that it was quite a common occurrence for the Lord Mayor to change his Ward during his year of office. This consideration seems to support the theory adopted in the text, while the alternative solution of the difficulty involves the placing of Purchase in three Wards successively within a period of six years, which is somewhat improbable, although similar instances may be found.

Note A.—The contest in 1774 was political, Neate being supported by Wilkes (then Lord Mayor), and Hart by the Court party and the personal opponents of Wilkes. The contemporary newspapers give the votes of the Aldermen for and against admitting Hart, which it is interesting to record as showing the political complexion of the Court at that time. 12 Aldermen voted for admitting Hart, viz.: Alsop, Harley, Shakespeare, Sir J. Esdaile, Plumbe, Kennett, Townsend, Oliver, Plomer, Sir W. Rawlinson, Thomas and Hopkins. The minority of 8 was composed of Aldermen Sir C. Asgill, Crosby, Kirkman, Sawbridge, Bull, Sir W. Lewes, Hayley and Newnham. Wilkes, presiding as Lord Mayor, did not vote, and four were absent, Aldermen Bridgen, Sir T. Hallifax, Turner and Peckham. Of the majority, Townsend and Oliver were strong Whigs, but were in personal opposition to Wilkes.

ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF LONDON

BRIDGE WARD WITHOUT.

BRIDGE WARD WITHOUT, comprising the Borough of Southwark, was created by the Court of Aldermen in May, 1550, in consequence of the Charter of Edward VI. (April 23, 1550), which enacted that the town and borough of Southwark should be under the government of the Lord Mayor and officers of the City of London. An Act of Common Council, July 31, 1550, provided that at future elections the inhabitants of the Borough should nominate four freemen of the City from whom the Court of Aldermen should choose one, but this provision was altogether ignored at the next ensuing elections in 1553 and 1556, when the Court nominated the four from whom the final selection was made, and it was repealed by a further Act of June 16, 1558, which gave the Court the right, which on these occasions it had assumed, and this course was followed until the Act of 1711 established the custom which has prevailed from that time to the present day.

Note A.—The election of W. Alleyn appears to have been set aside, as he was not sworn and no further reference to it is to be found. It is expressly stated that the election of his successor (Harper) on June 21, was in accordance with the Act of Common Council of June 16, which legalized the procedure adopted at Alleyn's election as well as at the two previous ones in 1553 and 1556. It seems natural to infer that the technical informality of Alleyn's election was recognized and that it was consequently regarded as void.

Note B.—There have been 27 removals to Bridge Without since the passing of the Act of 1711: on 16 of these occasions the Senior Alderman who had passed the Chair has accepted the Ward. The Wards of Broad Street, Castle Baynard, Dowgate, Langbourn, Lime Street, Portsoken, Vintry and Walbrook, have each contributed two Aldermen; those of Aldersgate, Aldgate, Bassishaw, Billingsgate, Bishopsgate, Bridge Within, Broad Street, Candlewick, Cheap, Coleman Street and Tower, one each. No Alderman has, within this period, been transferred from Cordwainer, Cornhill, Cripplegate, Queenhithe, or either of the Wards of Farringdon. Of these Cornhill and Queenhithe are the only ones which have never had an Alderman of sufficient seniority at the time of a vacancy to have an opportunity of removal to Bridge Without.

[Sir H. Master (Coleman Street), who was actually senior Alderman in 1745, and Sir J. Hankey (Langbourn) and W. Baker (Bassishaw), who were the two senior Aldermen in 1758, had not passed the Chair.]

Note A.—It is not quite clear when Wotton succeeded Framlyngham as Alderman of Broad Street, and I am not fully satisfied that he held the Aldermanry of that Ward, though it appears most probable that such was the case. The facts recorded in the Letter Books and Husting Rolls at Guildhall are as follows: Framlyngham is described as Alderman of the Ward in which certain property within the parish of St. Mildred, Poultry, was situate, February 24, 1407 [H.R. 134 (104)]. That parish comprised portions of the Wards of Cheap and Broad Street. He was present at Courts of Aldermen held on October 13 (the day of election of Mayor) in the years 1402, 1403, and 1404 [Letter Book I, ff. 13 b, 26 b, 36], but no later attendance is recorded. He appears to have died in the year 1407, as his will, dated March 8, 1406 (i.e. 1406-7) was enrolled November 21, 1407 [H.R. 135 (48)]. Wotton is stated in H.R. 133 (24) to have been acting as Alderman of the Ward in which property within the parish of St. Margaret, Lornuway, was situate, on December 1, 1404. This parish comprised portions of Broad Street and Coleman Street. I have not found any other reference connecting him with any particular Ward earlier than June 28, 1407 [H.R. 135 (33)] when he acted as Alderman in connexion with property situate in the parish of All Hallows, 'ad foenum' (i.e. All Hallows the Great) which is entirely in Dowgate Ward; this Ward he undoubtedly represented continuously from that date till 1446. He appears to have been present at a Court of Aldermen on October 13, 1404, and also on October 13, 1406, and July 5, 1407 [Letter Book I, ff. 56, 54, 59 b], but on the two last of these dates he is named as Sheriff only, and not as being necessarily an Alderman also. Both Wotton and Framlyngham were present, if the minutes are correctly recorded, on October 13, 1404, and they could not have been Aldermen of Broad Street simultaneously. The solution suggests itself that either Framlyngham was Alderman of Cheap or Wotton of Coleman Street in 1404, but W. Staundon was Alderman of the former and T. Fauconer of the latter both before and after that date, and there is no evidence of discontinuity in their service, except the purely negative fact that no attendance of Staundon is recorded between 1401 and 1406: Fauconer was present (with Wotton and Framlyngham) on October 13, 1404. Staundon was present on October 13, 1406, and July 5, 1407 [Letter Book I, ff. 54, 59 b] and was acting as Alderman for Cheap Ward September 1, 1407 [H.R. 135 (79)] and was therefore in all probability Alderman of that Ward in February, 1407, in which case Framlyngham must then have been Alderman of Broad Street, on the assumption that the entry in H.R. 135 (104) is correct.

On the whole it seems most probable that there is some error in one or more of the entries at the references above quoted which it is now impossible to rectify. I am inclined to suggest that Framlyngham retired from the Court of Aldermen shortly before October 13, 1404, and that his name is inserted erroneously among those present on that date; that he was succeeded in Broad Street by Wotton, who removed to Dowgate about the end of 1406 in succession to W. Askham, who was Alderman of that Ward on March 1, 1406 [H.R. 133* (66)], and until transferred to Bridge on the death of W. Brampton between November 6, 1406 and February 28, 1407 [H.R. 134 (58)]. On Wotton's removal Framlyngham may have been again elected for Broad Street and held the Aldermanry of the Ward till his death, which, as stated above, took place between March and November, 1407, or may have acted temporarily till the election of Halton, who was in possession of this Aldermanry in July, 1407.

It is also possible that Wotton was not an Alderman until 1407 and was then elected for Dowgate during his shrievalty, but it is difficult in that case to explain the appearance of his name both in the Letter Book and in the Husting Roll in 1404.

Note B.—At the poll (March 20, 1741) Ewer received 146 votes to 132 for Charles Egleton (Salter), but on the scrutiny, which closed on April 9, the numbers were reduced to 117 each. Both at the poll and at the scrutiny Sir John Barnard presided, having been appointed to hold the Wardmote in the absence, through illness, of the Lord Mayor (Alderman Parsons) who died on March 21. The new Lord Mayor (Alderman Lambert) held another Wardmote on April 13, when Ewer and Egleton were again nominated, and Ewer was declared elected; Egleton, who claimed to have a majority of legal votes at the preceding election, declined to demand a fresh poll. Both parties applied for a mandamus to the Court of King's Bench to compel the Court of Aldermen to admit them; on November 5 the case of Egleton was heard, and it was decided that he was not duly elected. This was reported to the Court of Aldermen on November 10, when Ewer claimed to be admitted, and Egleton was called upon to show cause against his admission. At the next meeting of the Court (November 17) Ewer was sworn. This was a political contest, Egleton being the Ministerial (Walpolean) candidate, and Ewer representing the Opposition party of Tories and malcontent Whigs. The Lord Mayor (Lambert) was a strong adherent of the anti-Walpole party, as were also his successor (Sir R. Godschall), who came into office before the election was decided, and Sir John Barnard, before whom the original poll and scrutiny were taken.

Note A.—There is no direct evidence that Cotton was Alderman of Castle Baynard. His successor in Cripplegate, T. Aleyn, was serving for that Ward as early as December 23, 1415 [H.R. 143 (58)], but Cotton continued to be an Alderman until November 26, 1416 [Journal 1, fo. 4 b]. Michell left Castle Baynard for Bridge in 1415, as he was Alderman of that Ward on October 5, and his predecessor (N. Ashton) on April 24 in that year [H.R. 143 (37, 31)]. Perneys was elected Alderman of Castle Baynard December 18, 1416, very shortly after Cotton's discharge. It will thus be seen that the interval between Aleyn's appearance as Alderman of Cripplegate and Cotton's discharge from the office of Alderman almost exactly corresponds with those between Michell's removal from Castle Baynard to Bridge and the election of Perneys for the former Ward, and it is reasonable to infer that Cotton filled the vacancy which the translation of Michell had created.

Note B.—Parsons, who was appointed to Castle Baynard, and Hawkins, who was appointed to Portsoken, appear to have exchanged Wards immediately afterwards. The Commission, however (if such was ever issued), under which the exchange took place is not preserved, or at any rate, cannot now be found amongst those at Guildhall, nor is there any record of it in the Repertory. St. Amand's commission as successor of Hawkins at his death, is also missing, and in its absence we may assume the possibility, though I do not take that view, that in Rep. 93, fo. 497, "Castle Baynard" is a mistake of the original scribe for "Portsoken." Mr. F. R. Craker, of the Town Clerk's office, who has compiled a valuable M.S. list of the Aldermen of the Wards, gives under Castle Baynard { "August 6, 1687—Parsons vice Turner."
"August 12, 1687—Hawkins vice Parsons."
and under Portsoken { "August 12, 1687—Hawkins vice Smith."
"August 24, 1687—Parsons vice Hawkins."

The Commission of August 12 is preserved at Guildhall and shows that Hawkins was appointed to Portsoken and not to Castle Baynard on that day. It is possible, and indeed not improbable, that in Castle Baynard Mr. Craker has written "12" for "24" (August) by mistake, and that on the latter date an exchange of Wards between Parsons and Hawkins was effected. Mr. Craker cannot now remember his authority, but I believe that he is substantially accurate except for the error in the day of the month which I have suggested.

Note C.—There is no note in the Guildhall records to explain Turner's return to the Court of Aldermen in 1690, beyond the fact that he was present on June 26, 1690, and continued to attend the meetings of the Court until his death, when an election was held for Castle Baynard Ward to fill the vacancy created by his death. In Chancellor's "Wards of the City of London" (1772) p. 106 it is stated in a footnote that "in 1688 he (Turner) voluntarily resigned and Sir W. Gostlyn was elected in his room, but as Sir W. Turner was an Alderman at the time of the judgment on the Quo Warranto, upon the passing of the Act of Parliament for revising that judgment, Sir W. Gostlyn's election became void and Sir W. Turner was again sworn Alderman of Castle Baynard, notwithstanding his former resignation." No doubt this is correct, but there must have been some informality, which has not been noted, either in Turner's resignation or in Gostlyn's election, inasmuch as the Act (which received the Royal assent May 20, 1690, the day on which Gostlyn sat for the last time in the Court of Aldermen) expressly states that the Aldermen and other officers who held office before the Quo Warranto proceedings are to be confirmed in their respective offices "except such as have voluntarily surrendered any such office or place or have been removed for any just cause" and that "every person who, since the said judgment given, hath been chosen, admitted and placed into any office or employment within the said City upon the death, surrender or removal, as aforesaid, of the former officers shall be and is hereby confirmed in his said office or employment." These words would seem to cover the case of Turner's resignation in 1688 and the election of Gostlyn, and no explanation is forthcoming why they did not. Sir J. Edwards, who had been Alderman of Candlewick at the time of the Quo Warranto judgment, and Sir R. Clayton, who had been Alderman of Cheap, like Turner voluntarily declined to serve in 1688, but Edwards died shortly before the passing of the Act of 1690, and in the interim Clayton had been re-elected for Cheap on the removal of his successor to another Ward. Edwards' successor was not disturbed by the operation of the Act: whether he would have been had Edwards survived it is impossible to say. So far as the records give any information, there is nothing to differentiate the cases of Turner and Edwards except the fact that the former was alive and the latter was not when the Act of 1690 received the Royal assent. Gostlyn, who had to surrender his seat, and Lane, Edwards' successor, who retained his, appear to have held them by an equally valid (or invalid) tenure.

[On further consideration I think the probable explanation is that Turner was not formally discharged in October, 1688, but that on his intimating his intention not to resume his seat a fresh election was held, whereas Edwards and Clayton were formally discharged on the same day on which Gostlyn, Turner's successor, was elected. At the most, however, such difference as can in this way be made between the case of Turner and those of Clayton and Edwards is purely technical.]

94. Rep. 288.

Note A.—Gregory de Rokesle, the Mayor, is described as ‘Custos illius Wardæ,’ in March, 1284 [H.R. 14 (174)], but the reason for Eswy’s temporary suspension from the Aldermanship does not appear.

Note B.—Moyer “excepted against his election that the Aldermen returned were not removable within three years” and for this reason and in consideration of “many public employments discharged by him for the Commonwealth,” he was excused from serving. An Act of Common Council September 3, 1550, had confirmed a previous Act of 1479 to the effect that an Alderman should not remove to another within two years of his election, and that in Farringdon Without and Bridge Without the period should be three years. Underwood, one of the Aldermen returned with Moyer, had served for his ward (Bishopsgate) only sixteen months. The Act had been very frequently ignored.

Note C.—There is no minute of Clayton’s election to Cheap in 1689. The Court had requested him to accept election for Tower on September 24 (Rep. 95, fo. 51), and his was one of the four names proposed for that Ward, October 15, when the nomination was rejected. As Edwin had previously represented Tower and Clayton Cheap, it is probable that a private arrangement was made by which each should return to his old Ward, Edwin being elected to the Tower vacancy and thus leaving the seat for Cheap open for Clayton to return to it. Clayton took his seat on November 12, and continued to represent that Ward till his death.

Note D.—Ex-Sheriff Sir John Bennett had been three times returned by the electors of the Ward, and on each occasion rejected by the Court. At the first election on June 4, 1877, he polled 234 votes to 232 for James Waddell (Loriner), the numbers for the latter being erroneously declared as 233. A scrutiny was demanded, but the Recorder having on June 23 given his decision in favour of one of Bennett’s votes which had been objected to, Waddell withdrew, and Bennett was declared elected. Petitions were presented to the Court of Aldermen both for and against his admission, and on July 27 the Court decided that he was not “a person fit and proper to support the dignity and discharge the duties of an Alderman.” It was understood that 19 voted against and only 1 (Alderman Sidney) for his admission. At the next election on August 11 ex-Sheriff Breffit took the place of Waddell and polled 99 votes against 217 for Bennett, who was again rejected by the Court on September 25. The third election took place on October 3, when the numbers were 210 for Bennett, 107 for Breffit. The Court on October 16 for the third time refused to admit Bennett, and a week later, in accordance with the ancient custom, the validity of which had been established in the case of Scales (see Portsoken Ward), proceeded to elect Breffit.

ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

CRIPPLEGATE WARD.

[Called WOOD STREET WARD in H.R. 35 (221)] [January 23, 1307], 46 (25) [October 14, 1317], 93 (72) [July 20, 1365]

[It is hardly necessary to say that, in dealing with the material I had collected for this Ward, I have made full use of and derived much valuable assistance from Mr. Deputy Baddeley's excellent Monograph on the "Aldermen of Cripplegate," a work which should stimulate those specially interested in other Wards of the City to follow his example. The fulness and accuracy of Mr. Baddeley's collections leave but little to add in the way of supplement or correction. I have been able to ascertain the Companies of two or three of the Aldermen which do not appear in his book, and to fix the date of Thomas de Leyre's tenure of the Aldermanry, which had escaped his notice, and to correct a few comparatively unimportant errors, such as that referred to in Note A, which in no way lessen the permanent value of a singularly careful and accurate compilation.] of Poll) [At the poll the numbers were 623 for Felix Feast (Brasier) and 597 for Williams. The contest was a political one, Williams being the Tory and Feast the Whig Candidate. At the close of the scrutiny on June 20 the Lord Mayor (Sir G. Conyers) decided that Williams had a majority of good votes, but the numbers were not recorded. The result was reported to the Court on July 2, and was considered at the three following meetings (July 9, 16 and 29), a petition having been presented by Feast charging Sheriff Parsons and Sir J. Williams with having "intimidated, terrified and discouraged" his scrutineers. On the 23rd the Court resolved that Williams had used "unjustifiable menaces" upon the scrutiny, but that "the said scrutiny was not affected by the said menaces so as to turn the said election in favour of Mr. Feast," and accordingly Williams was admitted and sworn]

Note A.—That Walter de Finchingfeud, junior, was the Alderman himself, and not (as Mr. Baddeley conjectured) the Alderman's son, appears from H.R. 27 (130) and H.R. 35 (42).

Note B.—In my note A on Aldersgate Ward (page 8) I gave reasons which led me to doubt whether Seccheford was permanently Alderman of Cripplegate. Since the sheet containing that note was printed I have found a third (and later) memorandum of his acting in that capacity, in addition to the two then given, viz., in H.R. 64 (51), where, under date June 25, 1336, he is definitely styled Alderman of Cripplegate Ward, whereas, in the earlier entries his Ward is inferred from the parishes in which the property dealt with in the deeds witnessed by him were situate, these being St. Lawrence Jewry [H.R. 63 (179)] and St. Mary Magdalene, Milk Street [H.R. 63 (189)]. The difficulty that still remains is the fact that both he and his successor in Cripplegate (Costantyn), are recorded as present at a Court of Aldermen on July 22, 1336 (Letter Book E, fo. 248 b), whereas his presumed successor in Aldersgate (Crane), does not appear before November 8. I now think that Seccheford's transference from Aldersgate to Cripplegate may be taken as established, and the most obvious explanation of the appearance of both himself and Costantyn as Aldermen on July 22, is that which I suggested as possible in my note on Aldersgate, viz: that Costantyn succeeded Seccheford in Aldersgate as well as afterwards in Cripplegate, Crane following him in the former Ward.

Note C.—In my Note A on Castle Baynard Ward (p. 97), I have given in detail the reasons which lead me to infer that Cotton was transferred from Cripplegate to that Ward. It should be noted, however, that in H.R. 144 (36), Cotton is represented as witnessing a deed relating to property in the parish of St. Alphege, which was in Cripplegate Ward, dated September 11, 1416, nearly nine months after his successor Aleyn is found acting as Alderman of the Ward. There is evidence that Aleyn was present as an Alderman on October 13, 1416 (Journal 1, fo. 1. Letter Book I, fo. 183), which is an earlier date than that of Cotton's discharge, and it seems to me to be the natural inference that there is an error in the name of the Alderman of the Ward as recorded in H.R. 144 (36), similar errors being clearly demonstrable in some other instances. It is possible that Aleyn may have been prevented by illness or some other reason from acting in September, and that Cotton, as a former Alderman of the same Ward, may have acted for him. The entry in H.R. 144 (36), does not appear to me to be sufficient to outweigh the force of the evidence which, as I have shown in my notes on that Ward, seems to point to Cotton's removal to Castle Bsynard in 1415.

3. Letter Book A, ff. 85 b, 109 b.

4. Letter Book E, fo. 54 b.

5. H.R. 62 (109), 84 (137).

6. Letter Book G, fo. 66. H, fo. 58 b.

7. Letter Book H, fo. 53.

8. Letter Book H, fo. 84.

9. Letter Book H, fo. 106.

- March 12, 1380<sup>10</sup> .. Nicholas Twyford, Goldsmith .. .. (S. 1377-8.)
 Afterwards Alderman of Lime Street.
- March 12, 1331<sup>11</sup> .. Robert Boxford, Draper .. ..
- March 12, 1382<sup>12</sup> .. John Rote, Skinner (Sheriff) .. .. S. 1381-2.
 Formerly Alderman of Walbrook.
 Afterwards Alderman of Cornhill.
- March 12, 1383, to John Fraunceis, Goldsmith .. .. S. 1390-1.
 1393 inclusive<sup>13</sup> Afterwards Alderman of Farringdon Without.

The Ward was divided into two Wards March, 1394, by Statute 17 Ric. II., c. 13.
 [See Note B].

10. Letter Book H, fo. 121 b.

11. Letter Book H, fo. 132.

12. Letter Book H, fo. 140.

13. Letter Book H, ff. 163, 174, 189 b, 200, 215, 226, 240, 248 b, 258, 279 b. H.R. 121 (146).

Note A.—Farndone in his will gave and devised "Le Aldermanrie of Farndone within Ludgate and Newgate and without," to John de Pulteney [H.R. 62 (102): Dr. Sharpe's Calendar of Husting Wills, vol. i., page 398]. Pulteney, however, does not appear to have acted as Alderman of the Ward, and Lacer is found acting in that capacity as early as November 6, within three weeks of the enrolment of the will. Pulteney, who was Mayor for the year 1333-4, removed from the Aldermanry of Coleman Street to that of Candlewick between May 22 and November 28, 1334 [H.R. 63 (81) compared with H.R. 62 (103)]. How Lacer acquired the position of Alderman of the Ward, whether by grant from Pulteney or by election, there is no evidence to show.

Note B.—The date of this Statute is given as 1393 in the "Statutes at Large" and elsewhere, but this is according to the old style. This Parliament sat from January 27 to March 6, 1394, according to the modern method of reckoning the year as beginning on January 1.

Note A.—Blackdon's Ward is not given in the Letter Books, which only record his attendance at two meetings of the Court of Aldermen, but a comparison of the dates of those meetings with those of the vacancy in Cripplegate, which his predecessor (Botiler), was translated to fill, and of the first appearance of his successor (at the Water), makes it certain that he represented Farringdon Within, for which Ward, as stated in the text, he had been nominated at the previous election.

ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

Note A.—There is no evidence of Folesham having acted as an Alderman between March, 1335 and December, 1336, and inasmuch as both his predecessor in Broad Street (Hauteyn) and his successor in Langbourn (Fraunceis) were present at an unusually full Court of Aldermen on July 22, 1336, it seems evident that during a portion of that interval he ceased to be a member of the Aldermanic body.

* There is no extant record of the election of Alderman for Lime Street in 1392, but there can be little doubt that Hadle was re-elected, as he was certainly a member of the Court of Aldermen at the dates here given, and there is evidence of the names of those serving for nearly all the other wards, including Tower, the only other which he is known to have represented at any time.

Note A.—Walter de Rokesle is not definitely stated in the records at Guildhall to have been Alderman of Lime Street Ward. He was, however, Alderman of some Ward between 1294 and 1297. [Letter Book B, fo. 106 (xxii. b); C, ff. 5 b (xxix. b), 19 b, 22; B, fo. 113 b (xxi. j)], and the earliest and latest dates at which his name appears between these limits coincide with the interval between Robert Rokesle and Sely, who were undoubtedly Aldermen of this Ward. From 1297 till 1304 his name is not found amongst the list of Aldermen: from the latter date he, or another person of the same name, was Alderman of Langbourn.

Note B.—I have been unable to find any direct statement in the records at Guildhall that Sely was Alderman of Lime Street Ward, but it is suggested by the fact that his assignment to Lime Street between 1297 and 1300 exactly coincides with the disappearance of W. de Rokesle's name and the first entry of H. de Gloucester's in the lists of Aldermen. The only reference that I have found identifying his Ward is Letter Book B, fo. 77 (lxi. b), where he appears under date February 25, 1300, as witness to a deed relating to property "in the Ward called FERTHINGWARD, in the parish of St. Peter-upon-Cornhill," as "Alderman of Ferthingward." Mr. Riley, in "Memorials of London" (Introduction p. 11 n), says—"this name perhaps had been given to the Ward of Cornhill at an earlier period," but Dr. Sharpe, in his Calendar [Letter Book B, p. 183 n], says that—"this Ward was probably identical with Lime Street," adding that Sely is "elsewhere recorded as Alderman of Lime Street Ward," though he does not give, and I cannot find, the reference. He is, however, undoubtedly right in his identification of Ferthingward with Lime Street, and might safely have omitted the qualification implied in the word "probably." As he points out, J. de Caustone, who is described as Alderman of "Ferthingwarde," under date July 13, 1334 [H.R. 62 (96)] and October 31, 1336 [H.R. 63 (254)], is styled Alderman of "Lyme Street" in H.R. 60 (141) [date November 22, 1332], H.R. 63 (214) [date January 1, 1335], which shows clearly that at that period these two Wards were identical. Adam Fraunceys also, who was elected for Lime Street in 1356, is described as Alderman of "Ferthingwarde" in H.R. 85 (121) under date November 12, 1357. Mr. Riley was probably led to identify Ferthingward with Cornhill by the fact that the property referred to in Letter Book B, fo. 77, was in the parish of St. Peter, Cornhill, but this parish also comprised portions of Lime Street and Bishopsgate: and at a later period (see Chancellor's "Wards of the City of London," p. 92), the latter Wards had 65 and 62 houses respectively in the parish, whereas Cornhill Ward had only 30. [Since the above was in type I have found complete confirmation of the identification of Ferthingwarde with Lime Street. In H.R. 191 (11) under date November 25, 1460, W. Hulyn is described as witnessing a deed in his character of Alderman of the Ward in regard to property situated in the parish of St. Andrew, Cornhill, "in Warda de Lyme Street at dicta Ferthingward."]

Note C.—R. Lee (then Mayor) was elected Alderman of Lime Street (being then Alderman of Walbrook) on May 14, 1470, as stated in the text. But, although there is no minute to that effect, it is clear that he did not remove from his former Ward, of which he remained Alderman till his death in 1472 (Journal 8, fo. 19 b). The election of Stokton, in December, 1470, is stated (Journal 8, fo. 2) to be in place of Croke, who was one of those nominated with Lee for the vacancy in the preceding May. The whole question of the changes in the Court of Aldermen in the years 1469 and 1470, which is of considerable difficulty, is dealt with at length in Note C, Bishopsgate Ward (pp. 43, 44).

Note D.—By a clerical error the date of election, as well as that of admission, is given in the Repertory as June 24. The correct date is as stated above.

ALDERMEN OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

PORTSOKEN WARD.

Previous to the dissolution of the monasteries and religious houses in the reign of Henry VIII., the office of Alderman of Portsoken Ward was held jure officio by the Prior of Christ Church or Holy Trinity, Aldgate, apparently as the result of the voluntary surrender to that Church and its Canons of their Soke or manorial jurisdiction by the English Cnihtengild in the reign of Henry I., which had been held by that body since the time of Canute. The date of this surrender appears to have been 1125 (see Note A, ad fin.). The Priory of Holy Trinity had been founded in 1108 by Matilda, wife of Henry I., and endowed with a grant of the Soke of Aldgate. Both this grant and that of the Soke of the Cnihtengild were subsequently confirmed by a Charter of Henry I., the exact date of which does not appear.

The history of the foundation of the Cnihtengild and of its voluntary absorption into the Priory is admirably summarised by Dr. Sharpe in his Calendar of Letter Book C (pp. xviii.-xx.), and the question of the exact position of the Cnihtengild in regard to the municipal government of the City and the origin of the inclusion of the Priory of Holy Trinity in the governing body as Alderman of the Ward is discussed at pp. xxiii.-xxv.

[Dr. Sharpe says (p. xxiv.): "As a gild, the Cnihts like other gilds were probably governed by an Alderman, and, as possessors of a Soke within the City's Liberties, they may have sent an Alderman (as there is little doubt they had a right to do) to join in the City's councils with Aldermen of other Sokes or Wards, but we have no evidence of their having done so. It is only a surmise based on a subsequent historical fact, namely, that after the conveyance of the land and soke of the gild to the Priory of Holy Trinity, and the extinction of the gild itself, the Prior was (to use Stow's words) 'for him and his successors admitted as one of the Aldermen of London, to govern the same land and soke,' and the Prior for the time being continued to be ex officio Alderman of the City until the dissolution of the Priory in 1531" (i.e. 1532 New Style). At p. xxv. Dr. Sharpe adds that the Soke of Aldgate "becoming united with the Soke of the Cnihtengild, came to be known as the Soke of the Port, or Portsoken, and the right to an Aldermanry, enjoyed (presumably) by the members of the gild by reason of their Soke, passed with the Soke to the Priory of Holy Trinity, and hence the Prior for the time being became (as just mentioned) ex officio Alderman of Portsoken Ward."]

The succession of Priors of Holy Trinity is given below, the names and dates of appointment and of vacation of office by death or deposition up to 1408 being taken from the Liber Trinitatis, a transcript of which is in the MSS. collection in the Guildhall Library; other lists given by Newcourt, Browne Willis, Dugdale, Stevens and Hearne present variations both of names and dates. From that date to the dissolution of the Priory in 1532, the chief authority for the names of the Priors is Lansdowne MS. 963 in the British Museum collection, supplemented by occasional notices of their admission to the Court of Aldermen in the Letter Books, Journals and Repertories.

[In the Letter Books of the 14th and 15th centuries the full name or Christian name alone of the Prior is occasionally given in the lists of Aldermen presented at the annual election of the Mayor, but, so far as I have observed, this does not occur later than 1445, when Thomas Pomeroy's name is so given (Letter Book K, fo. 227 b). There are a few entries also in the Husting Rolls which enable us to ascertain the name of the Prior at particular dates.]

Note A.—The date of the surrender of the soke of the Cuichtengild by the Cnichts to the Canons of Holy Trinity is definitely given as 1125 in the Charter of confirmation granted by Henry I, which Dr. Sharpe quotes in full at p. 219 of his Calendar of Letter Book C, from fo. 135 of the original MS. of the Letter Book. It should be noted, however, that "the charter of confirmation which Orgaric Prude succeeded in obtaining from Henry I," referred to by Dr. Sharpe at p. xxv., of his introduction to the Calendar and set out verbatim from fo. 48 b, at p. 73, (which states that the King has granted to the Canons to hold the soke of the English Cuichtengild) is attested by "Rann Cane," i.e. Ranulph the Chancellor. Now this Ranulph died in 1123, according to Henry of Huntingdon (Chronicles and Memorials, Rolls Series, p. 244), the year being expressly stated to be that in which Alexander was appointed Bishop of Lincoln, which date Stubbs gives (Registrum Sacrum Anglicanum) as July 22, 1123, and that following the year in which Ralph, Archbishop of Canterbury and John, Bishop of Bath and Wells died, these dates being October 20, 1123 and December 29, 1122, respectively (Stubbs, pp. 40, 42).

Moreover, Foss (Judges of England, vol. i, pp. 79, 80), states on the authority of Dugdale, that Ranulph's successor in the Chancellorship, Geoffrey, attested as Chancellor, a Charter to which the names of Godfrey, Bishop of Bath and Wells and Teoldus, Bishop of Worcester are appended as witnesses, of whom the former was consecrated to his Bishopric, August 26, 1123 and the latter died October 20, 1123 (Stubbs, pp. 44, 49).

If these dates and signatures are to be relied upon, the soke of the Cnichts must have been made over to the Priory not later than 1123, but it is difficult to get over the definite statement of 1125 as the date in the Charter given in Letter Book C, fo. 135, except on the supposition of a mistake in transcription from the original document when it was entered in the Letter Book.

Note B.—In the Liber Trinitatis Aynel is said to have died May 20, 1299, but his name occurs as Prior in deeds enrolled on October 16, 1290 and June 2, 1292 respectively, and as his successor was appointed in May, 1294, I think it most probable that the true date of death should be May 20, 1294 (or possibly 1293). It is, however, possible that he may have died before the enrolment of the deeds, though the long interval (over three years) before that of the later one is very unlikely.

Note C.—There appears to have been a good deal of difficulty about the election of Sevenok. On December 17, 1438, the Mayor and Aldermen resolved to send a letter to the Bishop of London ad inquirendum de fama cujusdam electi in priorem ecclesie Christi (Journal 3, fo. 3), and on September 21 of the following year it is recorded that the Mayor and Aldermen appointed Commissioners to oppose the confirmation of the appointment of Sevenok who had recently been elected Prior, but had proved himself unworthy by his dissolute habits (Letter Book K, fo. 178 b). Exactly a week after this date (September 25, 1439), Sevenok's election received the Royal assent and the temporalities were restored to him [Lansdowne MS. 963, fo. 229 b (129)]. The Prior was present at the Court of Aldermen held for election of Mayor on October 13, 1439; presumably this was Sevenok, though his name is not given. He was also present (his full name being given on each of these occasions), at the elections of 1440, 1441, 1442 and 1443, yet his final admission as Alderman of Portsoken is recorded under date, January 13, 1444 (Journal 4, fo. 13). I cannot suggest any explanation to account for his admission being deferred till 1444, although his presence at a Court is recorded in each of four preceding years.

Note D.—I can find no evidence as to the date at which Pomeroy ceased to be Prior. He was acting on February 5, 1451 [H.R. 179 (21)]. In the Lansdowne MS. no name occurs between his appointment in 1445 and that of Percy in 1481, but in a list of Aldermen at the end of Journal 8 (fo. 282 b), the date of which is 12 Edw. IV. (1472), the name "Chester" appears against Portsoken, being apparently written over an erasure.

As all the other names in this entry are certainly those of the Aldermen of the respective wards to which they are attached, the natural assumption is that the Aldermanry of Portsoken and consequently the Priory of Holy Trinity was at that date held by a person named Chester, but I can find no other mention of the name in connection with that Ward.

It is probably a mere coincidence that in 1484, a Richard Chester (Skinner) was elected Alderman of the adjacent Ward of Aldgate, and in the same year to the Shrievalty. It seems not altogether impossible, though I do not claim for the suggestion any high degree of probability, that this may be identical with the person named in the list in Journal 8, fo. 282 b, in which case he may have been acting as the Deputy in temporal matters to the Prior for the Aldermanry of Portsoken.

In Dugdale's List Percy's appointment is dated 12 Edw. IV. (i.e. 1472), but the authorities given in Note 14, which coincide in assigning it to 1451, seem conclusive evidence that this is an error.

Note E.—The authority for the insertion of Charnock's name, no record being extant of his appointment as Prior or admission as Alderman, is that Newton is said in Lansdowne MS. 963, fo. 356, to have taken the place of Charnock, deceased.

It should be noticed that the name of Thomas Percy occurs as having been admitted on October 9, 1481, and again (after Charnock and Newton), on December 20, 1506. It is more probable that the same person was for some reason removed from and subsequently restored to the Priory than that two persons of the same name should have held the office within so short a period as twenty-five years.

Note F.—It appears, though it is not very clearly stated, that Sir James Smyth vacated his seat by not taking the oaths to the new Government (as prescribed by Act of Parliament 1 Wm. and Mary c. 8), before August 1, 1689. On September 17, 1689, he appeared and took the oaths, explaining that he had been prevented from doing so earlier "by reason of his long residence in the country" (Rep. 95, fo. 48). A week later (September 24), a Wardmote was ordered to be held for the election of his successor, "upon complaint now made by divers inhabitants of the Ward of Portsoken of their great want of an Alderman, and praying a Wardmote for the choice of an Alderman of the said Ward" (Rep. 95, fo. 51 b). Sir James Smyth (who was one of the candidates nominated for Bridge Without, on October 15th in the same year), appears not to have acquiesced in his removal, inasmuch as on April 2, 1691, a Committee was appointed to take care of the defence to be made against the mandamus brought by Sir James Smyth to be an Alderman of the City (Rep. 95, fo. 258 b), but I cannot find any later reference to the matter.

Note G.—At the original election to fill the vacancy caused by Sir J. Shaw's resignation February 10, 1831, Michael Scales (Butcher), was elected by 155 votes to 127 for Daniel Whittle Harvey (Girdler). Harvey demanded a scrutiny, but withdrew from the contest, February 24 (Rep. 235, ff. 261-275). On March 8, when the election was reported to the Court of Aldermen, a petition was presented, alleging various charges against Scales, and in particular that he was disqualified in virtue of a resolution of the Court of Common Council of December 20, 1830, (Journal 105, fo. 28), which declared him incapacitated from sitting on any Committee of that Court as a penalty for having been concerned in the distribution of tickets with forged signatures giving admission to the Guildhall. After some adjournments the Court of Aldermen rejected a motion to admit Scales on May 10, 1831 (Rep. 235, fo. 404). Scales then obtained a mandamus from the Court of King's Bench, calling on the Court of Aldermen to show cause why he should not be admitted, but judgment was given against him on November 19 (Rep. 236, fo. 13).

At the ensuing election, December 7, 1831, Scales was again elected by 169 votes to 74 for William Hughes Hughes (Cordwainer), and on January 3, 1832 the Court of Aldermen declared Scales ineligible and seated Hughes (Rep. 236, ff. 176-187). Hughes, however, declined to defend his return, and was ousted by judgment of the Kings' Bench in July, 1832 (Rep. 236, fo. 536). Scales again applied for a mandamus to compel the Court of Aldermen to admit him, but this was refused by the Court of King's Bench, June 1, 1833 (Rep. 237, fo. 260). On June 28, at a third election, Scales obtained 155 votes against 70 for Thomas Johnson (Rep. 237, fo. 356), and on October 25 the Court rejected Scales for the third time and admitted Johnson, in accordance with the ancient prerogative which had not been exercised since 1669, whereby after three rejections of the nominations made at Wardmotes the filling of the vacancy lapsed to the Court of Aldermen.

Scales brought an action against the late Lord Mayor (Sir John Key) and Aldermen, for damages for false return to the original mandamus, which resulted in a verdict for the defendants, June 25, 1834 (Rep. 239, fo. 133). He then proceeded by quo warranto to endeavour to oust Johnson, but this action was decided in Johnson's favour, December 20, 1834, and the judgment was affirmed by the Court of Exchequer Chamber, June 8, 1836 (Rep. 240, fo. 282), and finally, on appeal, by the House of Lords, February 19, 1839 (Rep. 243, fo. 110).

Note H.—The votes in the Court of Aldermen were 13 against and 6 for admitting Salomons. The majority consisted of the Lord Mayor (Sir W. Magnay), Aldermen Lucas, Sir F. Laurie, Farebrother, Kelly, Sir C. Marshall, Sir J. Pirie, Gibbs (Lord Mayor elect), J. Johnson, Sir G. Carroll, Hooper, Farncomb and Hughes. The minority were Sir J. Key, Aldermen Humphery, T. Wood, W. Hunter, Challis and Sidney.

Those who were absent or did not vote were Sir C. S. Hunter, Aldermen Thompson, Copeland, Wilson, Sir J. Duke and Musgrove.

Note A.—In H.R. 225 (16) Sir John Shaa is described as Alderman of Queenhithe, under date May 2, 1499. This, however, is clearly an error, unless he was merely acting pro tem. for Tate. Shaa was Alderman of BREAD STREET from 1496 till his death. He is found acting as Alderman of the Ward on May 8, 1500 [H.R. 226 (12)] and the date of election of his successor in that Ward corresponds with that of the vacancy caused by his death (see page 47).

Note B.—There is no record of the election of either Hawes or Copynger for Queenhithe, nor have I been able to find any direct statement as to the Ward represented by the former. But the date of Hawes' first attendance is within three months of the last attendance of Tate, and there was no other vacancy at that period which he could have been elected to fill. Copynger is stated to have been Alderman of Queenhithe in the entry recording the election of his successor in that Ward, and the date of the election of his successor in Castle Baynard is within a fortnight of Hawes' discharge from the office of Alderman (see page 91). The correctness, therefore, of the allocation of these Aldermen to Queenhithe at the dates given in the text may be regarded as established beyond question.

Note C.—The entry in the Repertory and in the Letter Book states that "the election made by my Lorde Maior for an Alderman to be appoynted for the Warde of Queenhyth . . . is voyde, because Mr. Alderman Langley hath desyred according to the custome of the Cytie, that he may be Alderman of that Warde, whiche was by this Courte agreed unto." What was 'the election made by my Lorde Maior' there is no evidence to show, and I am not aware of any 'custome of the Cytie' which would have enabled Alderman Langley to transfer his services from one Ward to another, without having first been returned with three others by the electors of the Ward for the Court of Aldermen to make the final selection. It is possible, therefore, either that a return of four names, including Langley's, had been made and that another had been selected before it was ascertained that he was willing to serve, or that his name having been omitted from the return, he was now (when it was known that he desired to be transferred to Queenhithe), elected without the usual formal nomination of four. If this was the case it would appear to be a very irregular proceeding, and whatever was the actual course adopted, it seems strange that it is not more explicitly stated in the records.

88. Rep. 284.

89. Rep. 286.

Note A.—The appointment of Tonge to succeed Fastolf on August 12, 1885, on account of the latter's duties as Constable of Dover Castle leaving him no leisure for those of his Aldermanic office is recorded in Letter Book H, fo. 189 b. Fastolf, however, is found acting as Alderman of the Ward on November 8, 1885 and January 25, 1886 [H.R. 114, ff. 63, 87]. He is also recorded as present among the Aldermen at the election of the Sheriffs on September 13, 1885 (Letter Book H, fo. 195), although a few lines lower on the same folio Tonge's name is given as that of one of the two Aldermen elected auditors on September 21. Probably the substitution of Tonge for Fastolf was only a temporary arrangement and the latter resumed his office after a brief interval.

Note B.—On December 15, 1478, Robert Tate was admitted to act for John Tate on account of the latter's bodily weakness, "admissus est ad occupandam vicem et nomen Johannis Tate, Ald. propter imbecillitatem et infirmitatem ejus" (Journal B, fo. 190). Shortly after John Tate's death, Robert Tate was elected Alderman of Queenhithe.

127. Rep. 290.

Note A.—This nomination was rejected because two of the three Aldermen nominated (Towse and Langham) had not served for their present Wards two years and were therefore ineligible for removal to another Ward by an ordinance of the Court of Aldermen enacted January 19, 1479, and the commoner (Warner), was a Grocer, there being already six Aldermen members of the Company (viz: Sir E. Wright, Sir T. Soame, J. Warner, Sir G. Clarke and also Towse and Langham), and an ordinance of February 25, 1446, having limited the number of Aldermen "of one art and mistery" to that number.

Note B.—Hatton applied for his discharge on the day of his election and admission, and it was granted, subject to payment of a fine of £520 within 14 days. Apparently he preferred not to pay the fine and consented to serve; he was present at the next Court (August 2) and frequently afterwards until the following May, his last recorded attendances being on May 23 and 25, 1665 (Rep. 70, ff. 116 b, 118 b). At the following Court (May 30) Holt was elected "in place of Mr. Roger Hatton lately discharged," there being no record in the Repertory of his discharge or of the fine imposed, which was probably the same as that originally stated.

Note C.—At the original election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Magnay, the poll closing on November 4, 1826, Winchester was returned by 30 votes to 27 for Edward Archer Wilde (Dyer), and three for Thomas Crook (Cordwainer). On a scrutiny, which closed November 28, the votes for Winchester and Wilde were reduced to 26 and 23 respectively (Rep. 231, ff. 72-80). A petition was presented against the return, and on December 28, the Court of Aldermen declared the election void (Rep. 231, fo. 206). At a fresh election, the poll ending January 4, 1827, Winchester and Wilde each polled 52 votes, but after a scrutiny the numbers were declared to be Wilde 33, Winchester 35 (Rep. 231, ff. 358-366). A motion in the Court of Aldermen to admit Winchester was rejected on May 29, and on June 3 when a similar motion was brought forward, several Aldermen withdrew, so as not to leave a quorum. On June 15 a counter proposition to admit Wilde was rejected by the casting vote of the Lord Mayor (Alderman Brown), and again on July 17 by 8 to 7 (Rep. 231, ff. 779, 871). Winchester then took legal proceedings to compel the Court of Aldermen to admit him, and judgment was given in the Court of King's Bench on January 23, 1829, that each candidate had 19 good votes and that others which were challenged should be decided by arbitration (Rep. 233, fo. 298). On an appeal for a fresh trial, an agreement was come to (February 19), that Winchester should be declared elected, subject to arbitration as to certain votes, and Sir William Follett, who was named arbitrator, finally decided September 18, 1829, in favour of Winchester, declaring the good votes to be Winchester 27, Wilde 24.

ALDGATE WARD.

- „ 9 William de Hereford, add Goldsmith.
 Adam de Hallingberi, for Acting January 12, 1298, read Acting December 20, 1296, and in Footnote 3, for H.R. 27 (11) read Letter Book B, fo. 106 (xxxii. b).
- [The date given at this reference in the original MS. is 23 Edw. I. (i.e., 1294). This is clearly an error of the scribe. The entry refers to the assignment of the responsibility for the night watch to the Aldermen, all of whom are named, and the appearance in the list of both Walter de Rokele and Geoffrey de Northone, the former of whom was succeeded by T. Sely, between July and October, 1397, and the latter only became an Alderman between October, 1296 and August, 1297 (see pp. 80, 173), fixes the date 1296 (25 Edw. I.), that being the only year in which these two can have been Aldermen simultaneously in the month of December. Moreover, all the other entries at this portion of the Letter Book are dated 25 Edw. I. Again, a precisely similar entry as to the assignment of the care for the night watch to the Aldermen is given under the same date (Thursday before Christmas, 23 Edw. I.), at fo. 20 of Letter Book C, where some of the names differ, the respective predecessors of all the Aldermen elected in 1295 and 1296 being given; instead of A. Hallingberi, J. Wade, G. de Northone and R. de Gloucester, the names of W. de Hereford, J. de Gisors, R. de Basing and R. de Blunt are recorded as being in office at that date.
- Dr. Sharpe, in his Calendar of Letter Book B, had printed the date as it stands in the original, but after consideration of the evidence set forth above concurs with me in assigning the entry to 25 Edw. I. (1296)].

BISHOPSGATE WARD.

- ,, 34 William Parker, add died 1403.
Sir Drew Barentyn, omit "Sir" and add (or Barantyn). [Similarly at p. 2 (Aldersgate) and p. 145 (Farringdon Without).]
Robert Whityngham, insert (Sworn December 22, 1417).
Thomas Chalton, for October 13, 1451, read March 15, 1452, and in footnote 27 omit 254 b and insert Journal 5, fo. 72.
,, 35 Sir Henry Waver, add died 1470.
John Croke, insert [Nominated: John Barnwell, Thomas Staughton (Fishmonger), W. Stokker]
,, 36 Thomas Pargeter, for 1530 or 1531, read between November 10 and December 8, 1530, and add died 1532.
Thomas Blanke; he was only elected once (not twice as in the text). The particulars in the text should be amended to read as follows:
January 26, 1542 Thomas Blanke, Haberdasher
[Sworn Jan. 31]<sup>44</sup> [Nominated: Aldermen Forman and Judde, R. Dobbys] Discharged August 1, 1542; fine of 400 marks (Journal 14, fo. 338).

The mistake in the text is due to a clerical error, which had escaped my notice, in the original MS. of Letter Book Q, fo. 49 b, where Blanke is stated to have been elected on Thursday, February 26, 1542. This should be January 26, which was a Thursday, whereas February 26 was a Sunday. He is recorded to have been originally granted his discharge from serving as Alderman on February 14, on condition of paying a fine of 300 marks, but as this was not sufficient to secure from the Common Council exemption from liability to serve as Sheriff he appears to have remained an Alderman until August 1, when he agreed to pay 400 marks and thereby obtained discharge from obligation to serve either office in future. On that day a letter was read from the Earl of Hertford, (the king's brother-in-law, afterwards the Protector Somerset), desiring that Blanke should be discharged of the Aldermanship and "all other chargeable rowmes within the cytye" for an easy fine, and the Court resolved that "he shall have all the favour that may be convenyentlye shewyd unto hym."

Under date October 22, 1548; prefix to the names in the rejected nomination that of Sir J. Gresham (Lord Mayor).

- „ 38 Under date November 12, 1640, for Gonings read Gennings (Haberdasher).
Zachary Highlord, add Skinner.
„ 41 Under date September 19, 1661, after A. Holt add (Goldsmith).
„ 42 Joseph Sheldon, in right-hand margin add M. 1675-6. After Drapers' Company add October 7, 1675 (Rep. 80, fo. 289).
„ 43 Note B, line 6, for H.R. 143 (35) read H.R. 144 (35).

BREAD STREET WARD.

- „ 46 Alan Everard, after discharged add on account of deafness and other infirmity.
„ 47 Ralph Holland, for Merchant Taylor read Tailor.
Under date February 20, 1458, for T. Nedeham read Richard Nedeham (Mercer).
Sir Thomas Cooke read Cook, and for S. 1453-7 read S. 1453-4.
Hugh Clopton add died 1496.
John Munday read Mundy.
„ 48 Under date October 22, 1556 for Wythens and Harpur read Wythers and Harper.
Leonard Halliday add (or Holliday).
„ 51 Richard Taylor, omit Sworn and before discharged.
„ 52 Under date April 30, 1667, for Cooper read Bowyer.
Humphrey Beane, add discharged June 6, 1667; fine of £420 (Rep. 72, fo. 113 b).
Under date October 3, 1667, after by the Court add Hawkyns being 'of no qualification worthy of the place and dignity.'
„ 53 Brass Crosby, before died insert transferred to Goldsmiths' Company, May 13, 1766 (Rep. 170, fo. 245).

Under date July 4, 1633, after by the Court add because Freeman had been Alderman of his Ward for less than two years.

- Page 59 Rowland Wilson, add Jun.
Alexander Holt, Leatherseller; he is so described in the minute of his election, but in that of his discharge is called Goldsmith, which is probably correct.
- „ 60 Stephen Eastwick, between died and 1657 insert December 15.
- „ 61 George Mertinus, read Mertinns.
George Champion, before died insert transferred to Haberdashers' Company, September 18, 1739 (Rep. 143, fo. 415).
- „ 62 John Knill, for June 1 read June 11.

BRIDGE WARD WITHOUT.

- „ 63 To the introductory paragraph add—
An excellent account of the establishment of this Ward and the changes in the mode of electing the Aldermen is given in the Report printed as Appendix A in the minutes of the Court of Aldermen for 1892, and this account is carefully and accurately summarised in Mr. Deputy Baddeley's Aldermen of Cripplegate Ward, pp. 198-200.
Sir John Ayliffe, add (or Aylofffe), also insert transferred to Grocers' Company, July 17, 1550 [Rep. 12 (i), fo. 250]
- „ 65 Isaac Penington, omit Knighted by authority of Parliament, 1649.
[Although Penington is frequently styled "Sir" Isaac (amongst other authorities by the Dictionary of National Biography), it is practically certain that he did not receive Knighthood. He is described as "Mr. Alderman Penington" on April 7, April 28, June 2, August 6, August 20 and September 1, 1657, in Rep. 65, ff. 65, 77, 96 b, 118 b, 166 b, 168, 173, and he left the Court of Aldermen in the month following the latest of these dates. He is nowhere described as a Knight in these records, whilst other Aldermen as Pack, Ireton, Chiverton, who were Knighted by Oliver Cromwell, are credited with the titular prefix.]
- „ 66 Richard Evans, for Mercer read Cutler.
- „ 67 Sir William Pritchard, read Prichard.
[The name is usually spelled as in the text, but his own autograph omits the "t"]
Sir William Humphreys, read Humfreys.
[This correction also is in accordance with the autograph signature of the personage indicated.]
- „ 68 Under date June 24, 1853, for Sir P. Laurie (Aldgate) read (Aldersgate).

BROAD STREET WARD.

- „ 71 Nicholas Wotton, after Acting December 1, 1404, read and April 12, 1406, [H.R. 133 *(53)]
- „ 72 Christopher Warter, insert [Nominated: J. Middleton, T. Cook, Junr., R. Lee]
- „ 73 Under date May 20, 1550, for L. Wythens read L. Wythers.
- „ 74 Sir Peter Proby, omit Sir and before died insert Knighted June 8, 1623.
Sir William Cokayne, insert From Lime Street.
- „ 75 Thomas Moulson, insert From Queenhithe.
- „ 76 Thomas Swallow, read Swallowe.
[He is said to be discharged "by his privilege." This is probably because, being in the service of the Crown as Clerk of the Irons and Surveyor of the Meltings at the Mint, he could not be compelled to serve as Alderman.]
- „ 77 William Pritchard, read Prichard.
- „ 78 1711.

The election of the Alderman in 1711 was closely contested and aroused much ill-feeling. At the original poll on September 13 for two Aldermen and two Commoners to be returned to the Court, the Tory candidates, Aldermen Sir W. Withers and Lewen, Sir G. Newland and Sir Robert Dunkley, polled respectively 237, 237, 241 and 239, while the votes for the Whigs—Aldermen Sir John Houblon and Sir S. Stanier, Sir John Scott and G. Conyers were 229, 229, 233, 233, all the Tories being thus above their opponents. But a scrutiny was demanded, and on October 25 the Lord Mayor (Sir G. Heathcote) who was a vehement Whig, returned three Whigs and one Tory (Houblon, Stanier, Conyers and Newland) as duly elected.

Page 79 Note A, lines 1-3, omit all the words after Broad Street to the end of the sentence.

Line 7. for H.R. 135 (104), read H.R. 131 (104) (so also in line 33).

Lines 15-19, "I have not found any other reference connecting him with any particular Ward earlier than June 28, 1407, &c."

Since this note was printed I have discovered a reference previously overlooked in H.R. 133* (53) where Wotton is definitely described as Alderman of Broad Street Ward, under date April 12, 1406. It seems impossible to arrive at a perfectly satisfactory solution of the difficulties which any attempt to reconcile the various statements detailed in this note involves, but the suggested explanation in its second paragraph acquires additional probability from the record of Wotton's connexion with Broad Street in 1406, and the third paragraph ("It is also possible . . . in 1404") should be omitted, the suggestion contained in it being based on the assumption, (now shown to be erroneous), that there was no certain evidence of Wotton's Ward earlier than 1407.

CANDLEWICK WARD.

- „ 80 Simon de Swanlond, add Draper.
- „ 82 John Rudstone. The date of his election is given as March 24 (the date which I had adopted on p. 11) in the Repertory, and as March 26 in the Letter Book.
- „ 83 Under date May 8, 1649, insert [The nomination of Aldermen Bide and Viner, J. Butler and Colonel T. Player had been rejected by the Court, April 21, because Butler was "the son of a stranger" (Rep. 59, fo. 394 b)].
- „ 86 Sir William Gostlyn, for suspended read superseded.

CASTLE BAYNARD WARD.

- „ 88 John Costantyn, add Draper.
- „ 89 Richard Gosselyn, add died at the end of 1428 or early in 1429.
- „ 90 William Coombes, add died 1452; last attendance May 13, 1452, (Journal 5, fo. 74 b).
 Geoffrey Boleyn, for 12 votes to 6 read 11 votes to 5.
 Ralph Verney, insert the votes in the Court of Aldermen were Verney 9, Stokker 5.
 Nicholas Marshall, read Marchall and after July 10, 1465, add fine of £20.
- „ 91 Stephen Jenyns, for Merchant Taylor read Tailor.
 John Champneys. By a clerical error he is recorded in both the Repertory and the Letter Book as having been elected for Candlewick vice Yerford, whereas he was elected for Castle Baynard in place of Yerford's successor, who had been transferred from this Ward to Candlewick.
 Ralph Symonds, after June 9, 1534, insert fine of £150.
- „ 95 John Blackwell, for discharged September 19, 1661, read 1651.
- „ 96 Sir Richard Hawkins, add Grocer.
 James St. Amand, add Apothecary.
- „ 97 Samuel Plumbe, before discharged insert transferred to Goldsmiths' Company, April 28, 1767 (Rep. 171, fo. 298).
 Joshua J. Smith before discharged insert transferred to Ironmongers' Company, September 28, 1803 (Rep. 207, fo. 493).

CHEAP WARD.

- „ 100 William Staundon, add died 1410.
- „ 101 Henry Cote.

His Christian name is not given in the Repertory, but I have little hesitation in identifying him with the ex-Alderman of Aldersgate. He evidently declined to serve and could not be compelled to do so having been once discharged.

Robert Johnson, add died 1507.

 „ 104 Under date July 29, 1668 insert [The nomination of Aldermen Sir J. Frederick and Sir W. Turner, John Smith (Salter), and Charles Marisco (Clothworker), had been rejected by the Court, July 9 (Rep. 73, fo. 224 b)].
 John Man, for June 28 read June 24.
 Samuel Dashwood, between October and 1683 insert 13.
 „ 105 Sir William Humphreys read Humfreys.
 Robert Kendal is described by that name up to and including February 3, 1736, and as Kendal-Cater on and after February 6, 1736 (Rep. 140, ff. 121, 132 b).

_____

The succession of Aldermen in the foregoing Ward Lists is traced back to the early years of the reign of Edward I., with the exception of Portsoken, where the Aldermanry was held ex officio by the Priors of Holy Trinity, Aldgate, the names of whom can be obtained from an earlier date. Of the 23 other Wards existing at that time, I have begun with the year 1276 in the case of fourteen; in three (Bishopsgate, Castle Baynard and Walbrook), the earliest date given is 1277, in one (Broad Street) 1278, in two (Bassishaw and Lime Street) 1279, and in three (Cheap, Coleman Street and Cornhill), 1282. These are the earliest dates to which it is possible from the Corporation records to carry back a practically unbroken succession.

The Liber Trinitatis (I. fo. 57 b), shows that John de Northampton was acting for Aldgate as early as the year 1268-9 (when W. Hervey and W. de Durham were Sheriffs). From the same source (the references being to the transcript in the Guildhall Library), I have found the following Aldermen of the Wards named below at the dates indicated:

ALDGATE .. .. Gilbert Fitzfulk (L. 32 b, 73 b), at some date (not given), between 1221 and 1250 (when Richard was Prior of Holy Trinity).

Gervase (I. 28 b), between 1250 and 1260 (when John was Prior).

BASSISHAW .. Hugh Cabur (III. 537 b), no date,

Richard de Walbrook (III. 538 b), in 1262-3.

[He was Sheriff in the preceding year, 1261-2.]

BILLINGSGATE .. Ralph Sperling (I. 230 b), in 1243.

BRIDGE .. .. Richard Renger (I. 217, 233 b), in 1225-7 and 1290.

[He was Sheriff 1220-2, Mayor 1223-7 and 1238-9, dying in office.]

CHEAP .. .. William Fitz Benet (II, 425 b), in 1220-1.

Adam Basing (II. 416 b, 414 b), in 1251-2 and in 1258.

[He was Sheriff 1243-4 and Mayor 1251-2.]

Thomas Fitz Thomas (II, 428 b), in 1264-5.

[He was Sheriff 1257-8, Mayor 1261-5.]

Walter Hervey was deposed from the Aldermanry of Cheap,
May 29, 1274 (Chronicle of Mayors and Sheriffs, p. 174).

[He was Bailiff 1265-6 and Mayor 1271-3.]

CORNHILL .. Roger Fitz Roger (II, 278 b), in 1254-5.

[He was Mayor 1249-50.]

Walter Potter (II. 267 b), in 1271-2.

[He was Sheriff 1270-1 and 1272-3, and died in 1280.]

CRIPPLEGATE .. William de Haverhill (III. 508 b), in 1203-4.

Andrew Bukerel (III. 521 b), in the Mayoralty of R. Renger (1223-7 or 1238-9).

[He was Sheriff 1223-4 and Mayor 1231-7, dying in office.]

Bartholomew Capel (III. 519 b), in 1270-1.

- FARRINGTON .. Joce Fitz Peter (III. 613 b), no date.
 (Ludgate & Newgate) [He was Sheriff 1211-2.]
- LANGBOURN .. John Travers (II. 295 b), in 1220-1.
 [He was Sheriff 1215-6 and 1223-5.]
- Matthew Bukerel (II. 297 b), in 1269-70.
 [He was Sheriff 1255-6 and in February 1257.]
- TOWER .. John Adrien (I. 146) in 1253-4.
 [He was Sheriff 1258-9 and 1265-8; Mayor 1270-1, and was father of John Adrien, Alderman of Walbrook and Sheriff 1277-8.]
- VINTRY .. John de Gisors (II. 355 b) in 1266-8.
 [Sheriff 1240-1 and 1245; Mayor 1245-6 and 1258-9, probably father of John de Gisors, Alderman of this Ward 1282-96.]
- WALBROOK .. Simon Fitz Mary (II. 364 b) no date.
 Alexander le Ferrun (II. 369 b) in 1253.

Le Ferrun was elected to succeed Fitz Mary (who had been deprived of his Aldermanry) March 8, 1249 (the Monday before Mid-Lent) and was admitted a week later, March 15 [Chronicle of Mayors and Sheriffs, page 17].

[The Ward for which Fitz Mary and Le Ferrun served is not definitely stated, but each acted as Alderman of the Ward in which property lying in the parish of St. John's Walbrook, was situated, (II. 364 b, 366 b) and Ferrun also for the parish of St. Mary Woolchurch. Each of these parishes comprised portions of four different Wards, but Walbrook is the only one common to both.]

The late Mr. J. J. Stocken, whose MSS. collections are in the Guildhall Library, gives the following names as those of successive Aldermen of the Ward, afterwards known as Farringdon :—

James Blund, in 1225.

Laurence de Frowyk, in 1252-3 [Sheriff 1246-7 and 1251-2].

Richard de Ewell, in 1259 [Sheriff 1256-7].

Adam de Bruning [Sheriff 1259-60.]

He quotes the Liber Trinitatis as his authority, but I have not been able to verify the statement; Blund appears as acting for the parish of St. Martin Outwich in Liber Trinitatis III., 572 b, and this parish included portions of Bishopsgate and Broad Street, but not Farringdon.

Mr. Stocken also gives John Tolesan as Alderman of Walbrook, but he was certainly acting for another Ward in 1253, during his Mayoralty, when Alexander le Ferrun was serving for Walbrook.

The following names occur in the Liber Trinitatis as Aldermen of Wards in which property was situated in the parishes appended to their names; I have added in brackets the Wards comprised in those parishes.

Robert le Blund (II. 303 b), St. Clement Candlewick (Candlewick and Langbourn), at some date between 1221 and 1248.

Thomas de Dureme<sup>1</sup> (II. 302 b), St. Clement Candlewick (Candlewick and Langbourn), at some date between 1221 and 1248.

Joce Junior<sup>2</sup> (II. 323 b), St. Mary Abchurch (Candlewick and Walbrook) at some date between 1221 and 1248.

1. Sheriff 1241-2.

2. Sheriff 1220-1.

John Viel<sup>3</sup> (III. 461 b), St. Nicholas Coleabbey (Bread Street and Queenhithe) at some date between 1221 and 1248.

Peter Aungier<sup>4</sup> (III. 576 b) St. Martin Outwich (Bishopsgate and Broad Street) in 1262-3.

Walter de Insula (III. 577 b) St. Martin Outwich (Bishopsgate and Broad Street) no date.

Peter le Blund<sup>5</sup> (I. 135 b) St. Olave Tower (Aldgate and Tower) no date.

3. Sheriff 1218-20.

4. Sheriff 1264-5.

5. Constable of the Tower in 1249-50 (Chronicle of Mayors and Sheriffs, page 18). He was probably Alderman of Tower Ward.

It may be assumed that the successive Mayors were Aldermen at the dates of election and most of the Sheriffs either when elected or shortly afterwards, but I have not, except in the cases mentioned above, succeeded in finding any evidence which would enable me to assign them definitely to particular Wards or even to justify a suggestion as to those for which they respectively served.

THE LANSDOWNE MS. LIST OF ALDERMEN, 1285-1320.

In the Lansdowne MS. 558 (British Museum) there is a list of Aldermen of each Ward (except Cornhill, which is omitted), for the period between the Iter of 1285 and that of 1320. No dates are given, but the names appear to be intended to be arranged in chronological order. There are some differences between these lists and those given in the preceding pages of this work, but in almost every instance the evidence of the attendances recorded in the Letter Books and of the attestations to deeds enrolled in the Court of Hustings shows that the Lansdowne MS. is in error, and reduces its authority to a minimum in the one or two cases of discrepancy where the proof is not so overwhelming.

In the following Wards the names and order of succession in the Lansdowne MS. coincide with those I have given, viz: Aldersgate, Cheap, Cordwainer, Cripplegate, Dowgate, Tower.

The variations are as follow :—

- ALDGATE . . . MS. omits Hallingberi and Pourte, making Sely follow W. de Hereford.
 [Hallingberi is recorded as acting for this Ward in H.R. 27 (11), (109), (120), 28 (16) (33), and Pourte in 29 (31), 30 (8).]
- BASSISHAW . . . MS. omits R. de Gloucester, Refham and Gisors and inserts John de Nottingham between Blund and Lincoln.
 [R. de Gloucester is found acting for this Ward in H.R. 25 (16), 29 (8), and Refham's election is recorded in Chronicle of Edward I. and II., i, 104. My reasons for placing Gisors here are given in note A, p. 21. "John de Nottingham" is probably the "John de Norhamton son of John de Nottingham," whom I have assigned to Bishopsgate. Gloucester was certainly Alderman of Bassishaw both in 1296 and 1300, whereas Norhamton appears amongst the Aldermen only in 1298 and 1299.]
- BILLINGSGATE . . . MS. omits Russell and Pourte, and gives us the names to fill the interval between Cros who died in 1299 and Drury whose name appears for the first time in 1308.
 [There is evidence for Russell in H.R. 27 (134), 28 (40) (68), 31 (34), and for Pourte in H.R. 31 (67), 32 (23) (30) (39) (63), 34 (21) (81), 35 (74) (94).]
- BISHOPSGATE . . . MS. omits John de Norhamton and substitutes Stephen de Cornhulle.
 [Cornhulle is not found as an Alderman anywhere, in either the Letter Books or the Husting Rolls. A person of this name was Sheriff as far back as 1294-5, but he died about 1295, his will being enrolled on March 14, 1295 [H.R. 24 (49)] whereas Bole, whom he is represented as succeeding, was present continuously at the Court of Aldermen up to 1298. My reasons for placing Norhamton here are given in Note A, p. 43.]
- BREAD STREET . . . MS. transposes Dureme and Betevele, which is clearly impossible, as is proved by the dates both of attendances and death in each case. It also omits le Blund who is found acting for this Ward in H.R. 23 (9) (42), 25 (22), 26 (27), 27 (99).
- BRIDGE . . . MS. inserts H. Pourte between Fulham and Conduit.
 [Fulham is found acting for this Ward in 1306 and 1307 in H.R. 34 (2), and 35 (95), and Conduit in the latter year in H.R. 37 (16). Pourte was acting for Billingsgate as late as July 17, 1307 [H.R. 35 (34)] and died before November 13, in the same year.]
- BROAD STREET . . . MS. omits S. de Abyndon, who is found acting for this Ward in H.R. 46 (23), 47 (23), and gives no other name to supply the interval between Trente's death in 1316 and Nasard's election in 1318.
- CANDLEWICK . . . MS. omits Wengrave who is found acting for this Ward in H.R. 32 (47) (48) and 35 (1), and gives no other name to supply the interval between G. de Northampton's death in 1302 or 1303, and the first attendance of Bolet in 1307.

CASTLE BAYNARD MS. inserts Robert de Basyng between Edelmeton and Aswy.

[This is possibly correct, but there is no other evidence for it. Basyng was a member of the Court of Aldermen as early as March 9, 1282, and is not definitely mentioned as serving for Candlewick till November, 1283. Edelmeton died before March 4, 1280 and Aswy does not appear before March 27, 1284. Basyng may therefore have been Alderman of Castle Baynard before going to Candlewick; on the other hand there is no mention of his predecessor in Candlewick later than October 14, 1280.]

COLEMAN STREET MS. puts Russell before Fitz Peter and W. Hauteyn, and omits N. Hauteyn, whose tenure was so brief that he might easily be overlooked.

[Fitz Peter died in 1290; W. Hauteyn is recorded as acting for this Ward in 1290 and 1291 [H.R. 19 (76), 20 (93)] and Russell does not appear as an Alderman before 1293.]

FARRINGTON .. MS. omits R. le Fevre, whose tenure of the Aldermanry was brief.

LANGBOURN .. MS. omits A. de Rokesle, Refham (bis), and Armentiers.

[A. de Rokesle is found acting for this Ward in H.R. 23 (83), 24 (66), 28 (1); Refham in H.R. 27 (131), 28 (43), 29 (22), 34 (69), (95), 36 (12), (54), and Armentiers in H.R. 30 (4), 33 (37)]

LIME STREET .. MS. omits W. de Rokesle and T. Sely (See Notes A and B, page 178).

QUEENHITHE .. MS. omits R. de Chigwell, whose tenure of the Aldermanry was brief.

VINTRY .. MS. alters the order of the first three names to Wade, Gisors senior, Coventre.

WALBROOK .. MS. omits Wengrave, who is recorded as acting for this Ward in H.R. 36 (67).

The MS. has been quoted as an authority by Mr. Loftie, Mr. Riley and others; I have, therefore, thought it desirable to point out the evidence on which I have felt myself justified in disregarding it. There can, I think, be little doubt, that it was compiled to a great extent from memory without first-hand official documents whereby to correct it. Indeed it is difficult to see how such a list could be made out with accuracy except by a thorough examination and comparison of the Letter Books and Husting Rolls for that special object—a somewhat lengthy and arduous task which has apparently never before been undertaken.

The earliest known lists of Aldermen with the names of their respective Wards belong to the period covered by the Lansdowne MS. list. They are found respectively in (i.) Letter Book A, fo. 116 [Dr. Sharpe's Calendar, page 209] (ii.) Letter Book C, fo. 6 (xxx.) [Calendar, page 12] and (iii.) Letter Book E, fo. 104 b [Calendar, page 124]. Dr. Sharpe has printed all of them as an appendix to vol. i. of his Calendar of Wills (Court of Husting) pp. 702-704. The date of (ii.) is June 16, 1293 (Tuesday before St. Botolph, 21 Edw. I.): that of (iii.) is 1319-20; it relates to the sums levied on each Ward towards the twelfth voted by Parliament to the King in 1319 and immediately follows the entry of a writ addressed to the Assessors and dated January 28, 1320. The earliest list is undated; it probably should be assigned to the year 1285, and certainly to somewhere between October, 1284 and March, 1287, this being proved by the fact that the predecessors of T. Box and M. Box who are named in it as Aldermen of Walbrook and Cornhill respectively were acting at the former whilst J. de Northampton, who appears as Alderman of Aldgate, had been succeeded by W. de Hereford before the latter of these dates. [In his footnote to Letter Book A, p. 11, Dr. Sharpe has inadvertently given February, 1286 as the date in H.R. 17 (22); it should be March 3, 1287 (Monday after St. Matthias, 15 Edw. I.)] In all the three lists the Alderman of Portsoken is given as "Prior of Holy Trinity" without his personal name. The earliest list gives all the Wards, that in Letter Book C omits the Aldermen of Billingsgate and Cheap; that in E, Broad Street. Aldgate is called "Alegate" in all, as was usual at that time; Langbourn is written "Langeford" in the first, Broad Street is "Lodingberi" in the first, "Lotheberi, now called Bradestratre" in the second. Farringdon is "Lodgate" (or Ludgate) "and Neugate" in the two first, {"Farndon Infra"} in the third. {"Farndon Extra"}

Another list of Aldermen (without the names of their respective Wards) appears on a scrap of parchment preserved at the Exchequer ("Q. R. Ancient Miscellanea 128th"); it is undated and contains 21 names, omitting the Prior of Holy Trinity and two other Aldermen. It clearly belongs to the period between January and June 1293; the names given (with some variations of spelling) are those of S. Eswy, H. le Waleys, J. de Banquell, R. de Baing, W. de Hereford, W. le Mazeliner, J. de Canterbury, M. Box, R. de Rokesle, R. le Blund, W. de Farndon, J. le Blund, W. de Betoyne, T. de Estanes, J. de Gisors, H. le Bole, E. Russell, A. de Foleham, R. Eswy, T. Box, W. de Finchfield. The Aldermanries of Billingsgate and Langbourn appear to have been vacant. The names correspond with those elected on June 16, 1293, as given in the list in Letter Book C, except in the absence of any Aldermen for these two Wards, and in the inclusion of T. Box and W. de Farndone who are there replaced by J. de Dunstaple and N. de Farndone.

TRANSLATION OF ALDERMEN.

The removal of an Alderman from one Ward to another, which was an exceedingly common occurrence in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, appears to have been not unusual in the earliest period of which we have records, and continued with diminishing frequency till nearly the end of the seventeenth century; after that time the only instances have been in the case of Bridge Without, the Aldermanry of which Ward, since the Act of 1711, is always given to the senior existing Alderman, who, having served the office of Lord Mayor, is willing to accept the office. The earliest definitely recorded instance of an Alderman of one Ward being elected to another is that of Simon de Abyndon, who, while serving for Tower, was elected to fill a vacancy in Billingsgate, in January, 1320, but did not accept removal, his constituents in the former ward being unwilling to part with him. There were, however, several earlier cases, as will be seen from the ward lists in the foregoing pages, the first being that of John de Banquell who removed from Cripplegate to Dowgate in 1291, unless (see page 239) the Lansdowne MS. is correct in assigning Robert de Basyng to Castle Baynard before serving for Candlewick, of which there is no other evidence.

On January 19, 1479, an order was made that no Alderman should be transferred from one ward to another until he had served at least two years for the one which he then represented [Journal 8, fo. 192] and this order was renewed September 2, 1550 [Letter Book R, fo. 90 b] with the further restriction that the Aldermen of Farringdon Without and Bridge Without should not be eligible for removal until the end of three years from their election. These orders were not always strictly observed, though at times the Court refused to accept nominations, whereby it was infringed.

The latest instance of the translation of an Alderman (other than of those removed by Royal Commission during the suspension of the Charter and of those who accepted Bridge Without after 1711), was in the case of Sir Robert Hanson who removed from Bassishaw to Farringdon Without, April 1, 1680. Some, however, of James II.'s Aldermen, who were superseded on the restoration of the Charter in 1688, were, immediately, or after short intervals, elected to fill vacancies in other wards than those for which they had previously served.

There are three instances of Aldermen serving for five different wards, viz.: W. Baret, H. Vanner and Sir R. Chiverton; thirteen sat for four, viz: Sir N. Twyford, A. Karlill, A. Bamme, S. Eyre, Sir W. Taillour, Sir H. Colet, Sir M. Bowes, Sir W. Chester, Sir R. Haywarde, Sir G. Barne, Sir J. Harte, Sir W. Cokayne, Sir J. Wollaston.

The following (seventy-one in all) served for three wards, viz.: R. de Refham, J. de Wengrave, R. de Conduit, J. de Caustone, Sir J. de Pulteney, W. Halden, A. Stable, J. Organ, T. Welford, J. Southam, W. Tonge, J. Eston, J. Rote, W. Staundon, J. Shadworth, D. Barentyn, W. Askham, J. Gedney, J. Reinwell, J. Brockle, N. Wyfold, Sir T. Cook, Sir H. Hayford, Sir B. James, R. Gardyner, R. Rawson, J. Mathewe, Sir J. Tate (the younger), Sir S. Jenyns, Sir R. Acheley, Sir J. Milbourn, Sir W. Bayley, Sir R. Dodmer, Sir N. Lambarde, Sir S. Pecocke, Sir J. Champneys, Sir W. Laxton, Sir J. ## THE ALDERMANIC VETO.

Until the year 1397 the Aldermen were elected directly by the Wards, but on August 1 in that year an Act of Common Council provided that at least two persons, "good and discreet men, both of whom in moral and temporal good, be fit to be a Judge and Alderman," should be nominated in future on the occasion of a vacancy, one of whom should be chosen by the Court of Aldermen (Letter Book H, fo. 314). By an order of the Court of Aldermen made on September 20, 1402, and approved by the Common Council, November 23 following (Letter Book I., fo. 16 b), the number of persons to be nominated was increased to four "of the more approved and discreet citizens." As a logical corollary to this enactment, the Court claimed and asserted the right of entirely rejecting any nomination which included the name of a person whom it deemed insufficient, inasmuch as otherwise the electors might entirely nullify the provision giving the Aldermen a discretion in the election of a colleague, by returning three obviously unsuitable names and only one properly qualified. The Court also claimed and asserted the right, in case a Ward should persist at three successive Wardmotes in making insufficient nominations, of itself nominating the persons from whom its final choice should be made to fill the vacancy without further reference to the constituency.

On November 7, 1480, a further Act provided that of the four persons nominated at least two should be Commoners (Rep. 7, fo. 43 b); in the previous year (January 19, 1479) it had been enacted that an Alderman might not remove from his Ward to another before he had served at least two years (Journal 8, fo. 192), and this period was extended to three in the case of the two Wards, Bridge Without and Farringdon Without, on September 4, 1550 (Letter Book R, fo. 90 b). These provisions were from time to time enforced, nominations infringing them being rejected by the Court, but this was by no means always the case, there being several instances of the order being disregarded. For more than three centuries the Act requiring four nominations remained in force; it was repealed by the Act of September 20, 1711, reducing the number to be nominated to two (an Alderman and a Commener), and by a further Act of April 15, 1714, all previous Acts were repealed, and it was directed that the "ancient custom" should be "revived," and the inhabitants of the Wards should have "restored" to them "their ancient rights and privileges of choosing one person only," and that "from thenceforth" in all elections of Aldermen, "at a Wardmote to be holden for that purpose, there should be elected, according to the said ancient custom, only one able and sufficient citizen and freeman of the said city, not being an Alderman, to be returned to the Court of Lord Mayor and Aldermen and he should be by them admitted and sworn."

The latest occasion on which the Court had, up to that time, exercised its privilege of rejecting a Wardmote nomination was in 1710, this being only the third instance since 1670: the last instance of nomination by the Court after three rejections of Wardmote nominations had been in 1679. After the passing of the Act of 1714, the Court of Aldermen found no occasion for reviving the right of rejection until 1831, when Michael Scales, a butcher, who had been engaged in more than one discreditable transaction, and who had been elected Alderman by the Ward of Portsoken, was refused admission. The opposition to him was purely on the ground of personal unfitness, there being no political element, inasmuch as although Scales was a vehement Radical Reformer, his opponent at the poll, Daniel Whittle Harvey, M.P., for Colchester, was still more prominent on the same side in the political arena, and on various grounds was especially obnoxious to the Tory party. Scales was re-elected, and the Court then not only refused to admit him, but selected his opponent, W. Hughes Hughes (Harvey not having come forward at the second election). This, however, was clearly beyond the prescriptive rights of the Court of Aldermen, and Hughes was ousted by the Court of King's Bench in July, 1832. In the following year Scales was returned for a third time, being opposed by Thomas Johnson, whom the Court of Aldermen elected after a third rejection of Scales. Then followed a long series of legal proceedings initiated by, or on behalf of, Scales, as detailed at p. 188, resulting in the affirmation by the House of Lords in 1839 of the rights which the Court of Aldermen had claimed and exercised of rejecting unsuitable candidates, and, after three such rejections, of seating some other person without further reference to a Wardmote.

The case for Soales (who maintained that the Act of 1714, by restoring to the Wardmotes the right of nominating a single person, took away from the Court of Aldermen the right of rejection which had been exercised during the three centuries when more than one name had to be submitted to it), was ably argued by Mr. (afterwards Baron) Platt in the Court of King's Bench on November 19, 1831, before Lord Chief Justice Tenterden, Justices Allan Park, Taunton and Patteson, and again on a writ of quo warranto against Johnson before Lord Chief Justice Denman presiding over a Special Jury on December 20, 1834, and by Mr. (afterwards Lord Chief Justice) Erle before the Court of Exchequer Chamber (consisting of Lord Chief Justice Tindal, Justices Allan Park, Gaselee, Bosanquet and Vaughan, Barons Parke, Bolland, Alderson and Gurney) on June 2, 1836, and before the House of Lords on appeal January 19, 1839, the law lords present and pronouncing judgment being Lord Chancellor Cottenham, Lord Wynford (ex-Chief Justice of the Common Pleas) and Lord Brougham (ex-Lord Chancellor) who were assisted at the hearing by eleven common law judges, viz.: Lord Chief Justice Tindal, Justices Littledale, Vaughan, Bosanquet, Patteson, Williams, Coleridge and Coltman, Barons Parke, Alderson and Gurney. All these eminent legal authorities on each occasion concurred in affirming the rights claimed by the Court of Aldermen, the House of Lords, after hearing Mr. Erle, not deeming it necessary to call on the opposing counsel (Sir John Campbell, Attorney-General, subsequently Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench), to reply.

Lord Tenterden, dealing with the argument that the Court of Aldermen should state what their grounds of disapproval were, said that such a contention was absurd; it was not for any higher tribunal to inquire whether they had exercised their discretion properly or not. He added "there is every motive for a good choice by the Court of Aldermen and scarcely any can be assigned for a bad one." Mr. Justice Taunton said that it was "much better that the grounds should not be set out than that they should be disclosed": Mr. Justice Patteson that the custom was a "very reasonable" one, and that if the "mere circumstance of the liability to abuse" were a valid ground for overruling it, it would "do away with all law." Lord Chief Justice Tindal said "the custom is a legal and reasonable custom": Lord Chief Justice Denman that the Act of 1714 "did not at all interfere with" any custom not distinctly referred to in it, and that "a legal custom can be got rid of only by some distinct Act": Lord Brougham that the Act "has no reference to what ought to be done in respect of admission in case of an objection," and "is quite consistent with the custom," and Lord Wynford that "it does not touch any right which may exist elsewhere of controlling the admission of the person to be invested with the office of Alderman."

The final decision of the House of Lords in 1839, confirming the unanimous opinion of so many eminent judges at earlier stages of the litigation, may be considered to have finally settled the question, and it is, therefore, not surprising that when, in the case of Sir John Bennett in 1877, the Court of Aldermen again exercised its rights and, after thrice rejecting Sir John, elected Mr. Breffit to fill the vacancy, no attempt was made to carry the matter further, although it aroused a good deal of evanescent feeling for the time.

In the hearing of the case of Scales before Lord Denman and a Special Jury in 1834, Sir John Campbell, on behalf of the Court of Aldermen, brought forward a large number of precedents, enumerating 48 instances of rejection of nominations, and 16 of election by the Court, after three successive rejections in each case. These, which are printed in the accounts of the quo warranto proceedings, copies of which are very scarce, by no means exhaust the cases on record, and inasmuch as they have never before been fully collected, I append a complete list, so far as I have been able to trace them, of all the instances that appear in the official records of the Court of Aldermen preserved at Guildhall. The references to the Letter Books, Journals and Repertories will be found in each case at an earlier page under the heading of the particular Ward affected.

"FATHERS OF THE CITY"

(SENIOR ALDERMEN.)

It is difficult to make a satisfactory list of "Fathers of the City," inasmuch as there is more than one principle upon which the allocation of that designation may be based. Strictly speaking, the "Father of the City" is the senior Alderman, i.e., the Alderman who, at the particular date, has held that dignity for the longest period, but when, as in earlier times was not infrequently the case, one who had ceased to be an Alderman subsequently returned to the Court, it is open to question whether the seniority should be reckoned by priority of admission or unbroken continuity of service.

Again, official precedence is regulated by the order of succession to the chair, so that all Aldermen who have served as Lord Mayor rank above those who have not attained to that dignity, and those who have filled the office are placed in order of accession to it, hence, an Alderman who has become Lord Mayor before one of his seniors in Aldermanic rank henceforth takes precedence of him. For more than 130 years (since the death of Sir W. Baker, who, though senior Alderman in point of duration of time, had never served as Sheriff, and consequently was not eligible for the office of Lord Mayor), it has happened that the senior ex-Lord Mayor has also been the senior Alderman in respect of date of admission; in the few instances in which an Alderman has been chosen Lord Mayor before one of his seniors, a still earlier Lord Mayor has survived as a member of the Court both of his juniors thus affected. There has been no instance of an ex-Alderman resuming his membership of the Court since that of Sir Charles Duncombe, who had been an Alderman for a brief period during the suspension of the Charter and was subsequently rechosen in 1700.

A.

In the following list I have taken the official standard of precedence, i.e. priority of accession to the Mayoral Chair, no regard being had to priority of admission to the Court of Aldermen. On this basis the succession runs thus:—

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| c1280 Henry le Waleys [Cordwainer]           [He appears to have retired from the Court about 1294, when the City was in the King's hands under a Custos (John le Breton), and there was no other Alderman who had been Mayor. On the restoration of the City's franchises, in April, 1293, le Waleys was re-elected Mayor, though, apparently, not an Alderman. He ceased to be Mayor in October, 1299, but was present at a Court of Aldermen on August 5, 1300 (Letter Book C, fo. 49), although, unless he represented Aldgate for a few months in that year, of which there is no evidence, there was no vacant ward for which he could have been returned] c1300 Elias Russell [Billingsgate]           1303 John le Blund [Cheap]           c1309 Nicholas de Farndone [Ludgate and Newgate] died 1334.           1334 John de Grantham [Cordwainer], died cJanuary, 1345.           1345 Henry Darci [Walbrook]           1346 Reginald de Conduit [Tower] died about December, 1347.           1347 Henry Darci [Walbrook]           1349 Andrew Aubrey [Cordwainer]           1355 Simon Fraunceis [Cheap]           c1358 John Lovekyn [Bridge] died August 4, 1368. | 1368 Adam Fraunceis [Lime Street] died 1375.           1375 John de Stodeye [Vintry] died 1376.           1376 John de Chichester [Farringdon]           1377 (March), Nicholas Brembre (Mayor). [Not an Alderman]           1378 (March), John Pyel [Castle Baynard]           1379 (March), John Warde [Aldgate]           1380 (March), William Walworth [Bridge] [Ceased to be Alderman, March, 1381, but remained Mayor]           1381 (October), John de Northampton (Mayor).           1382 (March), Sir William Walworth [Bridge]           1383 (March), John de Northampton (Mayor).           1383 (October), Sir Nicholas Brembre (Mayor).           1384 (March), Sir William Walworth [Bridge] died December, 1385.           1385 (December), Sir Nicholas Brembre [Bread Street] died February, 1388.           1388 (February), John Hadle [Lime Street]           1393 (March), William Venour [Castle Baynard] |

ALDERMEN, KNIGHTS AND BARONETS.

We commonly find in lists of Mayors of the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries the word "Sir" prefixed to the holder of that office, whence it has been inferred that the knighting of the Mayor (when not already a Knight) was the general custom of that period. This very natural inference is entirely contrary to fact. Very few indeed of the Mayors and Aldermen before the reign of Edward IV. received knighthood, and it is beyond doubt that, to cite the best known instance, the popular designation "Sir Richard Whittington" is altogether erroneous.

In the official records (Husting Rolls, Letter Books, Journals, etc.) at Guildhall, those who were knighted are described as Milites (or individually as Miles), and the presence or absence of this affix in these documents and in the descriptions of testators in their wills proved in the Court of Husting, or in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, is a test which can be generally relied upon in all such cases for determining whether the personage referred to was or was not a knight.

Probably the popular error has arisen from the fact that the word dominus (a mere term of courtesy used in reference to an official) has been commonly translated "Sir," in the same way as that prefix is frequently found assigned to the parochial clergy of the period, who certainly were not knights: e.g., the first victim of the law De Heretico Comburendo is described as Sir William Sawtre. (cf. the parson, Sir Hugh Evans, in The Merry Wives of Windsor). Indeed, "Sir" has become the recognised translation of dominus in these cases, and accordingly so careful and exact a scholar as Dr. Sharpe, in his Calendar of Letter Book B (page 64), prints "Sirs" John de Banquell, John le Blund, Nicholas de Farndone, Richard de Gloucester, and William de Betoynne, the word in the original being dominorum, although the three last named never received knighthood and the first two were knighted at a later date than the entry here calendared. Similarly, in the Calendar of Letter Book C (pages 121, 175), we have "Sirs" prefixed to lists of Aldermen (twelve and thirteen names respectively), followed by "Sir John de Banquelle, Kt." who had then ceased to be an Alderman. Both these entries in Letter Book C refer to transactions in the year 1304, the earliest date, so far as I can find, in which Banquelle, who was not an Alderman after 1299, is definitely styled "knight": it is, therefore, improbable that he held that rank while he was an Alderman. The earliest certain instance I have found in the period treated of in this book (i.e. from about 1275), of an Alderman being knighted is that of John le Blund, who received the honour during his Mayoralty in May, 1306. At an earlier period Robert de Basyng was knighted, but it is not quite clear whether the knighthood was conferred on him before or after he ceased to be an Alderman; his latest recorded certain appearance as an Alderman is in October, 1296, and the earliest notice of him as a knight is on November 30, 1297 [Letter Book B, fo. 103 b (xxxv.)] where his name, described as "citizen and knight," precedes a list of fourteen Aldermen (introduced by the prefix "Sirs") which includes the name of his successor in the ward of Candlewick, Geoffrey de Northone. The unusual designation "citizen and knight" seems to show that he was not, like the rest, an Alderman at this date.

Richard de Refham, who was an Alderman up to 1312, was knighted at some date between 1311 and 1314, but I have not found evidence of his bearing the designation before he ceased to be Alderman.

So far as I can ascertain there is no instance of an Alderman being knighted between 1314 and 1381, except that of John de Pulteney, on whom knighthood was conferred in February, 1337, and possibly of Richard de la Polc, who received that honour, either shortly before or shortly after retirement from his Aldermanry. I have assigned knighthood to John Wroth at p. 22, but I have now little doubt that he was not a knight, at any rate while he was an Alderman.

In 1381, Richard II. knighted Walworth (the Mayor), and four ex-Aldermen, Brembre, Philipot, Twyford and Launde, the first two of whom were re-elected Aldermen in the following year and Twyford in 1383. In his Calendar of Husting Wills (vol. ii., p. 352), Dr. Sharpe states that N. Exton also was knighted on that occasion, but I think this is an error, possibly from confusion with N. Twyford, who bore the same Christian name. He was certainly not a knight as late as 1385, and he is not so described in his will: I think, therefore, that my statement on p. 23 of this work, to the effect that he was "afterwards knighted" is not correct and should be erased.

The next Aldermanic knight was probably William Estfeld. (On pp. 2, 34 I have described Drew Barantyn as a knight, but that, I am now convinced, is an error.) There is no doubt that Estfeld was knighted, probably in 1439, but the commonly received account that he was made a Knight of the Bath during his Mayoralty in 1438-9 seems to me to be more than doubtful. I can find no evidence elsewhere that any Knights of the Bath were made in that year, the dignity in those times being usually conferred on several persons at once, and only on particular occasions, as the coronation or marriage of the King. From Gregory's Chronicle it would appear that Estfeld received a simple knighthood on Whitsunday 1440, but this date cannot be correct, as he is described as Miles under date October 13, 1439, in Letter Book K (fo. 179 b).

At the Coronation of Edward IV., in June 1461, a William Cantelow was made a Knight of the Bath, who was probably identical with the Alderman of Cripplegate.<sup>1</sup> On the occasion of the coronation of Elizabeth Woodville (Edward's consort), May 26, 1465, the Mayor (R. Josselyn), and three other Aldermen (T. Cook, H. Wiche, and J. Plomer), together with H. Waver, who afterwards became an Alderman, were made Knights of the Bath, and on May 20, 1471, on his return from the victory at Tewkesbury, Edward knighted all the Aldermen who had passed the Chair, except those already knights, viz: the Mayor (J. Stokton), M. Phillip, R. Lee, R. Verney, J. Yonge, W. Taillour, and six Aldermen below the chair, making twelve in all: the latter were G. Irlonde, W. Hampton, B. James, T. Stalbrook, J. Crosby, W. Stokker.

During the half-century following this date (1472-1522), the following appear to have been knighted, either during or shortly after their respective Mayoralties: J. Brown, W. Haryott, E. Shaa, R. Billesdon, T. Hill, H. Bryce, H. Colet, W. Horn, W. Martyn, R. Astry, J. Tate the younger, B. Rede, S. Jenyns, W. Butler, T. Exmewe, J. Yarford, J. Brugge, J. Milbourn, J. Mundy, and possibly R. Acheley<sup>2</sup>. In addition to these, J. Percyvale, J. Shaa (Aldermen), and R. Haddon, who soon after became an Alderman, were knighted while Sheriffs, J. Fenkyll and W. Capel while Aldermen, but before attaining to the Shrievalty; Sir L. Aylmer was a knight before he was either Alderman or Sheriff.<sup>3</sup>

From Yarford's Mayoralty to that of Gurney, a period of 122 years (1519-1641), every Lord Mayor (who was not already a knight) was knighted during his year of office or immediately after it, except T. Skinner and R. Freeman, who died within a few months of entering into office. From the beginning of this period till the accession of James I., the Aldermen who were knighted but did not pass the chair were very few indeed: I have not noticed any except J. Skevynton, W. Denham, W. Lok and J. Ayliffe (both knighted during their Shrievalties), and Sir T. Kytson, who was already a knight before becoming either Alderman or Sheriff. In July, 1603, James I. who had conferred the dignity of knighthood on the Lord Mayor (R. Lee) and on ex-Alderman T. Smith in the preceding May, knighted no less than 17 Aldermen, and ex-Alderman H. Brawne, there being already seven ex-Lord Mayors who had been previously thus honoured. The 17 were T. Bennett, T. Lowe, L. Holliday, J. Watts, R. Goddard, H. Rowe, E. Holmedon, R. Hampson, H. Weld, T. Cambell, W. Craven, H. Anderson, W. Glover, J. Pemberton, J. Swyanerton, W. Romeney, T. Middleton. Only one Member of the Court of Aldermen was left without a prefix to his name (Roger Clarke); for what reason is not apparent. (I have erroneously assigned knighthood to him at p. 58 and to R. Freeman at p. 124.) Aldermen R. Jones, J. Deane and C. Scudamore, who were afterwards knighted by James I., did not attain to the Mayoralty.

1. In the will of Sir W. Cantelow (dated February 21, 1463, proved May 11, 1464, P.C.C. 4 Godyn) he is described as "mercier," to which Company the Alderman belonged. There is, however, no indication of knighthood in the Journal recording the Alderman's discharge in 1462, nor is the fact of his receiving that honour mentioned either in Gregory's Chronicle or in the "Short English Chronicle" (Lambeth MS., 306), both of which record the knighting of other London Aldermen later in Edward's reign.

2. I have assigned knighthood to R. Acheley at pp. 109, 123. He is, however, nowhere described as "knight" in the Repertories or Journals, his name appearing without that designation in lists of Aldermen, including some who are so described, some years after his mayoralty. Nor is he described as "knight" in his will (P.C.C. 13 Bedford), but in P.C.C. 25 Hogan (1536), we find the will of Dame Blythe Acheley of the same parish (St. Christopher, London) which, unless (of which I know no evidence) the widow of a Lord Mayor was entitled to or claimed that designation as such, implies that her husband had been a knight. On the whole the balance of probability seems to be against the fact of knighthood in this case, and I regard the appellation of Dame as inaccurately assumed by or attributed to the lady.

3. In the lists of Aldermen of the various wards in the earlier pages of this work, which were printed before I had given full consideration to the question of the accuracy of the designation "knight" as applied by Stow, and generally adopted by subsequent writers, I have described as "knights" the following Lord Mayors of the period 1472-1522, but am now convinced that in each of these cases that description is erroneous, viz.: R. Bassett (p. 10), N. Ailwyn (p. 17), G. Monoux (p. 18) W. Remyngton (p. 24), T. Kneseworth and T. Mirlyn (p. 35), H. Kebyll (pp. 115, 146), W. Brown (p. 175).

In 1629, Charles I. conferred Baronetcies on one of the Sheriffs, W. Acton, and (a few months later), on R. Ducye, and in 1641 a similar honour was given to H. Pratt and to the Lord Mayor (R. Gurney). Sir B. Hicks and T. Lawley were made Baronets after ceasing to be Aldermen in 1620 and 1641 respectively, and Sirs H. Windham and W. Cooper were already Baronets when elected Aldermen.

The first Lord Mayor in whose case the custom of knighthood, which had been now established for 120 years, was broken, was the Republican, Isaac Penington, who was elected on the removal of Gurney in August, 1642. In the preceding December, seven Aldermen were knighted (J. Cordell, T. Soame, J. Gayre, Jacob Garrard, J. Wollaston, G. Garret and G. Clarke), one of whom (Wollaston), acted with the Parliamentary party, the others being Royalists.

In June, 1649, a proposal was made to authorise the Speaker to confer knighthood on the then Lord Mayor (Andrewes), and on Aldermen Penington and Atkyn, but nothing appears to have come of it, although the proposal has been by some writers, (including Mr. W. C. Metcalfe in his Book of Knights), erroneously accepted as if it were a fait accompli. Penington certainly never received knighthood at all, and Andrewes and Atkyn had to wait till 1657, when the Protector Cromwell conferred the title upon them, having previously bestowed a similar honour on four successive Lord Mayors (T. Vyner, C. Pack, J. Dethicke and R. Tichborne), and on an ex-Lord Mayor (T. Foot). In 1658, the Lord Mayor of that year (R. Chiverton) and J. Ireton were also knighted. Sir J. Barkstead, the regicide, another of Cromwell's knights, became an Alderman in 1658. Of course, these titular distinctions were not recognised after the Restoration, but Vyner, Dethicke and Chiverton were again knighted by Charles II. That monarch conferred knighthood at the Hague, in May, 1660, a few days before his return, on Aldermen J. Robinson, W. Wale and A. Bateman, and ex-Aldermen T. Bludworth, T. Biddulph, J. Lewis, W. Bateman and W. Vincent, as well as on T. Adams, J. Bunce and J. Langham, who had been deprived of their Aldermanries by Parliament, and were shortly after restored to them. The three last-named were almost immediately promoted to Baronetcies, as also were Sir J. Robinson, the Lord Mayor (T. Alleyne) and R. Browne (who had been knighted on the day of the king's entry into London), and T. Foot, a little later, after vacating his Aldermanry. Other Royalist Aldermen were knighted, viz.: W. Thompson, J. Lawrence, J. Frederick, A. Reynardson (the lastnamed a few days before his restoration to his seat).

Between 1600 and the Restoration the following were Knights before being elected Aldermen: Sirs G. Howland, W. Bond, T. Hayes, W. Herrick, W. Stone, B. Hicks (afterwards Baronet), H. Lee, H. Handford, S. Leeche, H. Rowe, Gervase Elwes, S. Soame, R. Prince, and S. Scott. Ex-Aldermen W. Tirrey and J. Hanbury were knighted in 1624 and 1627 respectively.

From the Restoration to 1730, a period of 70 years, there is no instance of a Lord Mayor who was not a knight or baronet. As the sheriffs were generally knighted in the reigns of Charles II., and James II., many of these Lord Mayors had received the prefix before reaching the chair. The Lord Mayor for 1730-1 was Humphrey Parsons, a strong Tory and opponent of Walpole's Government, whose political principles, no doubt, were the cause of the old custom being again broken. Probably the same reason operated in the cases of J. Barber, G. Heathcote, W. Benn, J. Blachford and R. Alsop, who were opponents of the dominant Whig party and were similarly passed over during the ensuing twenty years, and it seems likely that M. Perry (Lord Mayor, 1738-9), who was a somewhat erratic politician, opposing Walpole on the Excise Bill, but afterwards a ministerial candidate for the city at the election of 1741, owed the absence of any titular honour to his parliamentary action.

From 1750 till the middle of Queen Victoria's reign, the practice of conferring such distinctions on the Lord Mayor or Sheriffs became much less general. This is partly to be accounted for by the fact that during a considerable portion of George IIIrd's reign the Court of Aldermen and the Common Council were in strong opposition to the Court: several, however, of the Lord Mayors in the latter portion of his reign received baronetcies, and Sheriffs presenting loyal addresses were knighted. Between 1809 and 1851 no Alderman received knighthood, though eight baronetcies were bestowed. Since 1863, eighteen baronetcies have been conferred on Lord Mayors, and two on Aldermen who had already passed the chair, and twenty ordinary knighthoods on Aldermen, four of them being granted to Lord Mayors during or on the expiration of their terms of office, and one to the senior unknighthed ex-Lord Mayor. Besides these the dignity of K.C.M.G. has been conferred to five present or past Lord Mayors and those of G.C.I.E. and K.C.V.O. on Sir G. F. Faudel-Phillips and Sir J. C. Dimsdale respectively. The last-named distinction was also given to ex-Alderman Sir S. H. Waterlow.

<sup>4</sup>At pp. 13, 65 I have myself followed Metcalfe in recording these imaginary knighthoods in the cases of Andrewes and Penington.

The following (since the Restoration) were knighted before becoming Aldermen, those marked † whilst acting as Sheriffs: Sirs R. Ford, W. Warren, R. Vyner, R. Piggott, F. Clarke, R. Ratcliffe, †James Smyth, †N. Herne, †J. Lethuillier, †R. Geffery, †J. Shorter, †T. Gold, †W. Rawsterne, †J. Peake, †T. Beckford, †J. Chapman, †S. Lewis, †J. Raymond, B. Bathurst, J. Buckworth, B. Newland, †W. Gostlyn, †P. Vandeput, †T. Kinsey, W. Russell, J. Sambroke, M. Vincent, T. Griffiths, G. Roberts, †B. Firebrace, R. Hawkins, John Eyles, sen., †T. Stampe, T. Lane, T. Cooke, W.-Hedges, †O. Buckingham, †J. Jefferies, †R. Beachcroft, R. Hoare, sen., †J. Woolfe, †W. Humfreys, †C. Peers, J. Bateman, G. Thorold, †B. Green, H. Furnese, †A. Crowley, †C. Cooke, H. Of these only the six last named were elected during the last 150 years, the latest (Sir J. Duke) dating as far back as 1840.

Also knighthoods were conferred, as above stated, on T. Adams, J. Langham, J. Bunce, T. Bludworth and A. Reynardson in 1660, and on †R. How in 1678, all of whom had previously been Aldermen and were subsequently re-elected; in 1699 †C. Duncombe similarly received knighthood in the interval between his tenure of the Aldermanries of different wards.

In addition to those named on page 257 as knighted at the Hague, the following received knighthood after ceasing to be Aldermen: J. Cutler, J. Clayton, A. Riccard, S. White, R. Smyth, W. Nutt (1660), J. Dethicke (1661), M. Noel (1662), A. Ingram (1664), S. Micoe (1665), W. Bucknell, J. James (1670), H. Barnard (1677), P. Paravicini (1687), J. Herne (1690), and W. J. R. Cotton (1892), and Baronetcies were conferred on the following Ex-Aldermen: T. Cullum, W. Humble, R. Austen, W. Dudley, H. Smithson, J. Trott, Sir J. Lewis, Sir J. Cutler, G. Winn (1660), H. Pickering, R. Newton, R. Dycer, T. Rich, Sir T. Vyner, F. Bickley (1661), Sir Jacob Garrard (1662), T. Bateman, Sir T. Biddulph, W. Greene (1664), W. Leman, Sir R. Smyth (1665), H. Parker, J. Roberts (1681), Sir B. Firebrace (1698), and G. Page (1714).

Appended is a complete List of Knighthoods and Baronetcies conferred upon existing Members of the Court of Aldermen since the Restoration. Those marked * received the distinction when serving as, or shortly after ceasing to be, Lord Mayor, those marked † during or shortly after their term of office as Sheriff.

Sirs R. Vyncr, H. Ashhurst, S. Garrard, H. Furnese, John Eyles, were already Baronets at the dates of their respective elections, and Sir J. Knill succeeded his father in the title after becoming an Alderman. Sir S. T. Janssen inherited a Baronetcy after he had exchanged the position of Alderman for that of Chamberlain.

[The statement made in the foregoing article as to the comparative rarity of knighthood amongst Mayors and Aldermen before the 16th century, though resting on my own independent research, is in entire accord with the conclusion which had been derived by that painstaking and accurate antiquarian, Mr. W. Duncombe Pink, from an examination of authorities which did not include the Letter Books, Repertories and Journals to which I have had access. The results of Mr. Pink's researches, which are so fully confirmed by the additional authorities that I have been able to consult, were embodied by him in an article on "Civic Knights" contributed to Notes and Queries of May 26, 1900 (9th Series, vol. V., p. 409.)]

ALDERMEN OF LONDON IN PARLIAMENT.

Until the Stuart period, and indeed until the Restoration, Aldermen of London were comparatively rarely found in Parliament except as representatives of the City. On the other hand it has been, from the earliest period to the present day, still more rare for the City not to number amongst its representatives one or more of the existing Aldermen. I have, therefore, in the following pages given first (A) a list of the Parliamentary representatives of the City of London from the earliest date obtainable, followed by (B) memoranda as to Aldermen representing other constituencies.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT FOR THE CITY OF LONDON.

1283-1905.

The following is certainly the completest and most accurate list of the Parliamentary representatives of the City of London which has appeared in print, and I doubt if it is now possible to supply with certainty from any extant source the lacunæ which I have found myself unable to fill.

The names recorded in the Blue Books ("Return of Members of Parliament") published in 1878 and 1879 were considerably supplemented by Dr. Sharpe in his Appendix B to "London and the Kingdom" (vol. iii. pp. 467-491), a most valuable work which should be in the hands of everyone who takes interest in the history of the metropolis, and of its connexion with and influence upon the general political history of the nation. Dr. Sharpe's list, however, though more complete than any that had preceded it, leaves room for additions and corrections, and he does not record the votes polled at contested elections, or the names of unsuccessful candidates (many of whom were Aldermen), or the political opinions of those elected or defeated; these I am enabled to supply in a great measure from contemporary newspapers and other records, from the Revolution to the present time.

The following extract from "London and the Kingdom" gives details as to the occasional variations in the number of members elected:

"The number of representatives of the City in Parliament has varied from time to time . . . . The more usual number as gathered from the City's archives was either two or four, although there have been occasions (as in the Parliament of 1284" [this should be 1283] "and more especially during the Commonwealth) when it amounted to six and (as in Barebone's Parliament) even to seven. Frequently it happened that when the writ prescribed the election of two members, four or more were elected, although not more than two, or perhaps three, were to attend. It is in 1346 that we meet for the first time with a writ commanding the election of four members. In the following year a writ was issued for the election of the old number (two), but this was apparently a mistake, for another writ was soon afterwards issued stating that the number should be four. The City, however, displayed great apathy in the matter—the attendance in Parliament interferred no doubt with the commercial pursuits of the members—and although four were elected, it was distinctly provided that three (or even two) might attend. On the other hand, when the City was called upon to elect two members for the Parliament of 1348 it returned four. From 1351 to 1354 the writs prescribed only two members, and the City returned only two; but from 1355 down to the passing of the Redistribution of Seats Act in 1885 . . . . the City of London was, if we except the Parliament of 1371, never represented in the council of the nation by less than four members."

Dr. Sharpe goes on to say that, "so long as the City was represented by two members, both were usually Aldermen," adding in a footnote that "an exception appears to have been made in 1352, when a Commoner was returned with an Alderman." The rule was not so general as Dr. Sharpe implies; it will be seen from the following list that it was not observed in the case of several other Parliaments in addition to that of 1352. Dr. Sharpe has been misled by the fact that most of the Commoners elected were themselves subsequently Aldermen (or, as in the case of Robert de Kelesye, had previously held the office), but were not at the period of election in that position.

Dr. Sharpe is quite correct in adding that "at first when four were returned, two were, as a rule, Aldermen, and two Commoners." From 1355 to 1439 this seems to have been the invariable practice (with the single exception of 1371, when only two members, an Alderman and a Commoner were returned). In 1442 the place of one of the Aldermen was filled by the Recorder, but in the subsequent Parliaments from 1445 to 1460 inclusive two Aldermen were chosen, as well as in those of 1469, 1472, 1478, 1482, January and July, 1483 and 1491. With those exceptions, the representatives from 1463 to 1628 were one Alderman, the Recorder and two Commoners, but in 1489 and 1566 an Alderman was elected in place of the Recorder on a vacancy occurring during the continuance of the Parliament. Two Aldermen sat in 1628, in the short Parliament of 1640, in the long Parliament and in "Barebone's Parliament," in the last of which there were five Commoner representatives. In 1654 one of the six members was an Alderman, the Recorder being another: in 1656 two out of a total of six were Aldermen. In 1659 and 1660 only one Alderman was elected on each occasion. From 1661 to the Reform Act of 1832 the number varied; very frequently all the four members were chosen from the Aldermanic body. To the first Reformed Parliament three Aldermen were returned, but in the following year (1833) two of them were succeeded by Commoners, and from that date till his death in 1843, Sir Matthew Wood was the only Aldermanic representative of the City in Parliament. From 1843 to 1849 there was an interval during which the representation was monopolised, by Commoners; from 1849 to 1880 one Alderman was included in the list.

In the Parliament of 1880-1885 (the last in which four were returned) three Members were Aldermen, and since Mr. Gladstone's Reform Act of 1885, which took away two members from the City, (no doubt, because, after a long period of Liberal domination, the Conservative party was now in the ascendant in the constituency), the representation has been evenly divided, one member being an Alderman and one a Commoner, until Sir J. Dimsdale's withdrawal from the Court of Aldermen, retaining his Parliamentary seat, in December, 1902.

With regard to the constituency by which the members were chosen, Dr. Sharpe writes (London and the Kingdom, vol. iii., page 469):

"The Parliamentary elections were originally carried out by the Mayor and Aldermen and a deputation specially summoned from each ward, but the choice of members practically lay with the Mayor and Aldermen. In course of time the Commoners came to be elected by the Common Council. . . . In 1523 we find an election taking place at the [court of] Husting in the Great Hall. One Alderman and the Recorder were nominated by the Court of Aldermen, and their nomination was subsequently confirmed by the Common Council in the Guildhall; whilst two Commoners were nominated by the Commonalty attending at the Husting. But even the latter nominations appear to have been in this instance confirmed by the Common Council. Six years later (viz. in 1529) . . . the election took place as before at the [court of] Husting in the Great Hall; the Aldermen were nominated by the Mayor and Aldermen in the Inner Chamber of the Guildhall [i.e., in the Court of Aldermen] and were afterwards ratified and confirmed by a large gathering of the Commonalty in the Great Hall, but the Commoners were elected by the Commonalty without any subsequent ratification by the Common Council.

"At what date the Livery—as distinct from the citizens at large—began to usurp the functions of the Commonalty and claim the exclusive right of electing City members is not clear; but that they did so monopolise the Parliamentary franchise long before it was restricted to them by the Election Act of 1725 there is ample evidence, and they continued to enjoy this monopoly until the passing of the Reform Act of 1832."

Since 1832 the qualifications for the franchise in the City of London have been the same as in other cities and boroughs.

In the following list names of Aldermen are in small capitals: those to whom the mark * is prefixed subsequently became Aldermen, while the mark † denotes those who had already been Aldermen but had retired from that position before the date of election to Parliament. The references to "Palgrave" in the footnotes are to Sir F. Palgrave's "Parliamentary Writs."

The earliest record of the names of the Members for the City of London is found in the Chronicles of Edward I. and II. (Rolls Series No. 76) vol. i., p. 92, in which it is assigned to the year 1284. This should certainly be 1283. The Chronicle, as is clear from other entries throughout, divides the years by the names of the Mayors and Sheriffs, and dates of the earlier events in each year so reckoned often correspond with the preceding year according to the ordinary calendar. The members whose names are here recorded attended the Parliament at Shrewsbury 'on the business of David' (the Welsh prince, Llewelyn's brother) and brought back his head with them to London to be fixed on London Bridge ("perrezerunt ad Salopiam ad parlamentum super negotio David filii Griffini et portabant caput ejus secum Londonias"). This Parliament met September 30, 1283, and David was sentenced and executed October 3 in that year.

[Died April, 1689]

[Pilkington was elected Alderman of Vintry, February 26, 1689, and Clayton of Cheap in October following]

1689, May 13.

Vice Love (new writ April 26).

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig.

NOTE.—The returns and particulars as to the elections to the parliaments after the Long Parliament (1641-1653) being taken from contemporary lists and newspapers, I have not thought it necessary to continue giving references beyond that date. The names of members elected in the parliaments from 1661 to 1895 are recorded in the Blue Books, as also those for the Parliament of 1654, in which, however, one name (that of Avery) is omitted owing to the original return being torn.

[Poll declared March 4]

†*Sir William Turner, Tory, 3,131.

SIR SAMUEL DASHWOOD [Aldgate], Tory, 3,117.

SIR WILLIAM PRICHARD [Broad Street], Tory, 3,026.

Sir Thomas Vernon, Haberdasher, Tory, 2,942.Sir Thomas Pilkington, Lord Mayor [Vintry], Whig, 2,519.Sir Robert Clayton [Cheap], Whig, 2,368.Sir William Ashhurst [Billingsgate], Whig, 2,326.Sir Patience Ward [Farringdon Within], Whig, 2,289.

[Turner, who was restored to the Aldermanry of Castle Baynard in May, 1690, died February 9, 1693]

1693, March 2.

Vice Turner (new writ February 10).

SIR JOHN FLEET, Lord Mayor [Langbourn], Tory, 1,925.

Sir William Ashhurst [Billingsgate], Whig, 1,741.

1695.

[Poll 4 days; Closed October 25]

SIR JOHN FLEET [Langbourn], Tory, 4,876.

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig, 2,821.

SIR ROBERT CLAYTON [Cheap] Whig, 2,619.

†Thomas Papillon, Whig, 2,612.

Sir William Prichard [Broad Street], Tory, 2,334.Sir William Russell, Tory, 2,287.Sir Thomas Vernon, Tory, 2,276.

[Fleet was apparently supported by both parties]

[Poll 3 days; Closed August 2]

SIR JOHN FLEET [Langbourn], Tory, 3,595.

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,505.

SIR JAMES HOUBLON [Aldersgate], Whig, 2,684.

†Thomas Papillon, Whig, 2,260.

*Gilbert Heathcote, Whig, 2,161.

Samuel Shephard, Vintner, Whig, 2,121.[Sir W. Prichard (Broad Street) was nominated in the Tory interest, but withdrew before the poll. Heathcote and Shephard represented the New East India Company, Fleet the original East India Company, and Houblon the Bank of England. The last-named died October 25, 1700, and no successor was elected, the parliament being dissolved in December]

1701, February.

[Poll 4 days; Closed January 23]

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,291.

*Gilbert Heathcote, Whig, 3,182.

SIR ROBERT CLAYTON [Cheap], Whig, 3,124.

SIR WILLIAM WITHERS [Farringdon Within], Tory, 2,798.

Sir Charles Duncombe [Bridge], Tory, 2,714.Sir John Fleet [Langbourn], Tory, 2,544.Sir Francis Child [Farringdon Without], Tory, 2,255.Sir William Prichard [Broad Street], Tory, 2,126.

[On a scrutiny, which closed February 1, the numbers were reduced to 3,245, 3,135, 3,088, 2,758, 2,631, 2,480, 2,189, 2,068.

Withers, though a Tory, was supported by the Whigs, probably as being one of the Committee of the New East India Company.

Heathcote was "expelled the House," Feb. 22, 1701, as being ineligible through holding the office of a Trustee of Exchequer Bills]

[Poll 3 days; Closed March 19]

Vice Heathcote (new writ February 26).

SIR JOHN FLEET [Langbourn], Tory, 2,356.

SIR THOMAS ABNEY [Vintry], Whig, 2,647.

SIR ROBERT CLAYTON [Cheap], Whig, 2,602.

Sir Charles Duncombe [Bridge], Tory, 1,490.Sir John Fleet [Langbourn], Tory, 1,423.Sir John Houblon [Cornhill], Whig, 995.Sir Richard Levett [Bridge Without], Tory, 945.Sir John Parsons [Bassishaw], Tory, 137.[Sir William Gore, Lord Mayor [Coleman Street], was originally one of the Tory candidates with Fleet, Duncombe and Levett: he withdrew after the nomination, and many of the Tories gave their votes to Houblon, who was standing independently of the four official Whig candidates]

1702.

[Poll 4 days; Closed July 25]

SIR JOHN FLEET [Langbourn], Tory, 3,177.

GILBERT HEATHCOTE [Walbrook], Whig, 3,038.

[Knighted October 29, 1702]

SIR WILLIAM PRICHARD [Broad Street], Tory, 2,993.

SIR FRANCIS CHILD [Farringdon Without], Tory, 2,849.

Sir Robert Clayton [Cheap], Whig, 2,791.Sir Charles Duncombe [Bridge], Tory, 2,777.Sir William Ashhurst [Billingsgate], Whig, 2,738.Sir Thomas Abney [Vintry], Whig, 2,713.

[There was a scrutiny which closed August 18 the final numbers are not recorded. Prichard died February 13, 1705: no successor was elected, Parliament being dissolved April 5]

1705.

[Poll 4 days; Closed May 17]

SIR GILBERT HEATHCOTE [Walbrook], Whig, 3,346.

Samuel Shephard, Whig, 3,013.

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig, 2,961.

SIR ROBERT CLAYTON [Cheap], Whig, 2,919.

[Died July 16, 1707]

Sir Richard Hoare [Broad Street] Tory, 2,195.Sir John Fleet [Langbourn] Tory, 2,187.Sir William Withers [Farringdon Within] Tory, 1964.Sir John Parsons [Bassishaw] Tory, 1,709.

1707.

Vice Clayton (new writ November 10).

[Poll 5 days; Closed November 22]

SIR WILLIAM WITHERS, Lord Mayor [Farringdon Within] Tory, 3,146.

Sir John Buckworth, Bart., Fishmonger, Whig, 2,893.

[There was a scrutiny which closed December 18; the final numbers not recorded]

1708.

[Poll 4 days; Closed May 14]

*John Ward, Tory, 3,353.

[Elected Alderman of Candlewick, April 7, 1709]

SIR GILBERT HEATHCOTE [Walbrook], Whig, 3,216.

SIR WILLIAM ASHHURST [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,209.

SIR WILLIAM WITHERS, Lord Mayor [Farringdon Within] Tory, 3,189.

Sir Samuel Stanier [Aldgate] Whig, 3,012.

Sir John Buckworth, Bart., Whig, 2,284.

Sir Richard Hoare [Bread Street] Tory, 2,245.

Sir Francis Child [Farringdon Without] Tory, 2,026.

[Buckworth retired on the third day of the poll, when he was above Stanier. Ward went over to the Whigs during this Parliament, and supported the impeachment of Sacheverell]

1710.

[Poll 5 days; Closed October 14]

SIR WILLIAM WITHERS [Farringdon Within], Tory, 3,629.

SIR RICHARD HOARE [Bread Street], Tory, 3,572.

Sir George Newland, Joiner, Tory, 3,385.

*John Cass, Tory, 3,240.

[Elected Alderman of Portsoken, January 23, 1711; Knighted June 14, 1712]

John Ward [Candlewick], Whig, 3,224.

Sir Gilbert Heathcote, Lord Mayor elect [Walbrook], Whig, 3,185.

Sir James Bateman [Coleman Street], Whig, 3,104.

Sir William Ashhurst [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,048.

[There was a scrutiny which closed on November 16, the final numbers are not recorded.]

All the members, except Withers, voted with the Whigs against the Tory government on the French Commercial Treaty in 1713]

1713.

[Poll 11 days; Closed October 24]

SIR RICHARD HOARE, Lord Mayor [Bread Street], Tory, 3,842.

Sir George Newland, Tory, 3,826.

[Died by suicide, March 26, 1714]

SIR JOHN CASS [Portsoken], Tory, 3,802.

SIR WILLIAM WITHERS [Farringdon Within], Tory, 3,763.

John Ward [Candlewick], Whig, 3,730.

Robert Heysham, Whig, 3,688.

Peter Godfrey, Mercer, Whig, 3,657.

Thomas Scawen [Cornhill], Whig, 3,625.

[There was a scrutiny which was closed, though not completed, November 12, this being the day on which the writ was returnable; the final numbers are not recorded. The defeated candidates petitioned, but parliament was dissolved before the case was heard: owing to the petition being undecided, no new writ was issued on Newland's death.]

At this election, Sir Peter King, Recorder (afterwards Lord Chancellor), was one of the original Whig candidates: on his withdrawal, Godfrey was substituted. Heysham had previously sat for Lancaster as a Hanoverian Tory]

1715.

[Poll 6 days; Closed January 29]

*Robert Heysham, Whig, 3,499.

[Elected Alderman of Billingsgate, January 14, 1720]

SIR JOHN WARD [Candlewick], Whig, 3,475.

Peter Godfrey, Whig, 3,471.

SIR THOMAS SCAWEN [Cornhill], Whig, 3,439.

Sir John Cass [Portsoken], Tory, 2,884.

Sir William Withers [Farringdon Within], Tory, 2,879.

Sir William Stewart [Cripplegate], Tory, 2,828.

Sir George Mertins [Bridge], Tory, 2,774.

[Godfrey and Heysham voted with the Tories in opposition to the Septennial Bill, the Peerage Bill and the Bill for repealing the Occasional Conformity Act. Their colleagues also opposed the Septennial Bill]

1722.

[Poll 5 days; Closed April 14]

Richard Lockwood, Mercer, Tory, 4,235.

*John Barnard, Whig, 3,980.

Peter Godfrey, Whig, 3,853.

[Died November 10, 1724]

FRANCIS CHILN [Farringdon Without], Tory, 3,784

Humphrey Parsons [Portsoken], Tory, 3,593.

Robert Heysham [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,573.

[There was a scrutiny which closed May 8, when the final numbers stood: 4,025, 3,840, 3,723, 3,575, 3,393, 3,441, Heysham being thus placed above Parsons. Richard Brocas [Farringdon Within], was one of the original Tory candidates with Child and Lockwood: on his withdrawal, Parsons was adopted in his place. Barnard, though nominally a Whig, was a strong opponent of Walpole, and was supported by the Tories at subsequent elections]

1724.

Vice Godfrey (new writ, November 16).

[Poll 6 days; closed November 28]

SIR RICHARD HOPKINS [Lime Street], Whig, 3,332.

Charles Goodfellow, Mercer, Tory, 2,911.

[There was a scrutiny which was abandoned December 9; the final numbers were not recorded]

1727.

[Poll 6 days; closed October 18]

SIR JOHN EYLES, BART., Lord Mayor [Vintry], Whig, 3,643.

*John Barnard, Opposition Whig, 3,620.

[Elected Alderman of Dowgate, January 4, 1728; Knighted September 28, 1732]

*Micajah Perry, Whig, 3,494.

[Elected Alderman of Aldgate, February 24, 1728] HUMPHREY PARSONS [Portsoken], Tory, 3,370.

Sir John Thompson [Candlewick], Whig, 3,340.

Richard Lockwood, Tory, 3,286.

Sir John Williams [Cripplegate], Tory, 3,017.

Sir Richard Hopkins [Lime Street], Whig, 3,010.

[There was a scrutiny which closed November 20, when the final numbers stood: 3,539, 3,514, 3,396, 3,255, 3,244, 2,977, 2,914, 2,921; Hopkins being thus placed above Williams]

1734.

[Poll 7 days; Closed May 8]

HUMPHREY PARSONS [Portsoken] Tory, 3,932.

SIR JOHN BARNARD [Dowgate], Opposition Whig, 3,841.

MICAHAH PERRY [Aldgate], Whig, 3,725.

*Robert Willimott, Whig, 2,984.

[Elected Alderman of Lime Street, Jan. 28, 1736]

John Barber [Castle Baynard], Tory, 2,351.

Robert Godschohl [Bishopsgate], Tory, 1,078.

[Parsons, Barnard, Perry and Godschohl issued a joint address: Perry, who was a Whig, had opposed Walpole's Excise Scheme. Barber, who was an avowed Jacobite, polled 577 plumpers. Willimott and Perry received the support of the Dissenters. Godschohl, who was ahead of Perry and Willimott on the first three days' poll, fell behind on the fourth day and retired on the fifth in favour of Barber.

Parsons died March 21, 1741: no new writ was issued, Parliament being dissolved on April 27, following] 1741.

[Poll 7 days; Closed May 12]

SIR JOHN BARNARD [Dowgate], Opposition Whig, 3,769.

GEORGE HEATHCOTE [Walbrook], Opposition Whig, 3,322.

DANIEL LAMBERT, Lord Mayor [Tower], Tory, 3,217.

[Knighted February 18, 1744]

SIR ROBERT GODSCHALL [Bishopsgate], Tory, 3,143.

[Died June 26, 1742]

Micajah Perry [Aldgate], Whig, 1,718.

Sir Edward Bellamy [Billingsgate], Whig, 1,311.

Edward Vernon, Admiral, Opposition Whig, 1,175.

[Vernon, who was a strong opponent of Walpole, was proposed by the Walpole party (in the hope that his popularity might aid the candidates associated with him), without his knowledge, being absent on service abroad, although he was at the same time the Opposition candidate for Westminster]

1742, July 13.

Vice Godschohl (new writ July 1).

WILLIAM CALVERT [Portsoken], anti-Walpole Whig.

[Knighted February 18, 1744]

1747.

[Poll 7 days; Closed July 8]

SIR WILLIAM CALVERT [Portsoken], independent Whig, 3,806.

SIR JOHN BARNARD [Dowgate], independent Whig, 3,781.

*Slingsby Bethell, Whig, 3,146.

[Elected Alderman of Walbrook, January 19, 1749]

*Stephen Theodore Jannsen, Whig, 3,008.

[Elected Alderman of Bread Street, Nov. 23, 1748]

Sir Daniel Lambert [Tower], Tory, 2,530.

Sir Robert Ladbroke [Castle Baynard], independent Whig, 1,986.

Sir Henry Marshall [Farringdon Within], Tory, 73.

[This was not a political contest. Bethell and Jannsen were nominated on behalf of the London Merchants in opposition to the four Aldermen, but both of them, after securing their elections on the anti-Aldermanic interest, became Aldermen themselves within two years. Marshall retired after the first day's poll. Many of Bethell and Jannsen's supporters voted also for Barnard and Calvert]

[Poll 7 days; Closed May 7]

SIR JOHN BARNARD [Bridge Without], Whig, 3,553.

[Resigned his Aldermanry, July, 1758]

SLINGSBY BETHELL [Walbrook], Whig, 3,547.

[Died November 1, 1758]

SIR ROBERT LADBROKE [Castle Baynard], Whig, 3,390.

WILLIAM BECKFORD [Billingsgate], Whig, 2,941.

Sir Richard Glyn [Dowgate], Whig, 2,655.

Sir William Calvert [Portsoken], Whig, 2,650.

[This was not a party contest, Toryism being practically dormant at this time. Calvert lost his election mainly on account of his support of the Jews' Naturalization Bill in the preceding Parliament. Bethell, Glyn and Beckford issued a joint address]

1758, November 30.

Vice Bethell (new writ November 23).

SIR RICHARD GLYN, Lord Mayor [Dowgate], Whig.

[Created a Baronet, September, 1759]

1761.

[Poll 7 days; closed April 2]

SIR ROBERT LADBROKE [Bridge Without], Whig, 4,306.

Hon. Thomas Harley, Tory, 3,983.

[Elected Alderman of Portsoken May 5, 1761]

WILLIAM BECKFORD [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,663.

SIR RICHARD GLYN, BART. [Dowgate], Whig, 3,285.

Sir Samuel Fludyer, Bart. [Cheap], Tory, 3,198.

[This was not a party contest. Harley was brought forward by a Committee of merchants under the chairmanship of Richard Glover, the poet, and having been afterwards nominated in conjunction with Beckford, Glyn and Fludyer, at a meeting presided over by Deputy Paterson, signed a joint address with them. He did not call himself a Tory, but usually voted with the Court]

[Poll 7 days; closed March 23]

HON. THOMAS HARLEY, Lord Mayor [Portsoken], Tory, 3,729.

[Sworn a Privy Councillor, May 27, 1768]

SIR ROBERT LADBROKE [Bridge Without], Whig, 3,678.

[Died October 31, 1773]

WILLIAM BECKFORD [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,402.

[Died June 21, 1770]

BARLOW TRECOTHICK [Vintry], Whig, 2,957.

Sir Richard Glyn, Bart. [Dowgate], Whig, 2,823.

John Paterson, Whig, 1,769.

*John Wilkes, Whig, 1,247.

1770, July 11.

Vice Beckford (new writ July 7).

RICHARD OLIVER [Billingsgate], Whig.

1773.

Vice Ladbroke (new writ November 20).

[Poll 7 days; Closed December 4]

FREDERICK BULL, Lord Mayor [Queenhithe], Whig, 2,695.

John Roberts, Brewer, Tory, 2,481.

[There was a scrutiny, which was abandoned December 28; the final numbers were not recorded]

1774.

[Poll 7 days; Closed October 15]

JOHN SAWBRIDGE [Langbourn], Whig, 3,456.

GEORGE HAYLEY [Cordwainer], Whig, 3,390.

RICHARD OLIVER [Billingsgate], Whig, 3,354.

FREDERICK BULL, Lord Mayor [Queenhithe], Whig, 3,096.

William Baker, Weaver, Whig, 2,802.

Brass Crosby [Bread Street], Whig, 1,918.

John Roberts, Tory, 1,398.

[Sawbridge, Hayley, Bull and Crosby were supported by Wilkes and his party, though many voted for Baker, who was also a Wilkite. Oliver represented the personal opponents of Wilkes amongst the City Whigs and received many Tory votes]

1780.

[Poll 7 days; Closed September 15]

GEORGE HAYLEY [Cordwainer], Whig, 4,062.

[Died August 30, 1781]

JOHN KIRKMAN [Cheap], Whig, 3,804.

[Died September 15, 1780]

FREDERICK BULL [Queenhithe], Whig, 3,150.

[Died January 10, 1784]

NATHANIEL NEWNHAM [Vintry], Whig, 3,036.

John Sawbridge [Langbourn], Whig, 2,957.

Richard Clark [Broad Street], Tory, 1,774.

[Hayley, Bull and Sawbridge stood jointly. Kirkman died on the last day of the poll]

1780, November 28.

Vice Kirkman (new writ, November 21).

JOHN SAWBRIDGE [Langbourn] Whig.

1781.

Vice Hayley (new writ, September 15).

[Poll 7 days; Closed September 29]

SIR WATKIN LEWES, Lord Mayor [Lime Street], Whig, 2,685.

Richard Clark [Broad Street], Tory, 2,387.

1784.

Vice Bull (new writ, January 12).

[Poll 3 days; Closed January 26].

*Brook Watson, Whig (Pittite), 2,097.

Brass Crosby [Bread Street], Whig, 1,048

1784.

[Poll 7 days; Closed April 6].

*Brook Watson, Pittite, 4,789.

[Elected Alderman of Cordwainer, June 17, 1784]

SIR WATKIN LEWES [Lime Street], Pittite, 4,554.

NATHANIEL NEWNHAM [Vintry], Whig, 4,479.

JOHN SAWBRIDGE [Langbourn], Whig, 2,823.

Right Hon. William Pitt, 56.

[Pitt, the Prime Minister, was nominated without his consent, and both he and Smith were withdrawn on the second day of the poll. Sawbridge and Newnham, who were Foxites, stood independently of each other. There was a scrutiny which closed on May 14, when the numbers were reduced to 4,776, 4,541, 4,467, 2,812, 2,803, 286]

1790.

[Poll 7 days; Closed June 24]

WILLIAM CURTIS [Tower], Tory, 4,346.

BROOK WATSON [Cordwainer], Tory, 4,101.

SIR WATKIN LEWES [Lime Street], Pittite, 3,747.

JOHN SAWBRIDGE [Langbourn], Whig, 3,586.

[Died February 21, 1795]

Nathaniel Newnham [Vintry], Whig, 2,670.

William Pickett, Lord Mayor [Cornhill], Whig, 1,064.

[Lewes, though nominally a Whig, had voted for Pitt's Regency Bill and continued to support the Government. Watson was appointed Commissary-General to the British forces on the Continent in 1798 and thereupon vacated his seat by accepting the Stewardship of East Hendred]

1793, March 6.

Vice Watson (new writ, February 25).

JOHN WILLIAM ANDERSON [Aldersgate], Tory.

[Alderman Newnham was nominated by the Whigs, but declined to demand a poll]

1795.

Vice Sawbridge (new writ, February 23).

[Poll 3 days; Closed March 5]

*William Lushington, Tory, 2,334.

[Elected Alderman of Billingsgate, May 20, 1795]

Harvey Christian Combe [Aldgate], Whig, 1,560.

He had sat in the short Parliament of 1640 for Romney; was made Serjeant-at-Law 1654; Chief Baron of the Exchequer 1655-1656; Lord Chancellor of Ireland 1656-1660; a member of Cromwell's Upper House 1657; died October 2, 1690 (will dated September 17, proved October 19).

- 1660 William Wilde was Recorder 1659-1668.
Made a Serjeant-at-Law October, 1660; a King's Serjeant 1661; Judge of the Common Pleas 1668-1673; Judge of the King's Bench 1673-April, 1679; knighted May, 1660; created a Baronet, September, 1660; died November, 23, 1679.
- 1661 All the members elected were in opposition to the Court: Thompson and Love were Independents, and Fowke and Jones Presbyterians. The Court party nominated Sir Nicholas Crisp, Sir W. Wilde (the Recorder), and Aldermen Sir T. Adams (Cornhill) and Sir R. Ford (Farringdon Within) but they did not go to a poll.
- 1679 Sir Thomas Player was Colonel of the Orange Regiment of the Trained Bands and Leader of the Hon. Artillery Company 1669-1677; Chamberlain of the City (in succession to his father) 1672-1683. He was also for some time Deputy of Bassishaw Ward; the "railing Rabsheka" of Part II. of Absalom and Achitophel.
Knighted July 5, 1660; died January 19, 1686.
- 1690 Sir Thomas Vernon was an Auditor 1683-1684.
Knighted March 8, 1685; died February 10, 1711. He was for some years a Common Councilman for Coleman Street Ward, and was a Director of the New East India Company 1698-1700 and 1701-1703. One of his daughters married Alderman Sir Henry Furness.
- 1705 Samuel Shephard.
Was a leading promoter and one of the original Directors of the new East India Company, and had a seat at the Board of the United Companies after the Union 1709-1711. Was M.P. for Newport (Isle of Wight) in the first Parliament of 1701, but was unseated for bribery. He died January 4, 1719, having been Sub-Governor of the South Sea Company (of which he was an original Director) since the preceding December and previously Deputy-Governor since 1713.
- 1708 Sir John Buckworth (one of the Whig candidates) had been Sheriff 1704-1705.
Was son of the late Alderman Sir John Buckworth; knighted December 2, 1693; created a Baronet 1697; died June 12, 1709.
- 1710
The Tory candidates (two of whom were Aldermen) were supported by the Lord Mayor (Sir S. Garrard) and Aldermen Sir J. Parsons, Sir C. Duncombe, Sir F. Child, and Sir R. Bedingfield; the Whig candidates (all Aldermen) by Sir John Houbton, Sir R. Levett, Sir T. Ahney, Sir O. Buckingham, Sir R. Beachcroft, Sir J. Wolfe, Sir S. Stanier, Sir W. Humfreys, and Sir C. Peers. The two Tory Aldermen who were candidates voted for their respective colleagues, omitting themselves. Sir W. Ashhurst, one of the Whigs, did the same, but the three other Whigs voted for themselves as well as for their colleagues.
- Sir George Newland.
Son of the late Alderman Sir Benjamin Newland, had been M.P. for Gatton 1705-1710, and was knighted June 3, 1706. He was Auditor 1705-1707 and 1708-1710.
- 1713
The Tory candidates were supported by Aldermen Sir J. Parsons, Sir S. Garrard, Sir W. Lewen, J. Lawrence and R. Child; the Whigs by Sir T. Ahney, Sir G. Heathcote, Sir W. Humfreys, Sir C. Peers, J. Fryer, F. Eyles, G. Conyers and P. Delmé. Sir John Cass voted for his three Tory colleagues, giving his fourth vote to Heysham. Sir R. Hoare voted for himself as well as his colleagues.
- 1715 Peter Godfrey.
Was nephew to Sir Edmund Berry Godfrey, the Magistrate who received Oates' depositions concerning the Popish Plot. He was a Director of the Bank of England May-July, 1695 and 1696-1697, of the New East India Company, 1698-1699, and of the United Companies 1710-1714 and 1715-1718.
- 1722
Heysham, Godfrey and Barnard, who stood jointly, received the support of the Whigs, including Aldermen Sir G. Heathcote, Sir J. Ward, Sir C. Peers, Sir J. Fryer, Sir P. Delmé, Sir F. Forbes, R. Baylis and L. Skinner, of whom Peers and Forbes gave a fourth vote to Child, and Skinner to Parsons. Alderman Becher voted for Heysham, Lockwood and Godfrey; Sir R. Knipe for two of each side (Heysham, Godfrey, Child and Lockwood). The three Tory candidates were supported by Aldermen Sir S. Garrard, Brocas, Levett and Barber, of whom all but Brocas voted also for Heysham. Sir G. Mertins, one of the Tory candidates of 1715, plumped for Heysham. Eight Aldermen did not vote.
- Richard Lockwood.
Had been M.P. for Hindon 1713-1715. After his defeat in the City in 1727 he sat for Worcester 1734-1741, having contested both that constituency and Hindon in 1715. He died August 30, 1756.
- 1724 Charles Goodfellow, the Tory candidate, was a Russia merchant, who had been one of the Consuls of the Russia Company. He was a son of Serjeant Goodfellow (formerly a Judge of the Sheriffs' Court), and brother of John Goodfellow (Town Clerk 1691-1700). He died October 25, 1728.

At this election he received the votes of the non-Aldermanic sitting members (Barnard and Lockwood) and of Aldermen Sir S. Garrard, H. Parsons, F. Child, R. Levett, J. Barber and Sir J. Williams. Hopkins was supported by Aldermen Sir G. Heathcote, Sir W. Humphreys, Sir C. Peers, Sir J. Ward, Sir G. Conyers, Sir T. Scawen, Sir P. Delmé, Sir John Eyles, Sir E. Becher, Sir H. Master, R. Baylis, Sir R. Knipe, W. Billers, E. Bellamy and F. Porten.

The Whig candidates (Eyles, Thompson, Perry and Hopkins), were supported by Aldermen Sir G. Heathcote, Sir W. Humphreys, Sir G. Conyers, Sir H. Master, Sir R. Baylis, Sir R. Knipe, Sir W. Billers, Sir E. Bellamy, Sir F. Porten and Sir J. Tash.

The voters for Parsons, Barnard, Lockwood and Williams included Aldermen Child, Levett, Barher and Alsop. Alderman Crowley voted for three only, omitting Parsons. Sir T. Scawen, who had been a Whig candidate in 1713, voted for Parsons and Barnard. Aldermen Sir E. Becher and Sir P. Delmé voted for Barnard and three of the Whig candidates, omitting Perry. Parsons, Barnard and Williams each voted for his three colleagues, omitting himself.

Alderman Sir J. Hankey acted as Chairman of the Committee of the defeated candidates, who were supported by most of the senior Aldermen; the junior Aldermen Westley, Benn and Ladbroke were prominent on behalf of the successful candidates.

1742

Richard Glover, the poet (author of Leonidas) was Chairman of Calvert's Committee.

1754

Ladbroke, who did not coalesce with any of the other candidates, was supported by Aldermen Sir R. Hoare, Alsop and Dickinson.

1761

Ladbroke was supported by Aldermen Alsop, Sir T. Rawlinson, Dickinson, Sir C. Asgill, Sir T. Chitty, Nelson, Sir F. Gosling, N. Nash and Challenor. The claims of Beckford, who was a political ally of the elder Pitt, were advocated in the following rhyming advertisement:—

London, awake; behold Pitt's generous friend,
Whom all the Patriot Talents recommend;
In choosing Beckford be your wisdom shown,
Secure his Voice and Freedom is your own!

1768

This was not a political contest. From the published poll book it appears that eight Aldermen did not vote and that the suffrages of those who took part in the election were divided thus: Ladbroke, 15; Harley, 14; Glyn, 13; Beckford, 12; Trecothick, 7; Paterson, 6; Wilkes, 2. Of the candidates, Harley and Ladbroke voted for Beckford, Glyn, Trecothick and Paterson; Glyn for Harley, Ladbroke, Beckford and Trecothick; Beckford for Harley, Ladbroke, Trecothick and Glyn (as also did Alderman Kennett); Trecothick for Harley, Ladbroke, Glyn and Paterson (as also did Alderman Alsop). Sir T. Rawlinson, Sir W. Stephenson, Sir R. Kite, Sir H. Bankes and Aldermen Crosby and Halifax voted for Harley, Ladbroke, Glyn and Beckford; Alderman Shakspeare for Harley, Ladbroke and Beckford only; Sir W. Baker for Ladbroke, Trecothick and Wilkes; Sir C. Asgill for Harley, Ladbroke, Beckford and Paterson; Alderman Bridgen for Glyn, Beckford, Paterson and Wilkes; Alderman Turner for Harley, Ladbroke and Trecothick only.

— John Paterson was Deputy of Farringdon Within 1759-1771, and was Auditor 1759-1761.

He was a grandson of Archbishop Paterson of Glasgow, and in the preceding parliament (1761-1768), had sat for Ludgershall, having in 1765 succeeded Alderman Dickinson as Chairman of Committee of Ways and Means. He died December 3, 1769.

Bull was proposed by Alderman Wilkes and seconded by Alderman Crosby. The government candidate, John Roberts was a Director of the East India Company 1764-1768, 1769-1773, 1775-1779, 1780-1784, 1785-1789, 1790-1794, 1795-1799, 1800-1804 and 1805-1809. Deputy-Chairman 1775-1776 and 1803-1804. Chairman 1776-1777 and 1802-1803. He died February 5, 1810.

1774 William Baker was Sheriff 1770-1771 and a candidate for the Aldermanry of Aldgate, 1775.

Was son of Alderman Sir William Baker. He was M.P. for Plympton 1768-1774; Aldborough 1777-1780; Hertford 1780-1784; Hertfordshire 1790-1802. In 1802 he was defeated, having deserted his party, but he was re-elected for the county as a Tory in 1805 and sat till 1807. He died January 20, 1824, having been a Benchler of the Inner Temple since 1808.

At this election Oliver's chief supporter was Alderman Townsend, the leader of the anti-Wilkes section of the democratic party.

At the close of this Parliament Alderman Bull earned an unenviable distinction as one of the Protestant fanatics who supported Lord George Gordon. He seconded Lord George's motion to take the "Protestant" Petition into immediate consideration, which was rejected by 192 votes to 6.

1780

Alderman Watson acted as Chairman for Kirkman and Alderman Sainsbury for Newnham.

1781

1784 Samuel Smith.

Was M.P. for Ilchester 1780-1784; Worcester 1784-1790; Ludgershall 1791 (defeating Alderman Newnham) till his death, June 15, 1793. He was a Director of the East India Company, 1783-1786.

At this election, Sawbridge was supported by the Whig Aldermen—Crosby, Wright, Pugh, Hopkins and Sainsbury as well as by Wilkes, who was a Pittite.

1790

Alderman Macauley was Chairman for Curtis and Alderman Skinner for Sawbridge; Newnham's chief supporters were Aldermen Sainsbury and Combe; Alderman Sanderson was a leading supporter of Watson, and Alderman Hopkins of Lewes.

1795

Alderman Harley was Chairman for Lushington and Alderman Macauley for Combe.

1796

The Government Candidates (Curtis, Lushington, Anderson and Lewes), were supported by Aldermen Harley, Clark, Boydel, Watson, Le Mesurier, Glyn, Langstone and Sir J. Eamer; Wilkes substituted Combe for Anderson and Alderman Staines substituted Combe for Lewes. Sir W. Flomer and Aldermen Wright and Macauley voted for Curtis, Combe and Pickett, the two first-named giving their fourth vote to Lushington and the last his to Lewes. Alderman Newman voted for Combe and Pickett only, Alderman Skinner plumped for Combe and Sir J. Sanderson for Anderson. The total of the votes of the Aldermen was: Curtis 13, Lushington 12, Anderson 10, Lewes 10, Combe 7, Pickett 4. The six candidates and four other Aldermen did not vote.

1802 Benjamin Travers.

Was a sugar baker, and a leading member of the Fishmongers' Company, and took a prominent part on the Whig side in City politics. He died April 27, 1817.

1806

At this election, Atkins (who afterwards sat as a Tory), was supported by the Radical, Robert Waithman; he retired on the third day, a poll had been demanded for Hankey without his own consent.

1807

Alderman Ansley was Chairman for Sir C. Price and Alderman Lea for Shaw. Hankey was supported by ex-Alderman Lushington.

1812

Alderman Domville was Chairman for Combe, the moderate Whig candidate. Wood and Waithman, who represented the more Radical element in the party, were supported by Alderman Goodbehere.

1818 Thomas Wilson.

Was a merchant of the firm of Wilson, Agassiz & Co. He died October 10, 1852.

Alderman Rowcroft was originally a candidate on the Tory side, but retired in favour of Wilson, who was proposed by Alderman Sir C. S. Hunter. Alderman Bridges was Chairman for Curtis, Alderman Goodbehere for Waithman and ex-Alderman Williams for Atkins, who retired on the fifth day of the poll. Curtis and Atkins lost their seats mainly through their support of the renewal of the suspension of the Habeas Corpus Act.

Alderman Thomas Smith was Chairman for Waithman, Alderman Sir C. Hunter for Bridges and W. Manning (father of the Cardinal) for Curtis.

1826 William Ward.

Was son-in-law of the late Alderman Combe and father of the well-known Tractarian and Roman Catholic controversialist, William George Ward. He was a Director of the Bank of England, 1817-1819, 1820-1822, 1823-1825, 1826-1829, 1830-1831, 1832-1833, 1834-1836, and a Metropolitan Commissioner of Lunacy 1828-1831. He was considered the best gentleman cricketer of his time. He died June 30, 1849.

12 Aldermen (Sir W. Curtis, Sir R. C. Glyn, Sir J. Perring, J. Ansley, Sir C. Flower, G. Scholey, S. Birch, C. Smith, J. Atkins, C. Magnay, R. A. Cox and M. P. Lucas) were on Thompson's Committee. Thompson, though nominally a Whig and moderate Reformer, received general Tory support on account of his opposition to the Catholic claims, which he afterwards supported Wellington and Peel in conceding. After the Reform Bill he joined the Conservative party.

George Grote was Chairman for the four Reform candidates.

1832

Lyall was proposed by the former Tory member, William Ward, and was supported by Aldermen Sir C. Hunter, Brown, Lucas, Winchester, Farebrother and Copeland.

George Grote was the celebrated Historian of Greece; whilst in Parliament he was a prominent member of the group of philosophical Radicals and the chief advocate of vote by ballot.

He was a partner in the banking firm of Grote, Prescott, Grote & Co. He died June 18, 1871.

Michael Scales.

This personage was an aggressive and vociferous Radical butcher of dubious reputation, who had been elected to the Aldermanry of Portsoken (of which ward he had been a Common Councillor) in the preceding January and refused admission by the Court of Aldermen, with which he carried on a lengthy but unsuccessful litigation [see p. 188]. He died August 22, 1853.

1833    March—George Lyall.

Was a Director of the East India Company 1830-1834, 1835-1839, 1840-1844, 1845-1849, 1850-1851, (Deputy-Chairman 1840-1841, Chairman 1841-1842). He died September 1, 1853. At this election he was proposed by Mr. Horsley Palmer, who was himself a candidate in 1837.

1833    August—William Crawford.

Was an East India merchant; he contested Brighton in 1832 and died April 27, 1843.

F. Kemble, the Conservative candidate, was proposed by T. Wilson and seconded by Alderman Brown.

1835    James Pattison.

Was a Director of the Bank of England 1813-1815, 1816-1818, 1819-1821, 1822-1824, 1825-1828, 1829-April, 1832, and October, 1832 till his death July 14, 1849 (Deputy-Governor 1833-1834, Governor 1834-1837).

At this election Crawford was proposed by Alderman Harmer, Ward by Alderman Lucas, Wilson by Alderman Brown. J. Masterman (afterwards M.P.) seconded Wilson, and Raikes Currie (who was a candidate in 1857) seconded Grote.

1837    John Horsley Palmer.

Was a Director of the Bank of England 1811-1813, 1814-1816, 1817-1819, 1820-1822, 1823-1825, 1826-1841, 1843-1845 and 1846-1857, (Deputy-Governor 1823-1830, Governor 1830-1833). He contested Ashburton in 1835, and again in 1843, and died February 7, 1858. Mr. Palmer, who was proposed by Alderman Brown, received the support of Aldermen Sir C. Hunter, Scholey, Birch, Sir W. Heygate, Sir F. Laurie and T. Johnson, the last of whom gave a second vote to Pattison, whilst Hunter, Heygate, Scholey and Laurie voted also for Wood. The four Liberals were supported by Aldermen Venable, Harmer and Humphrey. Wood voted for himself together with his three Liberal colleagues. Crawford was proposed by G. de H. Larpent, who was a candidate in 1847, and Grote by S. Jones Loyd, the banker, (afterwards Lord Overstone).

1841    Lord John Russell was at this time Colonial Secretary and had been the Liberal leader in the preceding as he was in the two succeeding Parliaments.

He had been M.P. for Tavistock 1813-1817, 1818-1820 and 1830-1831; Huntingdonshire 1820-1826; Bandon 1826-1830; Devonshire 1831-1832; South Devon 1832-1835; Stroud 1835-1841. He was Paymaster-General 1830-1834; Home Secretary 1835-1839; Colonial Secretary 1839-1841, and March-July 1855; First Lord of the Treasury and Prime Minister 1846-1852 and 1865-1866; Foreign Secretary 1852-1853 and 1859-1865; in the Cabinet without office 1853-1854; Lord President of the Council 1854-1855; sworn a Privy Councillor 1830; created Earl Russell 1861, K.G. 1862, G.C.M.G. 1869; Lord Rector of Glasgow University 1846-1847. He died May 28, 1878.

1841    John Masterman was head of the banking firm of Masterman, Peters, Mildred, Masterman &amp; Co.

He was a Director of the East India Company 1823-1826, 1827-1831, 1832-1836, 1837-1841, 1842-1846, 1847-1851, 1852-1854, and died January 23, 1862.

—    Matthias W. Attwood was of the banking firm of Spooner, Attwoods &amp; Co.

He was son of Matthias Attwood, Conservative M.P. for Whitehaven, and nephew of Thomas Attwood, the well-known Radical agitator and M.P. for Birmingham. He sat for Greenwich (which he contested in 1835) 1837-1841, and stood for Kinsale in July, 1841, a few days after his defeat in the City, and for Sunderland in the autumn of the same year, when Alderman Thompson vacated that seat. He died September 17, 1865.

At this election Lyall was proposed by T. Baring (candidate in 1843), Lord J. Russell by S. Jones Loyd, Pirie by Alderman Lucas, Crawford by G. de H. Larpent, Attwood by T. Wilson.

1843    Thomas Baring was head of the financial house of Baring Brothers, and brother of Sir Francis Baring (afterwards Lord Northbrook) who had been Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Whig Ministry of Lord Melbourne.

He sat for Yarmouth 1835-1837 (contesting it in 1837, 1838 and 1841) and for Huntingdon 1844 till his death November 18, 1873. He was a Director of the Bank of England 1848-1850, 1851-1853, 1854-1856, 1857-1859, 1860-1862, 1863-April 1865 and December 1865-1867. He was proposed at this election by Alderman Brown.

1847    Baron Lionel N. de Rothschild was the head of the English branch of the Rothschild banking firm, and the first Jew elected to the House of Commons. He twice resigned his seat and was re-elected (1849 and 1857) on the rejection of bills for the removal of the Jewish disabilities, and was the first Jew to take his seat after the passing of the Relief Act (July 1858), the next being Alderman Salomons (M.P. for Greenwich).

He died June 3, 1879.

—    Sir George G. de H. Larpent.

Was M.P. for Nottingham 1841-1842, having contested Ludlow in 1840 and Nottingham in June, 1841. He was created a Baronet in 1841 and died March 8, 1855.

—    Robert C. L. Bevan.

Was a banker of the firm of Barclay, Bevan, Tritton & Co., and a prominent leader of the Evangelical party. He died July 22, 1890.

1847    James W. Freshfield.

Was Solicitor to the Bank of England. He sat for Penryn (which he contested in 1832) 1835-1841 and 1852-1857, Boston 1851-1852, and was a candidate for Wycombe in 1841 and Derby 1848. He died June 27, 1864.

- William Payne, who stood as an independent Radical, was Coroner of London 1829 till his death February 25, 1872. He was also High Steward of Southwark from 1850 till his death.
He was made a Serjeant-at-Law in 1858.
- At this election Lord J. Russell was proposed by S. Jones Loyd, Masterman by T. Baring, and Johnson (the only Alderman among nine candidates), by J. Horsley Palmer. Freshfield was proposed and seconded by T. Wilson and Alderman Sir C. Marshall. On the committee of the four Conservative candidates were Aldermen Thompson, Farncombe, Sir W. Magnay, Gibbs and Sidney. There were 5,176 votes for the four official Liberal candidates, and 4,129 for the four Conservatives; 219 voted for Payne and three of the official Liberals.
- 1849 July 3—This election was fought entirely on the Jewish disabilities question.
- Lord John Manners had been M.P. for Newark (being elected as Gladstone's colleague) 1841-1847; he afterwards sat for Colchester 1850-1857, North Leicestershire 1857-1885, and East Leicestershire 1885 till his accession to the Dukedom of Rutland March 4, 1888.
He contested Liverpool in 1847, was Chief Commissioner of Works Feb.-Dec. 1852, 1858-1859, 1866-1868; Postmaster-General 1874-1880, 1885-1886; Chancellor of Duchy of Lancaster, 1886-1892; sworn a Privy Councillor 1852, G.C.B. 1880, K.G. 1891.
Rothschild was proposed by Raikes Currie; Manners by T. Baring, being seconded by Alderman Sir P. Laurie.
- 1849 July 27.
Duke's nomination was seconded by Alderman W. Lawrence.
- 1852 Robert Wigram Crawford was son of W. Crawford (M.P. for the City 1833-1841), and a partner in the firm of Crawford, Colvin & Co., East India Merchants; he had sat for Harwich for a few weeks in 1851. At this election he was brought forward by the Dissenters, his proposer and seconder being respectively Charles Gilpin and Samuel Morley, afterwards leading Nonconformist members of Parliament.
He was a Director of the Bank of England 1850-1852, 1853-1855, 1856-1858, 1859-1861, 1862-1864 and 1865 till his death July 30, 1889 (Deputy-Governor 1867-1869, Governor 1869-1871). After the Home Rule split in 1886, he became a Liberal Unionist.
At this election Duke was seconded by Alderman Lawrence, Rothschild by Alderman Wire, and Lord J. Russell was proposed by Thomson Hankey, Governor of the Bank of England.
- 1857 Raikes Currie was brought forward in opposition to Lord John Russell, who had voted with the Conservatives and the Manchester Radicals against the Palmerston Government on the China question.
He was a member of the banking firm of Curries & Co., and had been M.P. for Northampton 1837-1857. He died October 16, 1881.
Alderman Rose issued an address as a moderate Conservative supporting the Government on the China question, but he retired to contest Newport.
Rothschild was proposed by Alderman Wire and seconded by T. Dakin (afterwards Alderman).
Lord J. Russell was strongly supported by Aldermen Salomons and Humphery and by S. Morley.
- 1859
Lord J. Russell was proposed by the Lord Mayor (Alderman Wire) and Crawford by Samuel Morley.
- 1861 Western Wood was a son of the late Alderman Sir M. Wood and brother of Sir W. Page Wood (afterwards Lord Chancellor Hatherley).
The Lord Mayor (Alderman Cubitt) who had resigned his seat for Andover to stand for the City was proposed by H. Hucks Gibbs, and was supported by Aldermen Rose, Gabriel, Wilson, Finnis, Conder and Carter. Wood was proposed by K. D. Hodgson, M.P., Deputy-Governor of the Bank of England.
- 1863 George J. Göschen (as the name, subsequently anglicised by the omission of the modification sign over the o, was then written) was then a partner in the firm of Frühling & Göschen; he was Vice-President of the Board of Trade 1865-1866; Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster Jan.-July, 1866; President of the Poor Law Board 1868-1871; First Lord of the Admiralty 1871-1874 and 1895-1900; Chancellor of the Exchequer 1887-1892.
Sworn a Privy Councillor 1865, created Viscount Goschen 1900. He was M.P. for Ripon 1880-1885; East Edinburgh 1886-1886; St. George's, Hanover Square, 1887-1890; contested East Edinburgh 1896; Liverpool (Exchange division) 1897; was elected Chancellor of Oxford University 1903. He was a Director of the Bank of England 1858-1860, 1861-1863 and 1864-1885; Lord Rector of Aberdeen University 1887-1890; of Edinburgh University 1890-1893.

- 1865 George Lyall was son of G. Lyall, M.P. for the City 1833-1834, 1841-1847.
He sat for Whitehaven 1857-1865, and was a Director of the Bank of England 1848-1850, 1851-1853, 1854-1856, 1857-1859, 1860-1862, 1863-1865 and 1866 till his death October 22, 1881, (Deputy-Governor 1868-1871, Governor 1871-1873). At this election he was proposed by T. Baring; Fowler was proposed by H. H. Gibbs and seconded by Alderman Finnis.
- 1868 At this election and those of 1874 and 1880 the "minority clause" was in operation, which prevented any elector voting for more than three candidates. The Liberals tried to carry all four seats and so nearly let in the three Conservatives, the lowest of whom was less than 500 votes below the highest Liberal and less than 200 below the lowest Liberal elected. Mr. Bell (who was a partner in the firm of Thomson, Bonar & Co., and contested Banbury in 1865) died soon after his election, and Baron Rothschild recovered his seat without a contest, but in 1874 and 1880, when each side ran three candidates, the Liberals secured the minority seat only, and in 1880 the Conservative majority was so large as to show that the fourth might easily have been carried by that party.
Baron Rothschild was proposed by Alderman Sir B. Phillips; Crawford was proposed and seconded by Aldermen Besley and Dakin.
- 1874 John Gellibrand Hubbard was partner in the firm of Hubbard & Co., Russia Merchants.
He had been M.P. for Buckingham 1859-1868, being defeated there in the latter year. He was a Director of the Bank of England 1838-1841, 1842-1844, 1845-April 1847, September 1847 till his death August 28, 1889; (Deputy-Governor 1851-1853; Governor 1853-1855); sworn a Privy Councillor 1874. Created Lord Addington 1887.
- Philip Twells was a partner in the banking firm of Barclay, Bevan, Tritton & Co.
He died May 12, 1880. At this election Cotton was proposed by Alderman Sir F. Truscott, Goschen by R. W. Crawford (the late Liberal Member), and Rothschild by Alderman Sir B. Phillips; Hubbard was proposed and seconded by H. H. Gibbs and G. Lyall.
- 1880 Richard B. Martin was a partner in the banking firm of Martin & Co.
He afterwards contested Mid-Essex as a Liberal in 1885 and the Ashburton Division of Devonshire as a Liberal Unionist in 1886, and sat for Mid-Worcestershire 1892-1906. He was created a Baronet in 1905.
- Walter Morrison.
Had been M.P. for Plymouth 1861-1874, and afterwards sat for the Skipton Division of the West Riding of Yorkshire (as a Liberal Unionist) 1886-1892 and 1895-1900, being defeated in 1892 and 1900. Cotton was proposed by the Lord Mayor (Sir F. Truscott), Hubbard by H. H. Gibbs; Fowler was seconded by Alderman Finnis.
- 1885 Stephen P. Low was a member of the banking firm of Grindlay & Co.
He afterwards became a Liberal Unionist and died February 1, 1895. Cotton was proposed and seconded by Aldermen Sir R. Carden and Stone.
- 1886 Fowler was proposed by Sir R. Carden and seconded by R. C. L. Bevan (Candidate in 1847). Hubbard was proposed by R. W. Crawford (formerly M.P. for the City) on behalf of the Liberal Unionists and seconded by H. H. Gibbs.
- 1887 Thomas C. Baring was son of the late Bishop Baring of Durham, and nephew of T. Baring (Candidate in 1843). He endowed Hertford College, Oxford.
He had contested the Walthamstow Division of Essex in 1885. At this election he was proposed by H. H. Gibbs and seconded by R. W. Crawford.
- 1891 April. Henry Hucks Gibbs—the present Lord Aldenham (so created in 1896).
He was a Director of the Bank of England 1853-1855, 1856-1858, 1859-1861, 1862-1864, 1865-1867, 1868-1870, and 1871-1900, (Deputy-Governor 1873-1875, Governor 1875-1877). His proposer and seconder were W. Lidderdale and D. Powell, Governor and Deputy-Governor respectively of the Bank.
- 1891 June.
Sir R. Hanson was proposed by Alderman Sir F. Truscott and seconded by Alderman Evans. He also received the support of Aldermen Sir A. Lusk, Sir W. Lawrence, Sir J. C. Lawrence and Gray (Liberal Unionists), Cowan, Knill, Davis and Wilkin.
- 1892 Alban G. H. Gibbs—eldest son of his predecessor, on whose elevation to the peerage in 1896 he became entitled to the courtesy prefix "Honourable."
Mr. Gibbs (who had contested Abingdon in 1880) was proposed by Alderman Dimsdale; also by Sir H. James (now Lord James of Hereford) and seconded by Sir J. Lubbock (now Lord Avebury) as representing the Liberal Unionists. Sir R. Hanson was proposed by H. H. Gibbs and seconded by Alderman Sir A. Lusk.
- 1895 Sir R. Hanson was seconded by Alderman Sir D. Evans. Alderman Bell and Mr. (now Alderman) H. G. Smallman were among his assentors.
- 1900 Mr. Gibbs was seconded by Alderman Sir D. Evans.

1906 Sir Edward G. Clarke had been M.P. for Southwark, February-April, 1880; Plymouth, June, 1880-February, 1900, when he retired from Parliament owing to differences with his party on the South African question.

He was made a Q.C. in 1880, was Solicitor-General 1886-1892, and was knighted August 16, 1886.

Sir F. O. Schuster is a banker and Governor of the Union of London and Smiths Bank, an amalgamation representing the old London firms of Smith, Payne and Smith, Dimsdale, Fowler, Barnard and Dimsdales, and Prescott, Cave, Buxton, Loder & Co., as well as many well-known provincial banks at Bristol, Hull, Bath, Exeter, Manchester, Derby, etc. In March, 1906, he was appointed a member of the Council of the Secretary of State for India, and in the following June he was created a Baronet.

Sir West Ridgeway, a retired Colonel of the Indian Army, had been Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1887-1893; Governor of the Isle of Man, 1893-1895; Governor of Ceylon, 1895-1903, was made a K.C.S.I., 1885; C.B., 1887; K.C.B., 1891; G.C.M.G., 1900; and was sworn an Irish Privy Councillor in 1889.

One of the nomination papers of Sir E. Clarke and Mr. Gibbs was signed exclusively by Aldermen, the proposer and seconder being Sir D. Evans and Sir G. Fandel-Phillips and the eight assentors the Lord Mayor (Alderman Vaughan Morgan), Sir H. Knight, Sir A. Newton, Sir J. Bell, Sir M. Samuel, Sir J. Renals, Sir W. Wilkin and Alderman F. S. Hanson. Sir W. P. Treloar was a seconder of Sir E. Clarke on another paper, and Sir J. Pound and the Chamberlain (Sir J. C. Dimsdale), were among the assentors to the Conservative nominations on others.

Sir J. Ritchie was among the nominators of Mr. Schuster.

1906 February. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour was M.P. for Hertford, 1874-1885; East Manchester, 1885-1906. He had been President of the Local Government Board, 1885-1886; Secretary for Scotland, 1886-1887; Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1887-1891; First Lord of the Treasury, 1891-1892 and 1895-1905, being Prime Minister, 1902-1905. He was also Lord Rector of St. Andrew's University, 1886-1889, and of Glasgow University 1890-1893, has been Chancellor of Edinburgh University since 1891, and was President of the British Association in 1904; Sworn a Privy Councillor in 1885.

Mr. T. Gibson Bowles sat for King's Lynn as a Conservative, 1892-1906, having previously contested Darlington, 1874; Banbury, 1880, and South Salford, 1885.

One of Mr. Balfour's nomination papers was signed by the Lord Mayor (Alderman Vaughan Morgan) as proposer, Sir H. Knight as seconder and eight other ex-Lord Mayors as assentors, viz., Sir J. Savory, Sir D. Evans, Sir J. Renals, Sir W. Wilkin, Sir G. Fandel-Phillips, Sir A. Newton, Sir M. Samuel and Sir J. Pound.*<sup>1</sup> Other papers presented on Mr. Balfour's behalf bore the names of Sir J. C. Dimsdale (Chamberlain) and the Hon. A. G. H. Gibbs, late members for the City, Aldermen Sir W. P. Treloar, Sir J. Bell, Crosby and Simmons, and ex-Sheriff Sir J. Lawrence.

[Addendum to page 285.]

Since page 285, which contains the completion of the record of elections for the City up to February, 1906, was printed, another election has taken place owing to Sir Edward Clarke having vacated his seat by acceptance of the Stewardship of Northstead; his resignation was due to ill-health. The following addendum is required to bring the list up to date:

1906, June 15.

Vice Clarke (new Writ, June 11).

Sir Frederick George Banbury, Bart., Con.,

1906 June—Sir F. Banbury was M.P. for the Peckham division of Camberwell, 1892-1906, and was created a Baronet in November, 1902, the formal creation of the Baronetcy dating from January, 1903.

Amongst Sir F. Banbury's proposers were Aldermen Sir D. Evans and T. B. Crosby.

*<sup>1</sup>For the names of the nominator, seconder and assentors who signed this paper, I am indebted to the courtesy of Mr. Balfour himself and of the Secretary to the City of London Conservative Association. The information appears to have been withheld from the city newspapers (City Press and London Argus) and the Secretary professed himself unable to furnish me with it. As such details are published to the world in the local newspapers with regard to almost every constituency in the United Kingdom, it seems difficult to understand or justify this singular exhibition of official pedantry.

ALDERMEN IN PARLIAMENT FOR OTHER CONSTITUENCIES THAN THE CITY.

The following list is arranged chronologically in order of Parliaments. The dates of the Parliaments are calculated from the first elections (not the day of meeting), till the respective dissolutions.

I have included, for the sake of completeness, Sheriffs, Recorders, Common Serjeants and other civic dignitaries as well as Common Councillors.

1302 .. .. .	A Richard de la Pole sat for Bodmin, who may possibly have been the future Alderman.
1314 .. .. .	Walter Crepyn (afterwards Alderman of Cornhill and M.P. for the City), sat for Middlesex.
1316 (July) . . .	Walter Pappeworth, who sat for Huntingdonshire, may have been identical with the future Alderman of Langbourn and Candlewick.
1322 (May) .. .	W. Crepyn again represented Middlesex, and R. de la Pole was returned for Hull.
1322 (November) ..	[One Roger de Ely who sat for Seaford may have been identical with the Sheriff of 1322-23]
1327 (September) ..	R. de la Pole again sat for Hull.
1336 (Mar.-Apr.)	R. de la Pole (now Alderman of Bishopsgate), sat for Derbyshire.
1338 (July) .. .	A John Costantyn, who sat for Dorchester, may have been identical with the future Alderman of Castle Baynard.
1339 (January) .. }	Hugh de Sadlyngstanes, who sat for Northumberland, was probably identical with the future Recorder and Alderman of Candlewick.
1339 (October) .. }
1340 (January) ..	A Simon de Swanlond sat in this parliament for Middlesex, probably the ex-Mayor and Alderman of Candlewick. A John Malewayn, who represented Salisbury, may have been the future Alderman of Castle Baynard.
1340 (March) ..	S. de Swanlond and J. de Costantyn again sat for Middlesex and Dorchester respectively.
1343 .. .. .	H. de Sadlyngstanes again represented Northumberland.
1344 (June) .. .	S. de Swanlond again sat for Middlesex.
1352 .. .. .	A W. de Welde represented Bridgewater, who may have been identical with the Alderman of Coleman Street (afterwards M.P. for the City).
1361 .. .. .	H. de Fastolf, who sat for Yarmouth, was almost certainly identical with the future Alderman of Tower and Bridge and M.P. for the City.
1366 .. .. .
1371 (February) ..	N. Exton (afterwards Alderman of Billingsgate) sat for Middlesex.
1373 .. .. .	H. Fastolf again sat for Yarmouth.
1377 (January) ..	Exton and Fastolf sat for Middlesex and Yarmouth respectively, the latter retaining his seat in the next Parliament (October, 1377).
1380 (January)	Richard Lyons, formerly Alderman of Broad Street, sat for Essex [N. Exton again represented Middlesex]
1380 (November) ..	Baldwin de Radington (afterwards Custos of the City, 1392), sat for Middlesex.
1384 (Apr.-May)	N. Exton, lately and subsequently Alderman of Billingsgate, sat for Middlesex.
1388 (Feb.-June)	John de Northampton (ex-Mayor and former Alderman of Cordwainer and Dowgate, M.P. for the City in 1378), sat for Southwark.
1390 (Nov.-Dec.)	H. de Fastolf, ex-Alderman of Tower and Bridge, sat for Norfolk.
1392 .. .. .	W. Norton, who represented Middlesex was probably the future M.P. for the City and Alderman of Candlewick.
1393 .. .. .	T. Aleyn who represented East Grinstead may possibly have been the future Alderman of Cripplegate.

- 1395 (January) John Wade, who sat for Lyme Regis was probably the Alderman of Aldgate, who had represented the City in the preceding parliament.
- 1407 .. .. John Loveneye, who sat for Middlesex, may have been identical with the John Loveye or Loneye who was Alderman of Cripplegate, 1388-1394.
- 1413 .. .. Thomas Aleyn, who sat for East Grinstead, may have been the future Alderman of Cripplegate.
- 1414 .. .. } John Welles, who represented Southwark in these parliaments, had been M.P. for the City in 1417, and became Alderman of Langbourn in 1420.
- 1419 .. .. }
- 1422 (Nov.-Dec.) N. Wotton, who sat for Marlborough, was almost certainly the Alderman of Dowgate who represented the City in four previous and again in two subsequent Parliaments.
- 1430-1431 .. J. Welles [Langbourn] sat for Southwark.
- 1432 (April-July) R. Whytingham, who represented Hertfordshire, was probably the Alderman of Walbrook, who had sat for the City in 1416.
- 1436-1437 .. .. Alexander Anne, the Recorder, sat for Middlesex. He had already represented that county in the Parliaments of 1431 and 1432, before becoming Recorder.
- 1447 (Jan.-March) T. Burgoyne, one of the Under-Sheriffs or Judges of the Sheriffs' Court, who sat for the City in 1445, now represented Bridgewater.
- 1453 .. .. A Robert Whytingham, who represented Bucks, may have been the ex-Alderman of Walbrook.
- 1460 .. .. A Robert Horn, who sat for Kent, may have been the ex-Alderman of Bridge.
- 1467-1468 .. John Yonge, who was elected for Guildford, was almost certainly the Alderman of Billingsgate, Mayor of London at the date of election. He had represented the City in 1455.
- 1482-1490 .. .. The Recorder, Sir T. Fitzwilliam, was Speaker of this Parliament, sitting for Lincolnshire.
- 1529-1536 .. William Dauntsey, who sat for Thetford throughout this Parliament, was Sheriff 1530-31, and was elected Alderman of Langbourn in January, 1536.
[John Baker, who was elected for Bedford, may have been the Recorder who sat for the City]
- 1553 (Jan.-March) John Eston, High Steward of Southwark, sat for that borough: he had represented Wigan in the Parliament of 1545.
- 1554 (March-May) J. Eston was re-elected, and Ranulph Cholmley, one of the Judges of the Sheriffs' Court (afterwards Recorder and M.P. for the City), represented Boroughbridge.
- 1554 (November) } Eston continued to sit for Southwark and Richard Foreet, one of the Common
- 1555 (January) } Pleaders, represented Bossiney, having sat for Stafford in 1547, and Heytesbury in the first Parliament of 1554.
- 1555 (Oct.-Dec.) } Eston was re-elected for Southwark.
- 1558 (Jan.-Nov.) }
- 1559 (January-May) Eston was re-elected for Southwark and Humphrey Mosley, one of the Secondaries, sat for Wootton-Bassett, which he had represented in the preceding Parliament, before his appointment to that office. He had sat for Marlborough in 1547, for Aylesbury in 1554 and for Gatton in 1555.
- 1572-1583 .. .. William Sebright, who sat for Droitwich, was elected Town Clerk in 1574.
- 1584-1585 .. .. Thomas Owen, one of the Common Pleaders, sat for Shrewsbury.
- 1588-1589 .. .. Benedict Barnham (afterwards an Alderman) represented Minehead.
- 1593 (Feb.-April) .. Peter Proby (afterwards Alderman of Queenhithe and Broad Street and Lord Mayor) sat for Hull. Nicholas Fuller, one of the Common Pleaders, represented St. Mawes, and Richard Hutton, Bailiff of Southwark, was returned for that borough, which he had already represented in the Parliaments of 1584, 1586 and 1588.
- 1597-1598 .. Benedict Barnham [Broad Street] sat for Yarmouth (Isle of Wight).
P. Proby represented Liverpool, and T. Myddelton (or Middleton) afterwards Alderman of Queenhithe and Coleman Street, Lord Mayor and M.P. for the City, was returned for Merionethshire. [R. Hutton, who had ceased to be Bailiff, still sat for Southwark]
- 1601 (Oct.-Dec.) .. J. Swynnerton, afterwards Alderman of Cripplegate, was returned for Petersfield [Matthew Dale, Deputy-Recorder and one of the Judges of the Sheriffs' Court, sat for Southwark, having represented Liverpool 1572-1588.
- 1604-1611 .. Sir J. Swynnerton [Cripplegate] sat for East Grinstead.
Sir T. Smith, ex-Alderman of Farringdon Without, was elected for Dunwich in March, 1604. [Sir G. Rivers (Knighted in 1605) sat for Southwark, of which he was High Steward: he had represented East Grinstead in the Parliaments of 1597 and 1601]
- 1614 Mar.-June) Sir T. Smith sat for Sandwich. [Sir G. Rivers returned to his former constituency of East Grinstead]

- 1620-1622 .. .. Sir T. Smith sat for Saltash, M. Abbot [afterwards Alderman of Bridge Without and Coleman Street, Lord Mayor and M.P. for the City] represented Hull. [R. Shute, who sat for St. Albans, was elected Recorder a few days after the opening of Parliament, and died a month later whereupon that office was conferred on Heneage Finch, who was representing West Looe]
- 1624-1625 } M. Abbot again sat for Hull in both these Parliaments. [In the latter Sir G. Rivers, High Steward of Southwark, represented Lewes]
- 1625 (April-August) }
- 1626 (Jan.-June) .. Sir M. Abbot was again returned for Hull, but being also elected for the City, abandoned his old constituency. [Sir G. Rivers continued to sit for Lewes]
- 1628-1629 .. .. Sir G. Rivers, who was re-elected for Lewes, lost his seat on petition.
- 1640 (Mar.-May) } T. Atkyn [Farringdon Without], a strong opponent of the Court, sat for Norwich.
- [The Short Parliament]
- G. Garratt, who sat for Hindon, was probably the future Alderman of Castle Baynard. W. Bell, who sat in this and the next Parliament for Westminster, was probably the future Alderman of Farringdon Without.
- 1640-1653 .. No Alderman was chosen at the General Election except the City members, Soame and Penington; Atkyn who had either voluntarily given up his seat at Norwich or been rejected in 1640 was returned for that city in November, 1645, having in the interim been translated from Farringdon Within to Lime Street Ward.
- [The Long Parliament]
- In June, 1648, Richard Browne, M.P. for Wycombe, the Presbyterian General who had commanded for the Parliamentarians, but was altogether out of sympathy with the Independents who now ruled in the Councils of the army, was chosen Alderman of Langbourn. He was one of the victims of Pride's Purge in the following December and in the same month of 1649 was deprived of his Aldermanry.
- In November, 1648, Rowland Wilson, junr., who sat for Calne was chosen Alderman of Bridge, which office he held till his death in 1650.
- In October, 1649, Francis Allen, representing Cockermonth, was elected to the Aldermanry of Farringdon Without which he resigned in 1652; he died in 1658, between the expulsion of the "Rump" in 1653 and its return in 1659.
- Both Wilson and Allen were named as members of the High Court of Justice that tried the King, but the former did not act; Allen signed the death warrant.
- William Bell, who sat for Westminster, and who was one of the members secluded in 1648, was probably identical with the person of that name who was elected Alderman of Farringdon Without in October, 1652, and retained that office till April, 1653.
- No Aldermen were chosen for this assembly except the two City representatives Tichborne and Ireton.
- 1653 (July-Dec.). } John "Bawden" who was one of the members for Cornwall may possibly have been the Sir John "Bawdon" (as his signatures give it), usually written and printed "Bawdin," who was Alderman of Aldersgate in James II.'s reign.
- [Barebone's Parliament]
- [John Sadler, the Town Clerk, represented Cambridgeshire]
- 1654-1655 .. .. William Gibbs, who sat for Suffolk, was ex-Alderman of Farringdon Without.
- John Barkstead, the regicide, who sat for Colchester, was afterwards Alderman of Aldersgate.
- Colonel Wildman, who sat for Scarborough, was Alderman of Portsoken more than thirty years later.
- [Lislebone Long, the Recorder, sat for Wells, which he had represented in the Long Parliament from 1648 to 1653]
- 1656-1658 .. .. Sir J. Barkstead, who was elected Alderman of Aldersgate a fortnight after the dissolution, sat for Middlesex (being also returned for Reading). One of his colleagues in the representation of Middlesex was W. Kyffin, the Baptist preacher, who became Alderman of Cheap in James II.'s reign. W. Gibbs was re-elected for Suffolk.
- [L. Long, the Recorder, was one of the Somersetshire members]
- 1659, Jan.-April Francis Warner [Bridge] sat for Tiverton.
- W. Bigg (late Alderman of Cripplegate) represented Wallingford; J. Bence, afterwards Alderman of Bishopsgate, was elected for Aldeburgh.
- [The Recorder, Sir L. Long, sat for Wells till his death, March 16, 1659, a week after his election to the Speakership. J. Sadler, the Town Clerk, represented Yarmouth (Isle of Wight); Slingsby Bethell (the "Shimei" of Dryden's Abalom and Achitophel), well known in Charles II.'s reign as a leader of the City Whigs and Sheriff 1680-1681, sat for Knaresborough]

1659-1660 .. Sir T. Atkyn [Bridge Without] was the only Aldermanic representative of the "Rump" at its restoration; Penington, one of the City members, who also came back, had resigned his gown in 1657.
[The restored Long Parliament]

When the "secluded" members were re-admitted in February, 1660 Sir T. Soame and R. Browne, both of whom had been ejected from their Aldermanries and W. Bell (who, if the suggested identification above is correct, had resigned his seat in the Court of Aldermen), were amongst those who were now permitted to sit.

1660 (April-Dec.) J. Frederick [Vintry] sat for Dartmouth.

R. Staughton [Bread Street] was elected for Wigan in October, a few days after he had been chosen Alderman.

J. Langham, who had been ejected from his Aldermanry of Bishopsgate, and T. Bludworth, who had resigned that of Dowgate in the preceding year, but in 1662 became Alderman of Portsoken, were returned for Southwark. Langham (who had been created a Baronet in June) was restored to his Aldermanry in September, but at once resigned it.

R. Ford, afterwards Alderman of Farringdon Within, was elected for Exeter, but unseated on petition.

1661-1679 .. Sir T. Aleyn [Aldgate] sat for Middlesex throughout the Parliament.

Sir T. Bludworth (who was restored to the Court of Aldermen when the Corporation Commissioners appointed him to replace Love, one of the City members, in Portsoken in 1662, and was translated to Aldersgate in 1663) represented Southwark, where his late colleague, Sir J. Langham, was defeated.

Sir R. Ford [Farringdon Within, whence he was translated successively to Bread Street and Lime Street] sat for Southampton till his death in 1678.

Sir J. Robinson [Cripplegate, afterwards Tower] and Sir R. Browne [Langbourn] who had lost their seats for the City at the general election, were returned for Rye and Ludgershall respectively on vacancies in November and December, 1661. The latter died in 1669.

Three ex-Aldermen were elected to fill vacant seats in the course of this Parliament: J. Bence (late Bishopsgate) for Aldeburgh in November, 1669; Sir W. Bucknell (late Bread Street) for Liverpool in December, 1670, and E. Backwell (formerly Bishopsgate) for Wendover in January, 1673. Of these Backwell was unseated on petition in the following March, Bucknell died in 1676, and Bence retained his seat till the dissolution.

J. Parsons (afterwards Alderman of Portsoken and Bassishaw) was elected for Bramber at the General Election, but unseated on petition in May, 1661. In 1674 T. Papillon (afterwards Alderman of Portsoken) was returned for Dover.

In November, 1678, the seat at Southampton, vacated by Ford's death, was taken by B. Newland, afterwards Alderman of Vintry.

N. Herne (afterwards Alderman of Billingsgate) contested Dartmouth in February, 1673.

[E. Smith, High Steward of Southwark, sat for Yarmouth (Isle of Wight)]

1679 (Mar.-July) Sir J. Robinson [Tower] was re-elected for Rye in the Court interest.

Sir P. Ward [Farringdon Within] represented Pontefract, supporting the Country party.

Sir N. Herne [Billingsgate] came in for Dartmouth as an adherent of the Court. He died shortly after the dissolution, before the elections to the succeeding Parliament.

Sir J. Shorter [Cripplegate] contested Southwark unsuccessfully for the Country party.

Of future Aldermen, B. Newland was re-elected in the Court interest for Southampton: Sir R. How (who had been Alderman of Cordwainer for a few days in 1668) and P. Rich (both afterwards Aldermen of Aldersgate) were successful against Shorter in Southwark.

Ex-Alderman Backwell recovered the seat from which he had been ejected at Wendover: he appears to have belonged to the Court party. T. Papillon continued to represent Dover in the interest of the Opposition.

- 1679-1681 .. Sir P. Ward was re-elected as a Whig for Pontefract. The Court or Tory Alderman, Robinson, was not re-elected, and Sir J. Shorter was again unsuccessful in Southwark for the Whigs.
- On the Whig side John Eyles (afterwards Alderman of Bread Street) was chosen for Devizes; Papillon was re-elected at Dover; ex-Alderman Dorrington (Farringdon Within) came in for Haslemere on petition in November, 1680, having been defeated at the General Election.
- The Tories re-elected How and Rich in Southwark, and Sir B. Newland at Southampton: also J. Bence resumed the seat at Aldeburgh, which he had abandoned or lost in the preceding Parliament. Ex-Alderman Backwell again sat for Wendover.
- 1681 (Feb.-Mar.) Sir P. Ward, now Lord Mayor, was again returned for Pontefract. Of the Whigs, Papillon was re-elected, but Eyles and Dorrington were defeated in their respective constituencies. How and Rich again came in for Southwark, their Whig opponents being the High Steward of the Borough (E. Smith), and Sheriff Bethell. Newland again sat for Southampton, Bence for Aldeburgh, and Backwell for Wendover. A Whig recruit was Colonel Wildman the plotter (afterwards Alderman of Portsoken) who sat for Great Bedwin: on the Tory side, Sir W. Russell (afterwards Alderman of Langbourn) sat for St. Michael's. T. Cooke, a future Tory Alderman, made his first attempt to find a Parliamentary seat at Truro, being defeated by H. Ashhurst (Whig), who also was afterwards elected an Alderman, but did not serve the office. G. Gore, who sat for Queenborough, may have been the ex-Alderman of Farringdon Without.
- 1685-1687 .. Four of the Tory Aldermen secured seats, viz. :
  - * Sir B. Newland [Vintry] re-elected for Southampton.
  - Sir P. Daniel [Bridge] elected for Southwark.
  - * Sir B. Bathurst [Cripplegate] elected for both Beeralston and Romney, who sat for the former.
  - * C. Duncombe [Broad Street] elected for Hedon.
- Also Sir M. Vincent (Lostwithiel) was appointed Alderman of Aldgate by Royal Commission in 1686; he died in June, 1687.
- Ex-Aldermen Bence and Sir D. North sat for Aldeburgh and Banbury respectively. J. Parsons sat for Reigate and J. St. Amand for St. Ives, both of whom were made Aldermen (of Portsoken and Castle Baynard respectively) shortly after the dissolution. [The Recorder, Sir T. Jenner, sat for Rye, and the Common Serjeant, H. Crisp, for Lancaster]
- No Whig connected with the Corporation was returned: all the foregoing were Tories.
- 1689-1690 .. Sir Peter Rich [Aldersgate], was returned for Southwark as a Tory. Sir John Parsons (late Alderman of Portsoken), was re-elected for Reigate, and in May, 1689 was chosen Alderman of Bassishaw, but in the meantime had lost his parliamentary seat on petition. Sir H. Ashhurst who sat for Truro as a Whig was Alderman-elect of Vintry, but he did not serve in that office and was soon discharged. T. Papillon, the Whig M.P. for Dover, who had been one of the candidates for that party in the great contest for the Shrievalty in 1682 was elected Alderman of Portsoken in October, 1689, but resigned in the following December.
- A few days before the dissolution, Colonel Wildman, now Whig M.P. for Great Bedwin, was chosen to succeed Papillon in the Aldermanry of Portsoken.
- Two Tory ex-Aldermen (Sir B. Newland and J. Herne) obtained seats; the former was again chosen to represent Southampton and Herne was seated on petition for Dartmouth: ex-Alderman Sir John Eyles (Whig), failed to secure election for Devizes. [Sir George Treby, the Recorder, sat for Plympton as a Whig; E. Smith was an unsuccessful candidate for that party in Southwark against Rich]
- 1690-1695 .. Sir John Parsons [Bassishaw] recovered his seat for Reigate. Sir Jonathan Raymond [Bishopsgate] also a Tory, succeeded the Whig Alderman Wildman at Great Bedwin. Sir Robert Clayton [Cheap], who was ejected from the representation of the City, secured election as a Whig in his pocket borough of Bletchingley. Sir Thomas Fowle (ex-Alderman of Vintry), was elected as a Tory for Devizes, but lost his seat on petition in the following December; he became Alderman of Vintry again a year later.

* Bathurst and Duncombe were included in the batch of Aldermen removed by James II. in April, 1686. Rich, one of the four Aldermen representing the City, followed in March, 1687, and Newland in June, but inasmuch as Parliament, which was not formally dissolved until July 2, 1687, had been prorogued since November, 1685, the Aldermanic representation in the House of Commons was practically unaffected.

- Sir Thomas Cooke (who with Sir P. Rich as his colleague, had been defeated in Southwark at the general election), became Alderman of Queenhithe in 1692 and in November 1694 was elected Tory M.P. for Colchester.
- The Whig ex-Alderman Papillon was re-elected for Dover; of the Tories, Newland and Herne again represented their old constituencies, C. Duncombe (late Alderman of Broad Street), came in for Yarmouth (Isle of Wight), and in December, 1690, Sir B. Firebrace (formerly Alderman of Billingsgate), was elected for Chippenham, defeating the Whig Alderman Sir H. Edwin (Tower). Being unseated on petition, Firebrace stood again and defeated General Talmash to whom, however, a second petition assigned the seat, and on Talmash's death in 1694, he was again a candidate but did not secure election. Jeffrey Jefferies, a future Tory Alderman sat for Brecon.
- 1695-98 .. Sir John Parsons, re-elected for Reigate, was the only Alderman returned at the General Election in addition to the City members.
- Sir Thomas Cooke (Queenhithe), was defeated at Colchester, and Sir F. Child [Farringden Without] at Devizes, both in the Tory interest.
- Of the ex-Aldermen, Sir B. Newland and Sir J. Herne were re-elected, Papillon exchanged Dover for the City, and Duncombe Yarmouth for Downton; the last-named was expelled the House in February, 1698. J. Jefferies also was re-elected, and J. Bateman, a future Alderman and Lord Mayor, failed as a Whig at Totnes.
- 1698-1700 .. Sir T. Cooke recovered his lost seat at Colchester, and Sir F. Child came in for Devizes.
- Sir R. Clayton retired from the City representation and went back to Bletchingley.
- Two Whig Aldermen, Sir O. Buckingham, [Bishopsgate] and Sir T. Stampe [Cripplegate], stood in conjunction for Reading, but only the former was returned.
- Sir J. Parsons either voluntarily retired or failed to secure re-election.
- The Tory ex-Aldermen Newland and Herne were returned for the last time by Southampton and Dartmouth, both dying in 1699. W. Jolliffe, who sat for Poole as a Whig, may perhaps be identical with the ex-Alderman of Queenhithe of that name. Of future Aldermen, Jefferies lost his seat for Brecon; Sir H. Furness sat as a Whig for Bramber until February, 1699 and R. Heysham as a Tory for Lancaster throughout the Parliament.
- 1701 (Jan.-Nov.) The Tory Aldermen were well represented; Child and Cooke were re-elected; Parsons recovered his seat for Reigate, Sir C. Duncombe (now Alderman of Bridge), though defeated both in the City and at Downton came in for Ipswich, and by his local influence, no doubt, helped to secure the return of Sir R. Bedingfield [Dowgate] for Heden. Sir J. Jefferies, who recovered his former seat for Brecon was chosen Alderman of Portsoken in September.
- The only Whig Alderman elected, except the City members was Sir O. Buckingham, re-chosen at Reading.
- W. Jolliffe was re-elected for Poole. Of future Aldermen, Furness (who became Sheriff in September), exchanged Bramber for Sandwich, but was disqualified as being a Trustee of Exchequer Bills, and Heysham was again returned for Lancaster. Sir S. Garrard, a Tory, came in for Agmondesham at a bye-election in March.
- [Duncombe's colleague at Ipswich was Joseph Martin, also a Tory and for many years a Common Conncillor for Billingsgate]
- From September, 1701 till the dissolution the Aldermanic Members of the House of Commons reached the highest number on record (11), viz: Sir R. Clayton, Sir J. Parsons, Sir W. Ashhurst, Sir J. Fleet, Sir F. Child, Sir T. Cooke, Sir O. Buckingham, Sir R. Bedingfield, Sir W. Withers, Sir C. Duncombe, Sir J. Jefferies. Of these, three (Clayton, Ashhurst and Buckingham) belonged to the Whig party, the other eight being Tories.
- 1701-1702 .. The Whig representation of the Court of Aldermen in Parliament was confined to the City where all four seats were secured by that party, Buckingham being defeated at Reading.
- Four of the Tory Aldermen in the late Parliament (Parsons, Child, Cooke and Jefferies) were re-elected.
- Sheriff Sir H. Furness recovered his seat for Sandwich and Heysham was re-elected for Lancaster, as also was W. Jolliffe for Poole.

1702-1705

The four Tory Aldermen of the preceding Parliament (Parsons, Child, Cooke and Jefferies), who were re-elected were reinforced by Sir C. Duncombe, who being returned for both Downton and Hedon made choice of the former seat, and at a bye-election in the following November by Sir S. Garrard, now Alderman of Aldersgate. Child, who was returned both for Devizes and the City gave up his old seat for the former borough and served for the City.

For the Whigs, Buckingham was successful at Reading, and Sir R. Clayton, after losing his seat for the City, had a seat provided for him at Bletchingley.

Ex-Alderman Sir B. Bathurst returned to the House after fifteen years' absence as Tory M.P. for Romney; he died in 1704. W. Jolliffe was re-elected for Poole.

Furnese and Heysham were also re-elected.

After November, 1702, the Aldermanic representation in the House of Commons again stood at the highest point on record, eleven Aldermen (3 Whigs and 8 Tories) having seats in that assembly, viz: Sir R. Clayton, Sir W. Prichard, Sir J. Parsons, Sir J. Fleet, Sir F. Child, Sir T. Cooke, Sir O. Buckingham, Sir J. Jefferies, Sir S. Garrard, Sir C. Duncombe and Sir G. Heathcote, five other members of the Court having had parliamentary experience (Sir S. Dashwood, Sir W. Ashhurst, Sir T. Abney, Sir R. Bedingfeld, Sir W. Withers).

1705-1708

.. Five of the six Tory Aldermen who sat in the previous Parliament were re-elected (Parsons, Child, Jefferies, Duncombe and Garrard) Child returning to his old seat at Devizes.

Sir T. Cooke lost his seat for Colchester and contested it again unsuccessfully at a bye-election in December, 1705.

The Whig Aldermen, Clayton and Buckingham, were re-chosen for Bletchingley and Reading respectively, but the former being also elected for the City, naturally retained that seat and abandoned the pocket borough.

Furnese and Heysham were also re-elected.

1708-1710

.. The Tory Aldermen, Parsons, Jefferies, Duncombe, and Garrard were re-elected, Child giving up his seat to contest the City again, where he was defeated. Jefferies died in 1709.

W. Lewen, Tory M.P. for Poole, was elected Alderman of Castle Baynard in November, 1708.

Ex-Alderman G. Page (Farrington Without) came in for Shoreham on the Whig interest; Furnese and Heysham were once more re-elected, and two future Aldermen, both Whigs (T. Scawen and R. Baylis), represented Grampond and Thetford respectively.

[P. King, one of the Whig members for Beeralston, was elected Recorder in July, 1708]

1710-1713

.. The only Aldermen re-elected were Parsons and Duncombe, the latter of whom died in 1711.

W. Lewen who lost his seat for Poole at the general election, recovered it at a bye-election in March, 1711.

Sir F. Child, who had left Devizes in 1708 to contest the City, now returned to that constituency.

In May, 1711, Sir H. Furnese, who had again been returned for Sandwich, was elected Alderman of Bridge in succession to Duncombe; he died in the following year.

In June, 1711, Sir J. Bateman [Coleman Street], one of the Whig candidates for the City at the general election, found a seat at Ilchester. He, however, supported the Tory Government in the division on the French Commercial Treaty, although three of the four Tory members for the City, together with Lewen, voted with the Whigs on this question.

Ex-Alderman Page was re-elected at Shoreham, and J. St. Amand (formerly Alderman of Castle Baynard) stood as a Tory, without success, at Steyning.

Robert Child, son of Sir Francis, whom he afterwards succeeded in his Aldermanry, came in for Helston on the Tory interest in December, 1710. Heysham was again elected for Lancaster.

- [The Recorder (King) was re-elected; Joseph Martin represented Hastings as a Tory, being knighted in 1712, and Serjeant Richardson, one of the Judges of the Sheriffs' Court, sat for Dunwich in the same interest]
- 1713-1715 .. The Tories, Parsons and Lewen, were again elected, as also was Sir J. Bateman, who was now identified with the Tories.
- R. Child succeeded his father in the representation of Devizes and on his death became Alderman of Farringdon Without (October, 1713).
- Sir Ambrose Crowley [Dowgate] who sat as a Tory for Andover, died a little earlier in the same month.
- Ex-Alderman Page was defeated at Shoreham; Heysham was returned for Lancaster again, being now practically a Whig, which party adopted him as one of its candidates for the City at the next election. John Eyles (afterwards Alderman of Vintry) nephew of the late Sir John Eyles, represented Chippenham as a Whig.
- [The Recorder (Sir P. King) again sat for Beeralston and Sir J. Martin for Hastings; Serjeant Richardson was defeated by the future Recorder, W. Thompson, at Ipswich, but regained the seat on petition and died a few days before the dissolution]
- 1715-1722 .. Sir J. Parsons and Sir W. Lewen were re-elected; the former died in 1717, and the latter a few weeks before the dissolution.
- Sir J. Bateman was defeated at Ilchester, where two Whigs were returned, but secured a seat for East Loos; he died in 1718.
- The Lord Mayor, Sir W. Humphreys [Cheap], was elected as a Whig for Marlborough, and Sir G. Heathcote [Walbrook], who had been out of Parliament since his defeat in the City when Lord Mayor-elect, now returned to the House as Whig member for Helston.
- John Eyles, who was re-elected for Chippenham, succeeded to the Baronetcy and became Alderman of Vintry in 1716, and Charles Cooke, who was returned for Grampound, was chosen Alderman of Bassishaw in 1717 on the death of Parsons. He acted with the Whigs and was rewarded with the post of a Lord of Trade, which office he held at his death in 1721.
- Sir G. Page, who had been made a Baronet on the return of the Whigs to power, recovered his seat for Shoreham, which he represented till his death in 1720.
- [The new Recorder, W. Thompson, who from 1717 to 1720 was also Solicitor-General, regained his former seat at Ipswich; Sir J. Martin was ejected from his seat at Hastings and G. Caswall, who was returned at a bye-election for Leominster as a Whig in 1717, was expelled the House as one of the South Sea Directors in 1721, being at the time one of the Sheriffs of London]
- 1722-1727 .. Sir John Eyles was re-elected for Chippenham. The only other Alderman returned at the general election, except F. Child elected for the City, was Humphrey Parsons [Portoken] son of the late Sir John, who had unsuccessfully contested Reigate on his father's death in 1717 and now came in on the Tory interest for Harwich, being again unsuccessful at Reigate and also in the City.
- Sir G. Heathcote returned to the House in October, 1722, as member for Lymington, and Sir John Ward [Candlewick] who had failed to secure re-election for the City, came back in the following December as a Whig representative of Dunwich; he died in 1726.
- John Crowley, son of the late Sir Ambrose, and himself a future Alderman (then Common Councillor) of Dowgate, sat for Okehampton as a Tory and Joseph Eyles (Sir John's brother) afterwards Alderman of Cheap, represented Devizes as a Whig; W. Smith, a future Alderman of Aldgate, contested Lyme Regis against two Whigs.
- [The Recorder, Sir W. Thompson, continued to sit for Ipswich and Sir G. Caswall returned to his old seat for Leominster]
- 1727-1734 .. Sir John Eyles exchanged Chippenham for the City: Sir G. Heathcote (now Alderman of Bridge Without) sat for St. Germans; he died in January, 1733.
- F. Child [Farringdon Without] who had been a Tory member for the City in the preceding Parliament, now sat for Middlesex.
- J. Crowley, who was elected for Queenborough, became Alderman of Dowgate in September, 1727, and died in the following January.

Sir John Williams [Cripplegate] who had been one of the Tory candidates for the City at the General Election, came in for Aldeburgh in May, 1730.

Sir Joseph Eyles was returned for Southwark. George Heathcote (afterwards Alderman of Walbrook), was returned as an anti-Walpolean Whig for Hindon [The Recorder, Thompson, retained his seat for Ipswich until his elevation to the Bench in 1730, and Sir G. Caswall continued to sit for Leominster. Henry Neale, a Common Councillman for Tower, contested Weymouth]

1734-1741 .. Sir F. Child retained his seat for Middlesex till his death in April, 1740. The only other Alderman returned at the General Election (except for the City) was G. Champion [Bridge] who was returned for Aylesbury. He was a staunch Walpolean and lost the Lord Mayoralty through his vote in Parliament for the Spanish Convention in 1739. Sir John Eyles was defeated in his candidature for his former seat at Chippenham.

Sir Joseph Eyles, who retired from Southwark and was elected by his old constituency Devizes, became Alderman of Cheap after a keen party fight in January, 1739, and died in February, 1740. His Southwark seat was taken by George Heathcote, who in October, 1735 was chosen Alderman of Walbrook.

Henry Marshall, who sat for the Tory borough of Agmondesham, was elected Alderman of Farringdon Within in November, 1737.

E. Gibbon (future Alderman of Vintry and father of the historian) sat for Petersfield in the Tory interest [Sir G. Caswall, now a Common Councillman for Langhourn, continued to represent Leominster, voting generally with Walpole. J. Strange, the Solicitor-General, who sat for Totnes, became Recorder in 1739]

1741-1747 .. Alderman Marshall retained his seat at Agmondesham: C. Ewer [Broad Street] was elected as a Tory for Shaftesbury, and died in June, 1742.

E. Gibbon, who exchanged Petersfield for Southampton, was elected Alderman of Vintry in March, 1743, but resigned that office in 1745.

Sir J. Barnard, who was re-elected for the City, was also nominated for Tiverton against the Attorney-General (Sir D. Ryder) but polled only 2 votes against 22.

Sir W. Billers [Cordwainer] contested Romney unsuccessfully for the Walpoleans.

[The Recorder, Sir J. Strange, gave up his seat for Totnes, but was again elected there in January, 1742; in the following December he resigned the Recorder-ship. John Caswall, who succeeded his relative, Sir George, at Leominster, was also his successor in the Common Council: he died early in 1742]

1747-1754 .. Sir H. Marshall continued to represent Agmondesham till his death shortly before the Dissolution in 1754.

W. Baker [Bassishaw] was elected for Plympton in December, 1747, and W. Beckford, who a few days earlier in the same month had been returned for Shaftesbury, was chosen Alderman of Billingsgate in June, 1752. Both were strong Whigs.

E. Ironside [Cordwainer] a Tory suspected of Jacobitism, contested Gattton in November, 1749, polling 7 votes to 6 for Admiral Knowles who, however, was declared elected on a scrutiny.

[In Southwark, two ex-Common Councillmen, W. Belchier (Walbrook) and Sir J. Creed (Langhourn) were candidates, the former being successful]

1754-1761 .. W. Baker again sat for Plympton: W. Beckford, who was elected for the City, was also returned for Petersfield. He appears at this time to have been acting in concert with the Tories in opposition to the Whig Government; his brother Richard Beckford (who was chosen Alderman of Farringdon Without in October, 1754, and died in January 1756) stood at the General Election for Bristol in conjunction with Sir John Philipps, a prominent Tory leader, and secured his own return: Philipps, who was defeated, was given the seat vacated by William Beckford at Petersfield.

Three other Aldermen were elected at the General Election, besides the above and the four City members, viz.: M. Dickinson [Queenhithe] for Brackley, S. Fludyer [Cheap] for Chippenham, J. Porter [Lime Street] for Evesham. Fludyer was a Tory, the others Whigs: Porter died in 1756.

Sir W. Calvert, who lost his seat for the City at the General Election, came in for Old Sarum in March, 1755.

Sir C. Gascoyne [Vintry] contested Southwark unsuccessfully against ex-Councilman Belchier.

John Wilkes, future Alderman and Lord Mayor, contested Berwick at the General Election, and obtained a seat for Aylesbury in 1757.

[Sir W. Moreton, the Recorder, was elected to fill a vacancy at Brackley in March, 1755, thus becoming the colleague of Alderman Dickinson, and Sir J. Creed was returned at Canterbury]

During the year 1755 the 26 existing Aldermen included 10 sitting members of Parliament (Barnard, Baker, Ladbroke, Calvert, Bethell, Dickinson, Fludyer, W. Beckford, Porter, R. Beckford) and two ex-M.P.'s (Jannsen and Champin).

1761-1768 .. Three Aldermen were re-elected, viz.: Sir W. Baker, M. Dickinson (who died in 1765, being then Chairman of Committees in the House of Commons) and Sir S. Fludyer, who contested the City unsuccessfully, but was again returned for Chippenham. The last-named died in January, 1768.

Wilkes sat for Aylesbury till his expulsion in 1764: J. Townsend (afterwards Alderman of Bishopsgate), was elected for West Looe in the Whig interest in 1767: W. Lee (afterwards Alderman of Aldgate), stood as a Whig for Bridport.

[Sir J. Creed was defeated at Canterbury, John Paterson, Deputy for Farringdon Within, represented Ludgershall, and Sir T. Fludyer, ex-Common Councilman for Bassishaw, after an unsuccessful contest at Devizes in 1765, was elected for Great Bedwin in December, 1767, a seat which he exchanged early in the following year for that at Chippenham vacated by his brother's death]

1768-1774 .. B. Croshy [Bread Street] sat for Honiton as a Whig.

Wilkes, who contested the City unsuccessfully, was returned for Middlesex, and promptly expelled; he was then three times re-elected, the House of Commons on the last occasion (April 1769), seating his opponent, Colonel Luttrell. In the meantime Wilkes had been chosen Alderman of Farringdon Without in January, 1769.

Sir R. Glyn [Dowgate] who had been defeated in the City at the General Election came in for Coventry as a supporter of the Government in December, 1768, and held that seat until his death four years later.

Three sitting Members in the course of this Parliament joined the Aldermanic body, viz.: J. Townsend (West Looe), elected for Bishopsgate in June, 1769, J. Sawbridge (Hythe), for Langbourn in the following month and B. Hopkins (Great Bedwin) for Broad Street in February, 1773. Townsend was an adherent of the Chatham and Shelburne section of the Whigs, Sawbridge was an advanced Radical of the Republican type, Hopkins was nominally a Whig, but generally supported the Court.

Sir W. Lewes, elected Alderman of Lime Street in 1772, stood two unsuccessful contests at Worcester in November, 1773 and March, 1774, in the Whig interest.

[Serjeant Glynn, who became Wilkes' colleague in Middlesex in December, 1768, was chosen Recorder in 1772. W. Baker, who succeeded his father, Sir William, in the representation of Plympton, served as Sheriff 1770-1771 in conjunction with Joseph Martin, M.P. for Gatton (both Whigs); the latter was elected Alderman of Lime Street in September, 1772, but refused the office and was succeeded by Sir W. Lewes. Sir T. Fludyer, who was re-elected for Chippenham and ex-Sheriff Sir R. Darling, who was Burke's Tory colleague at Wendover, died in 1769 and 1770 respectively. P. Feilde, one of the Judges of the Sheriffs' Court, sat as a Whig for Hertford after January, 1770. W. Belchier attempted, without success, to regain the seat for Southwark which he had given up in 1761]

1774-1780 .. Wilkes recovered his seat for Middlesex and retained it unmolested, having the Recorder as his colleague till the latter's death in 1779. Sir W. Rawlinson [Dowgate] represented Queenborough as a Tory, he resigned his gown in May, 1777.

Alderman Harley retired from the City and contested Herefordshire unsuccessfully, but was returned for that county in May, 1776 in the interests of the Court.

Sawbridge, who secured his election for the City, stood also again for Hythe, where he was lowest on the poll, and Sir W. Lewes was again defeated at Worcester.

Ex-Sheriff W. Lee, afterwards Alderman of Aldgate, was an unsuccessful Whig candidate for Southwark.

[Ex-Sheriff Sayre, an extreme Whig, stood for Seaford. Ex-Sheriff Martin sat for Tewkesbury till his death in 1776; ex-Sheriff Baker, who contested the City at the General Election, was elected for Aldborough in 1777; P. Feilde again represented Hertford and Serjeant Adair, the Whig M.P. for Cockermouth, was chosen Recorder in 1779 in succession to Glyn]

1780-1784 .. Aldermen Harley and Wilkes were re-elected for Herefordshire and Middlesex respectively.

Sir T. Hallifax [Aldersgate] was returned for Coventry as a Whig in November, 1780, the Sheriffs having made no return at the general election (at which he was a candidate) owing to the interruption of the poll by rioting. He was unseated on petition in February, 1781.

J. Townsend [Bishopsgate] came back to the House after eight years' absence in April, 1782 as M.P. for Lord Shelburne's pocket borough of Calne.

Ex-Alderman Sir W. Rawlinson was re-elected for Queenborough as a supporter of the North administration, through the influence of Lord Sandwich. He followed Lord Sandwich in adhering to Lord North when the latter coalesced with Fox against Shelburne and Pitt in 1783.

Sir W. Lewes [Lime Street] made a fourth unsuccessful attack on the representation of Worcester at the General Election, but was returned for the City of London, whilst Lord Mayor, in the following year (1781).

T. Wooldridge [Bridge] stood as a Whig for Abingdon, and after his defeat presented a petition which the House voted to be "frivolous and vexatious."

Ex-Sheriff Baker, representing the Whigs, sat for Hertford; B. Hammett (a future Alderman), then a Common Councilman of Farringdon Within was elected as a Tory for Taunton in March, 1782. [Serjeant Adair, the Recorder, contested Southwark as a Whig at a bye-election in September 1782]

1784-1790 .. Harley, Wilkes and Townsend were re-elected for their respective constituencies, the last-named dying in 1787. Both Wilkes and Townsend were, equally with the Tory Harley, supporters of Pitt. So also was Sir T. Hallifax, who now came in for Aylesbury and died in 1789.

Sir B. Turner [Cordwainer] one of the Sheriffs, a strong Reformer, but like Wilkes, opposed to the Coalition, was elected for Southwark; he died two months later, being succeeded in his parliamentary seat by Paul le Mesurier, who in the following October was chosen Alderman of Dowgate, and in the Aldermanry of his Ward by Brook Watson, one of the City members, both being supporters of Pitt.

On the day of Le Mesurier's election to Dowgate, R. Atkinson, who had been a Government candidate for the City at the general election, and in June had found a seat at Romney, was chosen Alderman of Tower; he died May 26, 1785. A week later (June 3, 1785), B. Hammett, who had been re-elected for Taunton in the Government interest, became Alderman of Portsoken.

Sir W. Rawlinson was returned by the influence of his patron, Lord Sandwich, for Huntingdon at the General Election as a supporter of the Coalition.

Alderman Sawbridge, who was re-elected for the City, stood also for Hythe where he was defeated.

Ex-Sheriff Baker was in the number of "Fox's Martyrs," as the victims of popular indignation against the Coalition were styled, being rejected at Hertford. In July, 1788, Sheriff M. Bloxam, a future Alderman, came in on the Government interest for Maidstone.

Between 1785 and 1787 there were (inclusive of the City Members), ten Aldermen sitting contemporaneously in Parliament, viz: Harley, Hallifax, Wilkes, Townsend, Sawbridge, Lewes, Newnham, Watson, Le Mesurier and Hammett, two others (Turner and Atkinson), having died within a year of each other since the General Election. The four City members with Wilkes and Le Mesurier supported Pitt's motion for Parliamentary Reform in 1785.

- 1790-1796 .. Harley, Le Mesurier and Hammett, all supporters of Pitt's administration, were re-elected for Herefordshire, Southwark and Taunton respectively. J. W. Anderson [Aldersgate] was one of four elected on a double return for Okehampton. On petition he lost his seat, but in 1793 came in for the City as a Ministerialist. Sir J. Sanderson [Bridge] was elected for Malmesbury in the same interest in February, 1792.
- N. Newnham [Vintry] who had lost his seat for the City at the general election and unsuccessfully contested Ludgershall in April, 1791, was returned for that borough in June, 1793; he had been a Foxite, but now was included in that section of the Whigs, which, led by the Duke of Portland and Burke, transferred its support to the Government when Fox and his followers opposed the war with France.
- M. Bloxam continued to represent Maidstone, and ex-Sheriff Baker came back to Parliament as Whig member for Hertfordshire, having been again defeated in the county town.
- 1796-1802 .. Aldermen Harley and Sir B. Hammett (who died in 1800, having resigned his Aldermanry in 1798), were re-elected for their respective constituencies, and Sir J. Sanderson exchanged Malmesbury for Hastings, dying in 1798.
- Sir R. C. Glyn [Bishopsgate] was returned as a supporter of the Tory Government for St. Ives.
- Sir J. Eamer [Langbourn] stood unsuccessfully as a Tory for Ilchester.
- M. Bloxam was re-elected for Maidstone, and was knighted in 1800.
- [Ex-Sheriff Baker, who gradually forsook his Foxite connexion and became a supporter of the administration, retained his seat for Hertfordshire]
- 1802-1806 .. Both Harley and Glyn retiring from the House of Commons, the former after forty years' service, no Alderman was elected at the beginning of this Parliament, except the four City members.
- In June, 1803, Sir M. Bloxam, who still represented Maidstone, was chosen Alderman of Bridge, and J. Prinsep, who sat for Queenborough, became Alderman of Lime Street in December, 1804. Both were Tories, the former appears to have supported the Addington section of the party.
- The Lord Mayor, Sir J. Eamer [Langbourn] came forward as a Tory candidate for East Retford but did not go to the poll.
- Ex-Alderman Williams (Cornhill), sat for Wootton Bassett as a Tory and J. Atkins, afterwards Alderman of Walbrook, for Arundel as a Whig.
- [Ex-Sheriff Baker, now an avowed Tory, was defeated in Hertfordshire, but recovered the seat in 1805]
- 1806-1807 .. Both Bloxam and Prinsep lost their seats, the former being defeated at Maidstone and the latter who retired from Queenborough being unsuccessful at Colchester.
- J. Perring [Broad Street], was returned in the Tory interest for Romney.
- Ex-Aldermen Williams and Hibbert (Bridge), sat for Wootton Bassett and Seaford respectively; the latter supported the Whigs, except on the Colonial Slavery question.
- Of future Aldermen, W. Jacob was returned for Westbury as a Tory and C. Smith, then Common Councilman for Cordwainer, was defeated at East Looe.
- [Ex-Sheriff Baker was re-elected as a Tory for Hertfordshire, and Sheriff Jonathan Miles contested Tregony in the advanced Whig interest]
- 1807-1812 .. The four City members were the only Aldermen returned at the General Election.

W. Jacob who then contested Yarmouth unsuccessfully for the Tories, came in for Rye in 1808, and was chosen Alderman of Lime Street in November, 1809, which position he resigned in March, 1811.

Sir J. Perring returned to the House as Member for Hythe in 1810.

Ex-Alderman Hibbert retained his seat for Seaford; Williams contested Grampound at the General Election, won the seat on petition in March, 1808, and was unseated on a counter petition two months later. In January, 1809, he stood for St. Albans without success, but in the following month came in for Kilkenny.

[Sheriff Sir J. Miles was an unsuccessful candidate for Barnstaple and John Elliot, Common Councilman for Bread Street, stood for Westminster in the Tory interest against Sir F. Burdett and Lord Cochrane]

1812-1818 .. Sir J. Perring was re-elected for Hythe and C. Smith [Cordwainer] won a seat for the Government at St. Albans.

M. Wood [Cripplegate] was a Whig candidate for Grampound at a bye-election in 1814.

Ex-Alderman Williams was returned for Dorchester, a seat which he retained for more than twenty years, giving a steady support to the Tory party.

[Two ex-Common Councilmen sat in this Parliament, B. Shaw [Queenhithe] representing Westbury as a Tory pro-Catholic till 1814, when he retired, and C. E. Wilson (Langbourn) coming in for Bewdley as a Tory in that year]

1818-1820 ... Sir J. Perring again sat for Hythe and W. Heygate [Coleman Street] represented Sudbury as a moderate Whig who generally supported the Government.

Sir W. Curtis, having been defeated in the City, was returned for Bletchingley as a Tory in February, 1819.

The Lord Mayor, C. Smith, who stood for re-election at St. Albans, was unsuccessful.

Ex-Alderman Williams was re-elected for Dorchester.

[D. W. Harvey, a prominent metropolitan ultra-Radical, who was then Common Councilman for Bishopsgate, came in for Colchester, which he had contested at the General Election of 1812 and at a bye-election in 1817. Three ex-Common Councilmen were candidates at the General Election. B. Shaw was defeated at Grampound, and N. Acheson (Broad Street), a Whig, at Petersfield; M. Attwood (Bridge) was elected in the Tory interest for Fowey in March, 1819, but unseated on petition]

1820-1826 .. W. Heygate was re-elected as an avowed ministerialist for Sudbury; C. Smith recovered his lost seat at St. Albans.

W. Thompson who was seated on petition for Callington in June, 1820 (with ex-Councilman M. Attwood as his colleague) became Alderman of Cheap in August, 1821; he was a moderate Reformer.

J. Atkins [Walbrook] a former Tory representative of the City, stood unsuccessfully for Barnstaple in March, 1824.

Ex-Alderman Williams continued to sit for Dorchester.

[D. W. Harvey, who had retired from the Common Council, was re-elected for Colchester; B. Shaw was defeated at Hedon. N. Acheson again contested Petersfield; ex-Sheriff Parkyns, a very eccentric person, stood as an ultra-Radical for Arundel in February, 1823, having contested Carlisle in 1818. T. Denman, Whig member for Nottingham, became Common Serjeant in April, 1822]

1826-1830 .. C. Smith was re-elected for St. Albans; J. Atkins [Walbrook] was returned for Arundel in the Tory interest, having represented that borough as a Whig in the Parliament of 1802.

Sir W. Curtis [Bridge Without] the "Father of the City" was returned for Hastings, but resigned his seat and retired finally from Parliament in December, 1826.

Ex-Alderman Williams still sat for Dorchester and W. H. Hughes, a future Alderman, contested Oxford as a Whig without success.

[M. Attwood and D. W. Harvey were re-elected; A. Spottiswoode, who represented Saltash as a Tory, served as Sheriff for the year 1827-1828; the Common Serjeant (Denman) contested Leicester unsuccessfully. Two Common Councilmen, F. Gye (Bridge) and T. Bish (Cornhill), the former a Tory and the latter a Whig, were elected for Chippenham and Leominster respectively; Bish lost his seat on petition, and B. Smith (Cripplegate) stood as a Whig for Rye]

- 1830-1831 .. Atkins was re-elected and H. Winchester [Vintry] sat as a Tory for Maidstone.
- Ex-Alderman Williams continued to represent Dorchester; W. H. Hughes was returned for Oxford and T. Farncomb, afterwards Alderman of Bassishaw, contested Southwark for the Tories at a bye-election in November, 1830. [The Common Serjeant (Denman), was elected at Nottingham; he resigned his civic office at the end of the year on becoming Attorney-General. D. W. Harvey and ex-Sheriff Spottiswoode were returned in opposite interests for Colchester, the latter losing his seat on petition. M. Attwood forsook Callington for Boroughbridge. F. Gye, who had left the Common Council, gave up his seat at Chippenham and contested Berwick; J. Mirehouse, a Common Pleader (afterwards Common Serjeant), was an unsuccessful candidate for Marlborough. B. Smith was again beaten at Rye]
- 1831-1832 .. Atkins retained his seat, but Winchester was defeated at Maidstone.
- W. T. Copeland [Bishopsgate] who contested Coleraine as a Reformer at the General Election was seated on petition in August, 1831.
- W. H. Hughes, who was re-elected for Oxford, was elected Alderman of Portsoken by the Court of Aldermen on the rejection of Michael Seales in January, 1832, but ousted by the Court of King's Bench on a writ of quo warranto in the following July. (He became Alderman of Bread Street in 1843, after his parliamentary career had closed).
- Ex-Alderman Williams, D. W. Harvey and M. Attwood were re-elected for their respective constituencies, and B. Smith stood a third unsuccessful contest at Rye.
- 1832-1834 .. The City members (Wood, Waithman and Key), were the only Aldermen returned at the General Election.
- Alderman Thompson, late one of the City members, unsuccessfully contested Sunderland as a Moderate Whig, and was returned for that borough in April, 1833.
- W. T. Copeland repeated the experience of the preceding Parliament: he was defeated at Coleraine by the Mayor's casting vote at the General Election, but recovered the seat on petition in May, 1833.
- W. H. Hughes similarly was thrown out at Oxford, but was elected for that city in March, 1833, being (like Thompson and Copeland) a very moderate Reformer.
- Ex-Alderman Williams was returned for Dorchester for the last time; J. Lainson (afterwards Alderman of Bread Street), unsuccessfully contested East Surrey as a supporter of the Grey ministry, and J. Humphery, afterwards Alderman of Aldgate, was returned by the Reform party for Southwark.
- [M. Attwood, a staunch Tory, was the first Member for Whitehaven, his former constituency, Boroughbridge, having been disfranchised by the Reform Bill. D. W. Harvey was re-elected at Colchester and T. Bish was returned for Leominster as a Whig]
- 1835-1837 .. Aldermen Thompson and Copeland were re-elected, nominally as Reformers, but they gave a steady support to Sir R. Peel, both in office and opposition and before the end of the Parliament were definitely identified with the Conservative party. W. H. Hughes, who was re-elected for Oxford, adopted the same course.
- M. P. Lucas [Tower] received a few Conservative votes at Maidstone but was not a serious candidate.
- J. Humphery, who was re-elected for Southwark as a Liberal (having D. W. Harvey as his colleague), was elected Alderman of Aldgate in December, 1835.
- C. Farebrother [Lime Street] unsuccessfully contested Lambeth for the Conservatives.
- [M. Attwood was re-elected for Whitehaven and T. Bish for Leominster. Sheriff Raphael, a Roman Catholic Liberal, who had stood for Evesham in 1830, contested Pontefract at the General Election; in the following June he was returned under the patronage of O'Connell for Carlow County, but was uneaten on petition and subsequently published an address to the electors, detailing his pecuniary transactions with O'Connell in connection with the election, in which the Irish agitator's conduct was represented in a very unfavourable light. The Recorder (the Hon. C. E. Law) was elected for Cambridge University as a Tory in March, 1835, and his future successor, the Hon. J. A. Stuart-Wortley, for Halifax in the same interest, having contested it in 1832. B. Smith sat for Sudbury as a Liberal]

- 1837-1841 .. Aldermen Thompson, Humphery and Copeland were re-elected, the last-named exchanging Coleraine for Stoke-on-Trent.
- Sir James Duke (then Sheriff and Common Councilman for Billingsgate) was returned as a Liberal for Boston at the General Election: in December 1840, he became Alderman of Farringdon Without.
- W. H. Hughes, standing as a Conservative, was defeated at Oxford by the future Chief Justice Erle.
- Ex-Sheriff Salomons, who had been elected Alderman of Aldgate before Humphery, but had been unseated owing to his inability as a Jew to take the required oath, was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Shoreham.
- [M. Attwood and the Recorder were re-elected, as also was D. W. Harvey, who quitted Parliament in 1839 on appointment to the newly instituted office of Commissioner of the City Police. B. Smith was defeated at Norwich, but gained the seat on petition]
- 1841-1847 .. Thompson, Copeland, Humphery and Duke were re-elected, and in September, 1841, Thompson exchanged his seat at Sunderland for the representation of Westmorland.
- J. Johnson [Dowgate] was an unsuccessful Conservative candidate for Plymouth and ex-Sheriff Salomons contested Maidstone as a Liberal.
- In the disruption of the Conservative party on the Corn Law question, Thompson voted with the Protectionists, whilst Copeland joined the two Conservative non-Aldermanic members for the City (Lyall and Masterman), in support of Free Trade.
- [M. Attwood, B. Smith and the Recorder were re-elected. A. Galloway (Common Councilman for Farringdon Without) was defeated at Dover, standing as an advanced Liberal. Ex-Sheriff J. Pileher unsuccessfully contested Southwark in 1845 as a Conservative against Sir W. Molesworth, and in January, 1847, ex-Sheriff W. J. Chaplin was returned for Salisbury as a Liberal]
- 1847-1852 .. The old members, Thompson, Copeland, Humphery and Duke were re-elected; the last-named (then Lord Mayor), resigned his seat for Boston in 1849 and was returned for the City, which during the past six years had been, for the first time in more than five centuries, without a direct Aldermanic representative in Parliament.
- T. Sidney [Billingsgate] was elected as a Conservative Free Trader for Stafford.
- In May, 1851, W. Cubitt, who sat as a Conservative Free Trader for Andover, was chosen Alderman of Langbourn.
- D. Salomons contested Greenwich at the General Election, and (having been in December, 1847 chosen Alderman of Cordwainer), was returned there in June, 1851, defeating Alderman D. W. Wire [Walbrook] (like himself a Liberal), who being then a Common Councillor for his Ward, had contested Boston as Sir J. Duke's colleague in 1847 and again on Sir James's retirement in 1849, and had stood a third unsuccessful contest (after his elevation to the Aldermanry), in April, 1851.
- R. W. Carden [Dowgate] then Sheriff, contested St. Albans as a Conservative unsuccessfully in 1850, on the death of ex-Sheriff Raphael who had been returned at the General Election; a petition against the successful candidate was followed by a Royal Commission of Inquiry which elicited revelations of wholesale corruption in the electorate, resulting in the disfranchisement of the borough.
- A future Alderman, R. Hartley Kennedy, contested the Inverness boroughs as an independent Liberal against a member of the same party.
- [The Recorder (Law) was re-elected; on his death in 1850, the Recordship was given to the Right Hon. J. A. Stuart-Wortley, the Peelite Member for Buteshire, which he had represented since 1842. Ex-Sheriff Chaplin retained his seat for Salisbury; C. Pearson, the City Solicitor, an ex-Common Councilman for Bridge, was elected for Lambeth as an Independent Liberal (ousting a Member of the Whig Government); he resigned his seat in July, 1850. Another ex-Member of the Common Council, A. Pellatt, stood as an advanced Radical and anti-State-Church candidate for Bristol, polling under 200 votes, and two existing members of that body, J. Hartley (Farringdon Within), a Conservative and C. Gilpin (Bishopsgate), a Liberal, were defeated respectively at Sligo, in July, 1848, and at the Perth boroughs, in May, 1852]

- 1852-1857 .. W. Thompson continued to sit for Westmorland till his death in 1854. Cubitt was re-elected for Andover and T. Challis [Cripplegate] came in for Finsbury as a Liberal. Copeland and Salomons lost their seats and Sidney, who abandoned Stafford, was an unsuccessful Peelite candidate for Leeds.
- [The Recorder, who resigned that office on becoming Solicitor-General in November, 1856, continued to sit for Buteshire as a Peelite: T. Chambers, Liberal Member for Hertford, was elected Common Serjeant in January, 1857. Sheriff Swift was returned for Sligo county at the General Election in the Liberal interest; ex-Sheriff Chaplin was again elected for Salisbury; ex-Sheriff Laurie, a Conservative, who was elected for Barnstable in 1854, lost his seat on petition, his unsuccessful opponent, W. Tite, the eminent architect (formerly a Common Councilman for Aldgate), becoming Liberal Member for Bath in 1855; ex-Sheriff Nicoll (a Common Councilman for Cornhill), stood for Frome as a Liberal in 1854, and again in 1856, when he lost by one vote only; ex-Sheriff Kennard was elected for Newport (Isle of Wight) in the Conservative interest in February, 1857, a few weeks before the Dissolution. J. Locke, one of the Common Pleaders, contested Hastings unsuccessfully for the Liberals and A. Pellatt came in for Southwark in succession to Alderman Humphery, who retired at the end of the preceding Parliament. J. T. Norris, Common Councilman for Aldersgate, contested Abingdon as a Liberal in 1854.]
- 1857-1859 .. Cubitt was re-elected; Alderman Copeland recovered his former seat for Stoke-on-Trent and Sir R. Carden [Dowgate] was elected in the Conservative interest for Gloucester. In February, 1859 Alderman Salomons came in again for Greenwich at a bye-election. Alderman Sidney stood unsuccessfully as a Peelite for Worcester, and W. A. Rose as a moderate Conservative (in conjunction with ex-Sheriff Kennard) for Newport (Isle of Wight), where both he and his colleague were defeated. Ex-Alderman White (Bassishaw) was returned in the advanced Liberal interest for Plymouth.
- [The late Recorder (Stuart-Wortley) was re-elected for Buteshire; the Common Serjeant (Chambers), lost his seat at Hertford; J. Locke (Common Pleader, an office which he resigned in the following July), was elected as a Liberal for Southwark, ousting A. Pellatt: ex-Sheriffs Nicoll and Laurie were elected at Frome and Barnstable respectively: ex-Sheriff Swift lost his seat for Sligo county. W. Tite was re-elected at Bath. Three Liberal Common Councilmen secured seats in this Parliament; C. Gilpin (Bishopsgate) being elected for Northampton, W. Cox (Broad Street) for Finsbury and J. T. Norris (Aldersgate), for Abingdon]
- 1859-1865 .. Aldermen Cubitt, Copeland and Salomons were re-elected. Cubitt resigned his seat for Andover to contest the City in July, 1861, was again elected for Andover in December, 1862, and died in October, 1863, having resigned his Aldermanry in the preceding January. Alderman Sidney contested Stafford as a Liberal at the General Election and secured a seat there at a bye-election in August, 1860. W. A. Rose [Queenhithe] was elected for Southampton as a Conservative during his Lord Mayoralty in December, 1862, and J. C. Lawrence [Walbrook] was returned for Lambeth as a Liberal in May, 1865. Sir R. Carden was defeated at Gloucester, and unsuccessfully contested Marylebone in 1861. Ex-Alderman White was rejected at Plymouth, but was elected for Brighton in 1860.
- [Ex-Sheriff Kennard recovered his lost seat at Newport; ex-Sheriff Nicoll was defeated at Frome; Stuart-Wortley, the ex-Recorder, contested the West Riding of Yorkshire unsuccessfully for the Conservatives; Messrs. Gilpin (who retired from the Common Council in 1860), Norris, Tite and Locke were re-elected, the last named again defeating A. Pellatt. W. Cox lost his seat at Finsbury, but recovered it at a bye-election in December, 1861. P. A. Taylor, formerly Common Councilman for Farringdon Within, was elected for Leicester as an advanced Radical in 1862, having contested that borough in 1861, and Newcastle-on-Tyne at the General Election]
- 1865-1868 .. Alderman Salomons was re-elected, and A. Lusk [Aldgate] was returned for Finsbury as a Liberal, defeating W. Cox, who professed the same creed. J. C. Lawrence and W. A. Rose lost their seats, though the latter's colleague as a Conservative candidate at Southampton (the Recorder, Russell Gurney), came in at the head of the poll.

Alderman and Sheriff T. Dakin [Candlewick] was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Thetford.

Ex-Alderman White was re-elected at Brighton; two future Aldermen were defeated at the General Election, F. W. Truscott (then Common Councilman for Dowgate), who stood as a Conservative for Dudley, and W. M'Arthur, who contested Pontefract as a Liberal. In 1866 R. N. Fowler was the unsuccessful Conservative candidate for Penryn at a bye-election.

[Ex-Sheriff Kennard, J. Locke, C. Gilpin, W. Tite and P. A. Taylor were re-elected, J. T. Norris lost his seat at Abingdon, the Common Serjeant (T. Chambers), was returned for Marylebone and ex-Sheriff T. Cave for Barnstaple, both as Liberals]

1868-1874 .. Aldermen Salomons and Lusk were re-elected; the former, who had Mr. Gladstone as his colleague at Greenwich, died in July, 1873.

J. C. Lawrence recovered his seat for Lambeth, having as his colleague W. M'Arthur, who was chosen Alderman of Coleman Street in September, 1872.

Sir S. Waterlow [Langbourn] was elected as a Liberal for Dumfriesshire; being disqualified as having held a Government contract at the date of his election, he lost his seat and standing again was defeated in March, 1869. He also stood for Southwark unsuccessfully in 1870.

Reading was contested for the Conservatives by Sir R. Carden and Southwark for the same party by W. J. R. Cotton [Lime Street] at the General Election.

J. Figgins, Common Councilman for Farringdon Without, was elected in the Conservative interest for Shrewsbury: in June, 1873, he succeeded Sir J. Duke as Alderman of his Ward.

Ex-Alderman White was again returned for Brighton and R. N. Fowler won a seat for the Conservatives at Penryn.

[The Recorder (R. Gurney), the Common Serjeant (T. Chambers), ex-Sheriff Cave, C. Gilpin, P. A. Taylor and Sir W. Tite (who died in 1873) were re-elected, and C. Reed, Deputy of Farringdon Within, was returned as a Liberal for Hackney, defeating Common Councilman J. J. Homer (Cornhill), who stood also as a Liberal in the licensed victualling interest. W. Cox was again defeated at Finsbury; ex-Sheriff Sir F. Lycett contested Worcester for the Liberals at the General Election and was also unsuccessful at Liskeard in 1869. Ex-Sheriff Sir J. Bennett (Common Councilman for Cheap) was one of many Liberal candidates for the seat at Greenwich, vacated by Sir D. Salomons' death in 1873]

1874-1880 .. Aldermen Lusk, Sir J. C. Lawrence and M'Arthur were re-elected, and Sir S. Waterlow was returned for Maidstone.

Alderman Figgins was defeated at Shrewsbury and Sheriff Sir C. Whetham [Bridge] at Bridport, which he contested for the Conservatives.

Sir R. Carden [Bridge Without] stood unsuccessfully for Barnstaple in February, 1880.

Ex-Alderman White and R. N. Fowler lost their seats at Brighton and Penryn respectively.

[The Recorder (Gurney), was re-elected to represent the Conservatives of Southampton with ex-Sheriff Sir F. Perkins as a Liberal colleague. The Common Serjeant (Sir T. Chambers), who was re-elected for Marylebone, succeeded to the Recordership on Gurney's death, when the former office was conferred on W. T. Charley, Conservative member for Salford. Ex-Sheriff Cave, P. A. Taylor and C. Gilpin were re-elected, the last-named dying the same year. Deputy Reed was again returned for Hackney, but lost the seat on petition. Ex-Sheriff Sir J. Bennett contested Maldon at the General Election, and ex-Sheriff Sir F. Lycett fought two unsuccessful contests at St. Ives, in December, 1874 and March, 1875, and also stood for Worcester in 1878. Commissioner Kerr, Judge of the City of London Court, was defeated at Peterborough as an independent Liberal]

1880-1885 .. Sir J. C. Lawrence, Sir A. Lusk and Alderman McArthur were re-elected, and Sir R. Carden returned to the House after 21 years' absence as M.P. for Barnstaple.

Sir S. Waterlow lost his seat for Maidstone and the Lord Mayor, Sir F. Truscott (Dowgate), contested Gravesend unsuccessfully in the Conservative interest against ex-Sheriff T. Bevan, who, however, lost his seat on petition, when Sir S. Waterlow, who afterwards (September, 1883) resigned his Aldermanry, succeeded him (July, 1880).

In June, 1884, Sir J. W. Ellis [Broad Street] was elected for Mid-Surrey as a Conservative, bringing the number of Aldermen in Parliament to eight, at which number it had stood from 1880 until Sir S. Waterlow's resignation of his Aldermanic position in 1883, being the largest number on record since 1796.

J. E. Saunders, Deputy (afterwards Alderman) of Coleman Street was a Liberal Candidate for Greenwich.

[The Recorder (Sir T. Chambers) and P. A. Taylor were re-elected, the latter retiring from Parliament in 1884. The Common Serjeant (Sir W. Charley), lost his seat at Salford and afterwards (1883), contested Ipswich. Deputy Sir C. Reed was elected for St. Ives and died in 1881. Commissioner Kerr failed at Kilmarnock and ex-Sheriff Shaw at Aberdeen at the General Election, the latter, who was a Conservative, having previously contested that constituency in 1872 and 1874]

1885-1886 .. The election of 1885 was singularly disastrous to the Aldermanic candidates; nine members stood for election and only two were successful, viz.: Sir R. Fowler in the City and Sir J. W. Ellis in the Kingston division of Surrey, both being Conservatives.

The unsuccessful candidates were Sir W. J. R. Cotton in the City, W. Lawrence [Bread Street] in South Paddington, Sir J. C. Lawrence in North Lambeth, Sir W. M'Arthur in West Newington, Sir H. E. Knight [Cripplegate] in West Marylebone, J. Whitehead [Cheap] in North Westmorland and P. Cowan [Cordwainer] in Whitechapel. Of these Sir W. Cotton was a Conservative, standing against two other Conservatives and a Liberal, Aldermen Whitehead and Cowan were the official candidates of the Liberals and Conservatives respectively, and were defeated in straight party fights; the remaining four stood as moderate Liberals against more advanced members of that party as well as Conservatives, the latter being in each case successful.

Ex-Alderman Sir S. Waterlow also was defeated in Mid-Kent.

Two future Aldermen, Deputy Saunders and G. Fandel-Phillips, were unsuccessful Liberal candidates for the Dartford division of Kent and for West Hertfordshire (Watford) respectively.

Ex-Sheriff T. Bevan was defeated at Gravesend, and the Common Serjeant (Sir W. Charley) again at Ipswich. Common Councilman B. Fletcher (Farringdon Within) sat as a Liberal for the Chippenham Division of Wilts. Four other members of the Common Council were amongst the rejected, viz.: Messrs. Alpheus Cleophas Morton (Farringdon Without) at Hythe, E. Dresser Rogers (Aldgate) at Peckham, W. Malthouse (Farringdon Without) at Walworth, and B. S. F. McGeagh (Castle Baynard) in North Aberdeen. Of these the last stood as a Conservative, the rest represented various shades of Liberalism (that of Mr. Morton being the most pronounced), the fissiparous tendencies of that party being to an exceptional degree brought into evidence at this election. Mr. E. M. Nelson, ex-Common Councilman for Dowgate attacked, but without success, in the Conservative interest Speaker Peel's seat at Warwick and Leamington]

1886-1892 .. Sir J. Ellis was re-elected. Two Aldermen were defeated at the General Election, viz.: Alderman Whitehead in North Westmorland and Sir J. C. Lawrence in West Carmarthenshire, and Alderman H. D. Davies [Bishopsgate] was unsuccessful at Rochester in April, 1889. The first of these represented the Gladstonians, the second the Liberal Unionists, and the last-named the Conservatives.

Deputy Saunders again failed to carry the Dartford division against Sir W. Hart Dyke.

[Three Gladstonian ex-Sheriffs were unsuccessful candidates, Mr. E. K. Bayly in North Camberwell, Sir J. Bennett in North Wilts, and Mr. Clarence Smith in West Cambridgeshire, where Sir C. Hall was returned, who became Recorder in February, 1892. The Common Serjeant, Sir W. Charley, was defeated by another Conservative in North Belfast in March, 1892. Of the existing Common Councilmen, Mr. B. Fletcher lost his seat for the Chippenham division; Mr. J. Judd (Farringdon Within) led the Liberal forlorn hope against Sir M. Hicks-Beach in West Bristol, Mr. E. J. Stoneham (Cheap) contested Bethnal Green (North-East) as a Liberal Unionist, and Mr. A. C. Morton was unsuccessful at Chistchurch, but secured a seat for Peterborough in October, 1889. Ex-Common Councilman T. P. Baptie (Broad Street) was the defeated Gladstone candidate at Maidstone]

1892-1895 .. Sir J. Whitehead [Cheap] was elected as a Liberal for Leicester, but retired from Parliament in August, 1894.

The seat for North Westmorland which Sir James had twice contested for the Gladstonians fell to a Conservative ex-Lord Mayor, Sir J. Savory [Langbourn]

Alderman Davies won the seat at Rochester for the Conservatives but was unseated on petition.

[The Recorder, Sir C. Hall, lost his seat for West Cambridgeshire, but came in for Holborn in the following August: his old opponent, ex-Sheriff C. Smith, won a seat for the Liberals in East Hull, and ex-Sheriff Bayly achieved a similar success in North Camberwell. Sheriff Foster was elected as a Conservative for the Lowestoft division of Suffolk, defeating Common Councilman Judd; Mr. A. C. Morton was re-elected at Peterborough, and Mr. W. O. Cloagh, Common Councilman for Cheap, was returned in the Liberal interest for Portsmouth. Another representative of that Ward, Mr. H. H. Bridgman, contested Taunton as a Liberal, Mr. J. H. Lile (Farringdon Without) stood in the same interest for the Truro division of Cornwall, Mr. T. P. Baptie was defeated at Bath, and Mr. B. Fletcher at Christchurch]

1895-1900 .. Sir J. Savory (who in 1898 exchanged the Ward of Langbourn for Bridge Without) was re-elected for North Westmorland, and Alderman Davies came in for Chatham.

Mr. W. M. Guthrie (a future Alderman) was returned by the Conservatives for Bow and Bromley.

[The Recorder, Sir C. Hall, held his seat for Holborn till his death in 1900: in that year Mr. Clough, who had been re-elected for Portsmouth, retired from parliament. Ex-Sheriff Foster was re-elected, but ex-Sheriff Bayly was defeated in North Camberwell, Sir C. Smith in East Hull, and Mr. A. C. Morton lost his seat for Peterborough, the constituency which has the unique distinction of having, in contests between Liberals, rejected successively Sir G. Cornwall Lewis and the future Lord Penzance in favour of the late Mr. G. H. Whalley]

1900-1906 .. Sir H. D. Davies was re-elected for Chatham, and Mr. Guthrie, who continued to represent Bow and Bromley, was elected Alderman of Cornhill on Sir J. C. Dimsdale's retirement in December, 1902.

Sir J. Savory was defeated in North Westmorland by a very youthful Liberal, who has since been converted to Conservatism, and the Lord Mayor, Sir A. J. Newton [Bassishaw], failed to carry West Southwark as a Liberal Unionist.

[Ex-Sheriff Dewar, who in 1897 had been the unsuccessful Conservative candidate for the Walthamstow division of Essex, now secured a seat in the St. George's division of the Tower Hamlets. Sheriff Joseph Lawrence unsuccessfully contested Cardiff at the General Election for the Conservatives (against Sir E. Reed, who, like Mr. Rigg, Sir J. Savory's successful opponent, has since joined the Unionists), but in May, 1901, was returned for the Monmouth boroughs. Sir Clarence Smith was defeated in North Bristol, Mr. A. C. Morton at Bath, and Mr. A. M. Torrance, of the London County Council (an ex-Common Councilman for Bread Street) was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate for East Islington. Mr. J. A. Rentoul (Conservative) member for East Down was appointed one of the Judges of the City of London Court in 1901, and thereupon retired from parliament]

1906 .. .. For the first time since 1328 a House of Commons was elected including not a single Alderman of London among its members. Indeed no Alderman or ex-Alderman was a candidate, Sir H. D. Davies and Mr. Guthrie voluntarily retiring from parliament.

[Ex-Sheriffs Sir T. Dewar and Sir J. Lawrence also retired from parliament. Ex-Sheriff Sir T. H. Brooke-Hitching unsuccessfully contested the Eland Division of the West Riding of Yorkshire for the Conservatives. Mr. A. C. Morton returned to the House as member for Sutherlandshire and Mr. E. H. Lamb (Common Councilman for Candlewick) was elected in the Liberal interest for Rochester. Mr. A. M. Torrance won a seat for the Liberals in Central Glasgow]

The London County Council, the parliamentary aspirations of whose prominent members have always been in evidence, returned thirty—all belonging to the Liberal or Labour parties.

DISCHARGED ALDERMEN IN PARLIAMENT.

I have not included in the notices of Aldermen who served in Parliament some (chiefly in the Commonwealth period), whose connection with the Court of Aldermen was little more than nominal, inasmuch as they were discharged from their Aldermanries, either immediately or within a few weeks of their elections. These are—

THE ALDERMEN AND THE LIVERY COMPANIES.

From early times the Aldermen have usually been members of one or other of the craft guilds represented in the later centuries by the Livery Companies. I use the qualifying adverb "usually," because, in the case of many of the Aldermen in the reigns of Edward I. and Edward II., from which period the continuous succession begins, it is not now possible to associate them individually with any particular guild, and it is probable that the custom was not fully established until the latter of these reigns.

The Charter of Edward II., granted in June, 1319, provided that no "inhabitant" should be admitted to the freedom of the City unless he belonged to some mystery or trade, and the same rule was applied to "strangers," except so far as it might be dispensed with by the assent of "the whole community." Hence, from this date, there are few Aldermen recorded (other than those of Portsoken, where the Aldermanry of the Ward was held ex-officio by the Prior of Holy Trinity, Aldgate, until the dissolution of the monasteries in Henry VIII.'s reign), whose Companies are not either definitely stated in the records of their respective elections or easily obtainable from other official sources.

From the time of Edward II. to the end of the 14th century, the Aldermen, with rare exceptions, belonged to one or other of the following seven great Companies, viz. . Mercers, Grocers, Drapers, Fishmongers, Goldsmiths, Skinners and Vintners.

As showing the relative strength of these Companies in the Court of Aldermen at that time, it is interesting to note that in the course of the 14th century the aggregate number of those whose guilds I have identified was 45 Grocers, 45 Mercers, 40 Fishmongers, 33 Drapers, 23 Goldsmiths, 17 Skinners, 14 Vintners.

Of the other five which now are included in the "twelve greater Companies," the number and composition of which has remained unaltered during the past 360 years, only the Ironmongers are found represented on the Court of Aldermen in the 14th century; three members of this Company, the earliest dating from 1382, were elected during that period, one of whom had been originally a Girdler. Besides these, the names occur of 6 Woolmongers, 4 "Corders" and one from each of the following "mysteries," viz: Armourers, "Bladers," Broderers, Waxchanders and Leathersellers ("mercatores aluta" a description which, according to some authorities, would be more correctly represented by Cordwainers).<sup>1</sup>

The tradition which is generally accepted and appears to have the support of so eminent an authority as Bishop Stubbs that at a particular date in the reign of Richard II. the Grocers had an absolute majority in the Court of Aldermen is altogether erroneous and is due to a misconception of the facts with which I have dealt in Note 'A' at the end of this excursus.

In the early years of the 15th century a solitary Saddler appears in the list, being the only representative of that trade amongst the Aldermen until nearly 250 years later. A Brewer also, if the identification of Robert Horn (Sheriff 1446-47) is correct, served from 1444 to 1456, no other member of that Company being chosen till 1521 when (as will be seen later), he was required to adopt another "mystery" forthwith, and it was not till 1632 that a third Brewer is found amongst the Aldermanic body.

1. The Letter Books appear to distinguish between the mercatores aluta and the alutarii. I have the support of the excellent authority of Dr. Sharpe in regarding this distinction as definite and not accidental, in which case the former designation denotes Leathersellers and the latter Cordwainers. It is, however, not improbable that the permanent organization of the two crafts into distinct Guilds was not finally effected until a later date.

There is no other instance in the 15th century of the election as Alderman of any member of an inferior Company. I use that adjective in no invidious sense, but simply to mark the recognised distinction between the twelve greater Companies and all the others.

Of the eight great Companies of whose representation in the Court of Aldermen in the preceding century, details have been given above, the Mercers in the 15th century took a decided lead, the Drapers holding the second place and the Grocers the third; the Fishmongers had less than a third of their former number, and the Vintners only contributed three members, not a single representative of that Company being elected in the second half of the century.

The total number of Aldermen who were members of these Companies in this century (exclusive of those elected at the end of the preceding one) was 41 Mercers, 33 Drapers, 31 Grocers, 16 Goldsmiths, 13 Fishmongers, 13 Skinners, 7 Ironmongers, 3 Vintners.

Speaking generally, the Companies were fairly evenly distributed amongst the various wards, but certain wards appear to have had an attraction for or towards particular crafts. Thus the Mercers, except for three intervals of a year each during the period of annual elections, enjoyed a monopoly of Bassishaw Ward from 1374 to 1506, 15 members of that Company being elected Aldermen of that ward in 130 years; 7 Mercers in succession held the Aldermanry of Cripplegate between 1402 and 1470; that of Candlewick was occupied by 8 successive Drapers from 1379 to 1444, with the exception of the single year 1380-1381; 9 Grocers were Aldermen of Tower between 1375 and 1464, with the exception of three terms of a year each during the annual election period and an interval from 1407 to 1414, when a Mercer represented the ward; and in Wallbrook except for five brief intervals, amounting to an aggregate of 15 years, the Drapers and the Skinners divided the representation from 1376 to 1532, 11 of the former serving in all for 113 years and 6 of the latter serving 28 years. No Fishmonger was Alderman of Cheap at this period or in fact before 1733, and no Grocer sat for Coleman Street between 1381 and 1584 (or since 1645).

With regard to the four greater Companies unrepresented in the preceding century, we find that eight (or nine)<sup>2</sup> Tailors—the designation of Merchant Taylor was conferred later (in the year 1503), by Henry VII.—were chosen Aldermen between 1435 and 1500; in the period between 1460 and the close of the century, three Haberdashers and as many Salters were admitted. The Clothworkers were not as yet recognised as forming one of the greater Companies, but in the following century (1538), their claim was allowed, when John Tolos of that Guild was accepted as an Alderman, the minute of his admission expressly recording that “the said Company is now one of the 12 head Companies of London,” and that the Master and Wardens had “promised faithfully that they will and shall be at all times ready to do their duties accordingly as they be bound to do for the honour and commonwealth of this City.” (I have modernized the spelling of the minute.)

The established custom that any one chosen to be an Alderman must either be actually a member of one of the greater Companies, or, if not already possessing that qualification, must immediately acquire it, receives illustration from several instances recorded in the civic history of the 16th century. Thus in 1503, John Warner, an Armourer, on election as Alderman was required to join one of the greater Companies forthwith, and he accordingly chose the Grocers. Similarly in 1513, John Thurston, a Broderer, was at once translated to the Goldsmiths.

In 1521, Ralph Dodmer, a Brewer, being elected an Alderman, was commanded to choose one of eight Companies specifically named, viz.:—Mercers, Grocers, Drapers, Fishmongers, Goldsmiths, Skinners, Haberdashers or Ironmongers. Of these he chose the Mercers, though not until some compulsion had been applied to him in the form of committal to the custody of one of the Sheriffs for disobedience, and his choice was sanctioned, although, as we shall see, a “lawful impediment” might have been urged against it. Why, in the foregoing list, the Merchant Taylors, Salters and Vintners were not named does not appear.

2. The number is eight, exclusive of John Derby (Candlewick), who is described in his will (1479) as “late Alderman and Draper” and whom I have therefore included among the Drapers. He appears, however, to be identical with the John Derby who was Master of the Guild of Tailors and Linen Armourers in 1461-2.

In 1523, John Brown, a Painter-Stainer, was translated to the Haberdashers. When directed to make his choice as to the greater Company into which he would seek admission, he had followed Dodmer's example in choosing the Mercers, but he was not permitted to join that Guild on the ground that there were already six members of it on the Court of Aldermen, a limit which an ordinance of Common Council, passed in 1446, forbade to be exceeded. As a matter of fact there were at that time already seven Mercers in the Court, as I have noted at p. 233, where the names are given, and this objection should have been taken in the case of Dodmer eighteen months earlier: that irregularity appears, however, to have been permitted, and the number of Mercers remained in excess of the prescribed limit until the death of Sir J. Yarford in 1527, when his place was taken by a Skinner. .

Other examples of removal from an inferior to a greater Company in the first half of the 16th century are those of Richard Choppyn, a Tallow Chandler, who, on election as Alderman in 1532, straightway obtained admission (by redemption), into the Company of Grocers, and Sir John Ayliffe, who was translated to the same Company from the Barber-Surgeons in 1550, within two months of becoming an Alderman.

In 1551, Thomas Curtes, a Pewterer, was elected an Alderman. He continued for some years to make an obstinate resistance to the order to remove to one of the higher Companies: he was subjected to fine and imprisonment, and it was not until 1556 that his translation (to the Fishmongers) was effected.

Having regard to an incident in later history in connexion with the Clothworkers' Company, which will be noticed in its proper place, it is an interesting fact that Alderman Curtes had at one time proposed to join himself to that Guild. It is recorded in Repertory 13, fo. 316 b, under date September 3, 1555, that the Alderman had declared himself "contented to depart from the fellowship of the Pewterers, whereof he was free, and to be translated and set over to the Company of the Clothworkers, and he agreed to cause the Wardens of the same Company shortly to repair hither and to declare to the Court here whether they be contented to receive him in their Company or not." We find nothing further definitely stated as to the issue of this negotiation, but inasmuch as Mr. Curtes did not join the Clothworkers, and on November 19 following was ordered to "show certainly to this Court" at the next Court day "what Company he will be translated unto and not to delay the Court any further for the declaration and finishing thereof" (Rep. 13, fo. 345), an order which had to be in substance repeated on February 13, 1556 (fo. 370), it is a natural inference that the Clothworkers were not "contented to receive him in their Company," and it will be seen that a similar reluctance on the part of the same Company, nearly two centuries later, to accept a member of another Guild into its fellowship was followed by important results of a permanent character.

From this time the rule of requiring every Alderman to become a member of one of the greater Companies appears to have been silently relaxed, although it was still applied to the Lord Mayor. Thus, William Aleyn, a Leatherseller, elected an Alderman in 1559, did not attach himself to a greater Company until 1564, when he was admitted to the Mercers by patrimony. Richard Pype, another Leatherseller, joined the Drapers before serving as Lord Mayor, but Hugh Offley of the same Company, who served the office of Sheriff in 1589-90, being elected an Alderman during his Shrievalty, appears to have continued in the fellowship of the Leathersellers till his death in 1594, he not having reached the Mayoral Chair, while Stephen Scame, a Girdler, who had been an Alderman since 1589, was translated to the Grocers a few days after his election to the Mayoralty in 1598.

The number of Aldermen belonging to the greater Companies who were elected in the 16th century was 42 Mercers, 40 Grocers, 23 Drapers, 27 Haberdashers, 25 Merchant Taylors, 16 Clothworkers, 15 Goldsmiths, 14 Skinners, 14 Ironmongers, 12 Salters, 11 Fishmongers and 5 Vintners. Of the last named all except one became Aldermen after 1580.

As a natural consequence of the relaxation of the rule requiring all Aldermen to be Members of one or other of the twelve greater Companies, the minor Companies began to be represented more frequently in the elections to vacancies in the Court of Aldermen. In the first half of the 17th century there were elected from the inferior Companies, 11 Leathersellers, 5 Dyers, 4 Girdlers, 3 each from the Stationers, Scriveners, Barber-Surgeons and Brewers, 2 Weavers, 2 Woodmongers and one from each of the following guilds, viz.: Apothecaries, Coopers, Innholders, Pewterers, Plumbers, Upholders, a total of 42. In the latter half of the century this number was greatly increased, and the following Companies, in addition to most of those already named are found sending representatives to the Aldermanic body, viz.: Bakers, Broderers, Cordwainers, Cutlers, Painter-Stainers, Saddlers, Shipwrights, Tallow Chandlers.

The following are the instances which occur during the 17th century of the translation of Aldermen from an inferior Company to one of the twelve in anticipation of the Mayoralty:

1621	..	E. Barkham, from the Leathersellers to the Drapers.
1622	..	P. Probie, from the Barber-Surgeons to the Grocers.
1626	..	C. Hackett, from the Dyers to the Drapers.
1636	..	E. Bromfield, from the Leathersellers to the Fishmongers.
1661	..	Sir J. Frederick, from the Barber-Surgeons to the Grocers.
1669	..	Sir S. Starling, from the Brewers to the Drapers.
1675	..	Sir J. Sheldon, from the Tallow Chandlers to the Drapers.
1676	..	Sir T. Davies, from the Stationers to the Drapers.
1679	..	Sir R. Clayton, from the Scriveners to the Drapers.
1692	..	Sir J. Fleet, from the Coopers to the Grocers.

In addition to these, Sir R. Browne (Lord Mayor, 1660-1661), who had been a Woodmonger and Sir H. Edwin (Lord Mayor 1697-1698), who had been a Barber-Surgeon at the dates of their respective elections as Aldermen had joined the Merchant Taylors and Skinners respectively some years before attaining to the seat of the Chief Magistrate.

It will be seen from the foregoing list that in the short period between 1669 and 1679, the Lord Mayoralty was held by four Aldermen who had been translated from inferior Companies to that of the Drapers.

In one instance only before the fourth decade of the 17th century did a Lord Mayor-elect (or about to be elected), who was not already enrolled in one of the great Companies, fail to translate himself. This was Thomas Andrewes, a Member of the Leathersellers' Company, who was appointed to succeed Abraham Reynardson, the Royalist Lord Mayor, on the latter's deposition in April, 1649, and having served till the following October, was, after a year's interval, again chosen for the year 1650-1651. I know of no explanation of the non-observance of the rule in his case, and can only suggest that it was one of the many irregularities of the troubled period of the Commonwealth.

With this single exception the rule was observed until 1742, further instances of its operation being found in the cases of—

- Sir J. Parsons (1703), translated from the Brewers to the Fishmongers.
- Sir J. Fryer (1720), translated from the Pewterers to the Fishmongers.
- J. Barber (1732), translated from the Stationers to the Goldsmiths.
- Sir J. Barnard (1737), translated from the Glovers to the Grocers.
- D. Lambert (1741), translated from the Coopers to the Vintners.

Four other Lord Mayors of the period, viz.: Sir J. Bateman (1716), Sir W. Stewart (1721), Sir G. Mertinns (1724), H. Parsons (1725), had been subsequently to their election as Aldermen, but at a longer interval before elevation to the Mayoral dignity, translated from the Loriners, the Barber-Surgeons, the Clockmakers and the Wax-chandlers to the Fishmongers, the Goldsmiths, the Skinners and the Grocers respectively.

In 1742, Alderman R. Willimott, a Cooper, who had been elected Lord Mayor for the ensuing year and had professed his readiness to accept translation to one of the twelve higher Companies, finally decided not to leave his parent Company. The circumstances under which he determined to refrain from adopting the usual course are set forth fully in the subjoined extract from The Annals of Europe for 1742, pp. 301, 302.

"Robert Willimott, Esq., having at the usual time been chosen Lord Mayor for the ensuing year, his election caused a doubt to be cleared up, which had for many years remained undecided; for till then a notion had prevailed that the Lord Mayor must be free of one of the twelve great Companies, and every Lord Mayor, before his turn for being chosen came on, had taken care at a great expense, to get himself made free of one of these Companies, if he was not so before. Mr. Willimott being of the Coopers' Company, which is not one of the twelve, had endeavoured to comply with this custom, by getting himself translated to the Clothworkers' Company, which is one of the twelve; but many of that Company objected against his being admitted, so that the question was carried in his favour, but by a small majority, and the Company absolutely refused to let him have the use of their Hall for holding his Mayoralty. This ill-treatment made him be at the trouble and expense of inquiring into the foundation of the custom, and having consulted some of the most eminent Counsel upon the question, they were all of opinion that to be President of the Irish Committee it was necessary that the candidate should be free of one of the twelve Companies, but to be chosen Lord Mayor, it was not necessary to be free of one of the twelve, and that therefore his not being so could only prevent his being chosen President of the Irish Committee, whereupon he resolved to give no further trouble either to the Clothworkers' Company, or any other of the twelve, and so put an end to a custom which had been observed for many years to the great emolument of these Companies."

[Whatever may have been the case formerly, it is not now necessary for the President of the Irish Committee, i.e. the Governor of the Irish Society to belong to one of the twelve great Companies; neither the present Governor, nor his immediate predecessor possesses that qualification. Mr. Durie Miller, the present Secretary to the Irish Society, informs me that he was unaware of any such restriction having ever existed, and I know of no authority except that quoted above.]

Mr. Willimott's successors naturally followed his example, the only Lord Mayor-elect after his year who adhered to the old custom being F. Cokayne, who on his election to the Chief Magistracy in 1750, was translated from the Farriers to the Vintners. During the remainder of the century a few cases occurred of Lord Mayors who had left their original Companies and become members of one of the twelve; these were Sir S. Fludyer (1761), B. Crosby (1770) and S. Plumbe (1778), of whom the first-named had exchanged the Tylers and Bricklayers' Company for the Clothworkers, and the others had been translated to the Goldsmiths from the Musicians and the Gold and Silver Wyre Drawers respectively, but in each case the translation had been effected some years before the elevation to the Mayoralty. Early in the following century (1803) Sir W. Leighton during his year of office as Sheriff was translated from the Wheelwrights to the Fishmongers, and on the same day Alderman J. J. Smith exchanged the Pattenmakers for the Ironmongers; each of these served as Lord Mayor several years later.

A few instances occur in the 18th century of the translation of Aldermen to one of the twelve Companies who were not destined to attain to the Mayoral dignity, as Sir John Cass, from the Carpenters to the Skinners in 1713, Sir R. Hopkins from the Cutlers to the Fishmongers in 1730, Sir G. Champion<sup>1</sup> from the Coopers to the Haberdashers in 1739, and J. Shakespeare from the Armourers to the Fishmongers in 1768.

The list of Lord Mayors between the date of Willimott's Mayoralty and the close of the century included the following representatives of the inferior Companies, viz.: four Stationers, three Joiners, two Brewers, two Glovers, and one representative each of the Bowyers, Carpenters, Coopers, Cutlers, Fletchers, Framework-knitters, Musicians, Tylers and Bricklayers, Wheelwrights, a total of 20 in 58 years.

Towards the end of the 18th century two cases are found of Aldermen who were members of two Companies simultaneously, retaining their connexion with the parent Company after gaining admission by patrimony to one of the twelve. H. C. Combe, who was elected an Alderman in 1790, was at this time both a Brewer and a Fishmonger, and he occupied the Chair in each of these Companies at a later period after serving the office of Lord Mayor. In the minutes of his elections, both to the Aldermanry and to the Mayoralty, he is described as a Brewer, although already a member of one of the higher Companies. Similarly Stephen Langston, elected Alderman in 1793, is described as a Joiner in the minutes of his election, although he had some years before obtained admission to the Haberdashers' Company, of which he was Master in that year. I know of no other similar case until the 19th century, when the practice of accepting simultaneous membership of several Companies gradually became by no means uncommon, and the rule rather than the exception amongst those who were afterwards Aldermen. Thus at the present time, Sir G. Truscott, whose parent Company is that of the Stationers, is also connected with two of the greater Companies, being both a Haberdasher and a Vintner; his father, the late Sir F. W. Truscott, was a member of the same three Companies. Sir J. Savory is associated with five Companies, being a Goldsmith, Clockmaker, Gardener, Poulter, and Shipwright, and Sir A. J. Newton exceeds that number, being a Loriner, Girdler, Fanmaker, Framework-knitter, Turner, and Gold and Silver Wyre Drawer.

1. Sir G. Champion was next in seniority for the Lord Mayoralty but was rejected by the Liveries in 1739 owing to his parliamentary support of Sir R. Walpole's ministry, which was then unpopular in the City, although its adherents in the Court of Aldermen were in a majority.

Many of the smaller Companies have been strongly represented in the Court of Aldermen since the middle of last century. This is especially the case with the Loriners and the Spectacle Makers. With the exception of Sir J. Bateman, who was elected an Alderman in 1708, and in the following year translated to the Fishmongers, the first Loriner to enter the Court of Aldermen was Sir J. Duke, in 1840. Since that date there have been in all 17 Aldermanic Members of that Company, of whom 12 have already served as Lord Mayor.

The first Spectacle Maker who became an Alderman was James Harmer in 1833, who has had as many as 20 successors, of whom 18 have been Lord Mayors.

15 Companies made their first appearance in the Aldermanic ranks in the 19th century, viz.: the Fanmakers, the Fruiterers, the Butchers, the Turners, the Blacksmiths, the Coachmakers, the Gardeners, the Needlemakers, the Pattenmakers, the Plaisterers, the Poulters, the Masons, the Playing-card Makers, the Cooks, the Glass-sellers and the Glaziers; the five last named with only one representative in each case, the seven immediately preceding with two each. The previous century had also (besides the Loriners already mentioned) introduced to the Court of Aldermen 15 Companies hitherto unrepresented there, viz.: the Bowyers, the Carpenters, the Clockmakers, the Curriers, the Distillers, the Farriers, the Feltmakers, the Fletchers, the Framework Knitters, the Glovers, the Gold and Silver Wyre Drawers, the Joiners, the Musicians, the Tylers and Bricklayers and the Wheelwrights. Of these the Joiners and the Farriers have had no representative since the close of that century, and the Musicians and the Tylers and Bricklayers ceased to be represented before the end of the first decade of the 19th. A Gunmaker, who was elected in 1710 (the only member of that guild who has ever been chosen Alderman) declined to serve.

As the inferior Companies have contributed an increasing number of members to the Aldermanic bench, the twelve greater Companies have been much more sparsely represented there. In the 18th century only eight Mercers were elected Aldermen, of whom six dated from before 1730 and but one (N. Newnham), survived till the 19th dying in 1809, since which date the premier Company has been conspicuous by its non-representation in the Court of Aldermen: Sir J. C. Dimsdale, elected Alderman in 1891, was the first Grocer chosen since 1799; almost simultaneously with his retirement, Mr. Simmons, of the same Company, was admitted into the Aldermanic ranks.

Aldermen Thorp and C. Smith, both of whom died in 1835, were the last representatives up to the present time of the Drapers.

Two Skinners occupied seats in the Court during the 19th century, their aggregate periods of service amounting to less than ten years. No member of that Company was an Alderman between 1809 and 1867, nor has any Skinner served in that capacity since 1871.

The Ironmongers also contributed two Members to the Court of Aldermen during the 19th century, who served for 28 years (1803-1831), and 33 years (1821-1854) respectively; a third, elected before the century began, retained his seat till 1818. Since Alderman Thompson's death in 1854, the Ironmongers have been unrepresented.

The remaining seven of the twelve greater Companies have maintained a more continuous connection with the Court of Aldermen than the other five; two of them, however, the Salters and the Clothworkers, have been unrepresented since 1891.

At the present time, 1906, the 26 Aldermen include three Merchant Taylors, three Haberdashers (one of whom is also a Vintner), two Goldsmiths, one Grocer, and one Fishmonger. The minor Companies are represented as follows: Loriners 7, Spectacle Makers 5, Gold and Silver Wyre Drawers 4, Fanmakers 4, Shipwrights 3, Fruiterers 3, Gardeners 2, Broderers 2, Coachmakers 2, Stationers 2, Plumbers 2, Turners 2, Framework Knitters 2, Bakers 2, Cutlers, Poulters, Clockmakers, Barbers, Girdlers, Leathersellers, Glovers, Innholders, Cordwainers and Glass-sellers one each.

Two of the greater Companies are associated with the profession of particular political opinions; the Merchant Taylors are a strongly Conservative body, while the Fishmongers have a traditional connection with the Whig or Liberal party and still, more or less distant intervals, continue to offer their hospitality to its official chiefs, although the effect of the great schism on the Irish question has been to introduce a powerful Unionist element into the Company.

The Goldsmiths also are credited with Conservative predilections, though of a less pronounced character than those of the Merchant Taylors. The latter Company numbered in its ranks in the early part of the 19th century two Aldermen (Atkins and Heygate), who entered public life as Whigs, but both, perhaps under the influence of the Company's associations, renounced their early opinions and adopted Conservative politics. At an earlier period, that of the Revolution of 1688, two of the most active City Whigs, (Sir P. Ward and Sir W. Ashhurst), were Merchant Taylors, the Tories being represented, amongst others, by Sir W. Turner, Sir W. Prichard and Sir R. Bedingfeld, and at a still remoter date (that of the Civil War), the Royalists, Sir W. Acton and Sir A. Reynardson were balanced by the Roundheads, S. Avery and W. Bigg.

The Fishmongers, too, have not been altogether of one type of political opinion. In the Civil War period, the Royalist Sir J. Gayre could pair off with the regicide Isaac Penington and in the days of Queen Anne, the Tory Aldermen, Sir W. Withers and Sir J. Parsons with the Whigs, Sir T. Abney and Sir J. Fryer; while in the 19th century, though the Aldermanic Fishmongers most prominent in the political world were the well-known Liberals, H. C. Combe and Sir M. Wood, the Company also included on its roll of members so active a Tory as Anthony Brown (afterwards Chamberlain), and also W. Cubitt, who championed the Conservative cause at the City contest for Lord John Russell's vacated seat in 1861.

Two of the most democratic Aldermen in the civic history of the last two centuries, J. Sawbridge and R. Waithman, were members of the same Company, that of the Framework Knitters, but this is merely a coincidence and does not imply any political bias on the part of that Company.

In the following pages will be found a list of the Aldermen of the various Companies arranged in chronological order. No such list has ever been published before; everything of that kind that has been printed has been restricted to Lord Mayors and Sheriffs.

The dates in brackets denote the periods in which the persons named respectively held the office of Alderman; in most cases these periods are continuous between the limits indicated, but in some instances, especially as regards those who served during the years of annual elections (1377-1393), such service was interrupted and the earliest and latest dates of it are given. Very few of those elected since the accession of Edward III. are omitted (the Companies of these not having been ascertained), except for the period of the suspension of the Charter (1683-1688), when several persons were nominated by the King's Commission who were certainly not at the time members of any Company, though some (as Sir J. Parsons, Sir J. Herne and Sir B. Firebrace), subsequently became such, while others, who probably were connected with some one or other of the Guilds are not recorded as belonging to them, and I am consequently unable to assign them.

The names of Mayors and Lord Mayors are printed in small capitals; those who served as Sheriffs without attaining to the Mayoral dignity are in the ordinary type, whilst others who did not serve either as Mayor or Sheriff are represented in smaller type. Of present Aldermen (1906), those who have held the Shrievalty but have not yet been elected to the Mayoralty are distinguished by a * prefixed to their names, whilst the names of those who have not served as Sheriff are in italics.

1. Alexander Holt, elected Alderman of Bridge Ward, August 27, 1651, is described as "Leatherseller" in the minute of his election (Rep. 61, fo. 197 b) and as "Goldsmith" in that of his discharge three days later (Rep. 61, fo. 206). Alexander Holt, "Goldsmith," was elected Alderman of Vintry Ward, May 30, 1665 (Rep. 70, fo. 122 b), but the same person, when elected Sheriff, August 17, 1666 (Journal 46, fo. 100 b) is described as "Leatherseller." A person of this name was Master of the Leathersellers' Company, 1652-53, and was doubtless identical with the Alderman of Bridge: whether the Alderman of Vintry was the same man is not clear, but if they were distinct, it is strange that both should be named as belonging to two different Companies.

NOTE.—I have omitted, deliberately, and with full conviction of my correctness in doing so, the name of John de Prestone (Alderman, 1321-1339, Mayor, 1332-1333), from the list of Aldermen who belonged to the Girdlers' Company, although I am aware that he has the designation "Girdler" appended to his name in the MS. List of Mayors at the end of Letter Book F (Calendar p. 284), and that the Girdlers' Company claim him as a member of their Guild. Dr. Sharpe has pointed out in a footnote on the preceding page (283) of his Calendar that "the name of the mystery to which the Mayor or Sheriffs for the time being belonged is now frequently added by a later hand" (the Italics are mine). This addition cannot therefore be taken as contemporary and authoritative. The evidence against its accuracy is as follows: There were two John de Prestones, one a Corder and the other a Girdler, contemporary with each other. The future Mayor, when elected Alderman, is described as a Corder (Letter Book E, fo. 124). The wills of both were enrolled in the Court of Husting in the course of the same year (1339), that of the Corder being dated, October 27, 1339, whereas that of the former had been enrolled in the preceding January. [Calendar of Husting Wills, vol. i., pp. 431, 435]. A comparison of the wills would naturally suggest that the Corder was the more important and substantial man of the two. But there is much stronger evidence than any such inference. The Girdler names his wife, Matilda, and his son, Thomas; the Corder names his late wife, Johanna, and his son, John, to whom, he being then under age, he appoints John de Oxenford, Vintner (who was Mayor, 1341-1342), to be guardian. Now, in December, 1346, "John, son of John de Prestone, late Mayor of the City" appeared before the Mayor and Aldermen to claim delivery of the goods left him by his father, he being now of full age. (Letter Book F, fo. 132, Calendar pp. 157, 158). This clearly establishes the identity of the Mayor with the Corder.

At p. 136 of this work I have described John de Preston as "Corder (afterwards Draper)." In these lists I have not included his name among those of Draper-Aldermen, being not fully satisfied as to the weight to be attached to my authority. That authority is a list of Mayors and Sheriffs arranged under their respective Companies (Guildhall MS. No. 482), compiled early in the 17th century by William Smith, Rouge Dragon Pursuivant-at-Arms. I have been unable to find any other evidence except that of Herbert (History of the Twelve Great Livery Companies, vol. i., p. 435), whose authority is not by itself convincing, of his belonging to the Drapers' Company, and his designation as "Corder" in his will suggests the contrary.

NOTE A.

The Companies and the Aldermen, temp. Richard II.

A tradition has grown up, and is now generally accepted, resting mainly on an assertion of Herbert (History of the Twelve Great Livery Companies, vol. i., p. 307), which itself is due to an unfortunate, but not altogether inexcusable, misunderstanding of an entry in the records of the Grocers' Company, that at a certain date (which Herbert correctly transcribes as 1383), that Company numbered no less than 16 Aldermen, which number of course would constitute an overwhelming majority of the whole Aldermanic body, then comprising 24 members in all. This legend has, or appears to have, the support of the high authority of Bishop Stubbs, who writes (Constitutional History of England, vol. iii., p. 575) that the Grocers numbered at that time—he dates 1386, which is not correct—"no less than 16 Aldermen in their Company," which implies, if it does not actually assert, that they were then acting Aldermen of Wards, and is obviously so understood by the writer. Mr. J. H. Round also, whose own careful accuracy is hardly less marked than his keen eye for inaccuracy in others, in his article on Sir N. Brembre in the Dictionary of National Biography (in the course of which he points out that Stubbs' date is wrong), states that at the Mayoral election of 1383, that worthy was "one of the 16 Aldermen belonging to the great Grocers' Company." (It happens that at the time of the Mayoral election of 1383, Brembre was not an Alderman at all, but that is a detail.) Mr. G. M. Trevelyan also in his excellent work on England in the Age of Wycliffe, which contains an admirable resumé of the political history of the civic factions of the period, states (p. 278), that "one year sixteen of the twenty-five Aldermen were Grocers," giving in a footnote as his authority Dr. Cunningham's Growth of English Industry and Commerce, Early and Middle Ages, p. 341, where that author writes (of the Grocers): "During the first forty years of their existence they attained to overweening proportions . . . they had immense influence in the government of the City. No fewer than sixteen of their body were Aldermen." Mr. Wheatley, also in his Story of London, writes at page 236 "at one time sixteen of the Aldermen belonged to the Grocers' Company," and at page 304 "in one year sixteen of the twenty-five Aldermen were Grocers." (At the period indicated, the number of Aldermen was not twenty-five but twenty-four.) It is curious to note that the original list in the Grocers' records contains (not sixteen but) seventeen names described as those of Aldermen; Herbert accidentally omits one of them, and everyone who has written on the subject, Bishop Stubbs and Mr. Round included, with the single exception of Mr. Kingdon, has blindly followed Herbert.

The mistake as to the Grocers' majority in the Court of Aldermen arises from the use, which is by no means uncommon, of the word "Alderman" to denote, in addition to existing holders of the office, persons who had already held but had, temporarily or permanently, ceased to hold it. Such persons were accorded the designation "Alderman" in common parlance after ceasing to be technically entitled to it. This is a fruitful source of error, though the practice of assigning titles no longer strictly and legally applicable to those so designated is quite established and customary. (Thus, the great Englishman who explored the deserts of Australia and by his vigour saved the colony of Jamaica from massacre was always known as Governor Eyre to the end of his life, and I can well remember a local magnate in my native city of Bristol, whom I never heard mentioned otherwise than with the prefix Alderman, though he had ceased to hold that office more than eleven years before I was born.) If Mr. T. F. Henderson, the writer of the article on Edward Backwell in the Dictionary of National Biography, had grasped this not very recondite fact, he might have spared himself and students who refer to his article his wholly gratuitous speculations on the possible cause of a vacancy in the Aldermanry of Bishopsgate in 1681, which Backwell had not held for more than 20 years before that date, and which was in fact due to the death of the fifteenth person who had been elected to it since Backwell vacated it, and who had himself held it for fifteen years.

The original source of the error as to the number of Grocer-Aldermen is to be found, as I have indicated above, in the records of that Company. These have been transcribed and printed in facsimile for the years 1345-1463 by the late Mr. J. A. Kingdon, sometime Master of the Grocers' Company. In this transcript will be found under date 1383 a list of Members of the Company for that year which is headed by a batch of 17 names, bracketed and distinguished by the designation "Aldermen," this word being in different handwriting and probably added at a later period. Herbert reproduces, with more or less (generally less) accuracy, 16 of these names, two of which are adorned with the prefix "Sir," which does not appear in the original, and to which, neither at that date, nor at any period of their lives, had either of them any claim.

Ceux sont les nouns des Grocers Vestuez en la Lyuere a Noel lan vije Richard Seconde, Johan Haddeley et Johan Chircheman mestres esluz pur le dit an.

Mr. Kingdon appends the following translation :

These are the names of the Grocers clothed in the Livery at Christmas the 7th year of Richard the Second John Haddeley and John Chircheman masters elected for the said year.

Then follow the names as under :

	Monsieur Nichol Brembre Chevalier.
	Johan Haddeley.
	Johan Warde.
	William Baret.
	Adam Carlille.
	Adam Chaungeour.
	William Venour.
	Johan Hoo.
*Aldermen	Hugh Fastolf.
	Geffrey Cremylford.
	William Badby.
	William Staundon.
	Richard Aylesbery.
	Johan Furneux.
	William Eynesham.
	Richard Preston.
	Johan Chircheman.

*Mr. Kingdon appends the following note : "These names are bracketed together and the word 'Aldermen' written in the margin by the same hand seemingly that wrote the memoranda on pages 42, 44 and 399 of the MS. vol." We have therefore the evidence of Mr. Kingdon himself that this handwriting is apparently identical with writing on p. 399 (A.D. 1458). It cannot, therefore, be of earlier date than 1458, and it is possibly of still later date. Hence it will be seen that it cannot be taken as contemporary authority. Mr. Kingdon, however, in his introduction, takes it for granted that the seventeen persons named were all Aldermen contemporaneously; he writes : "Brembre, with seventeen Grocers for Aldermen, governed the City as its Mayor in 1383" adding with regard to Chircheman that he "was Sheriff and himself one of the fourteen Grocer-Aldermen during Brembre's Mayoralty in 1385."

Herbert reproduces the list in the following form, and it is his version which Bishop Stubbs, Dr. Cunningham, Mr. Round, Mr. Trevelyan and others have followed.

Aldermen in 1383.

Sir Nicholas Brembre	John Hoo	Richard Aylesbury
Sir John Haddeley	Hugh Falstolfe	John Fernoux
John Warde	Geffrey Cremylford	William Evesham
William Barrett	William Badby	Richard Prestor
Adam Caryl	Sir William Standon	John Churchman
Adam Chaungeor

It will be seen that Herbert, for no apparent reason and probably by pure accident, omits the name of W. Venour and hence gives the total as sixteen. (The knightships here attributed by implication to Haddeley and Staundon are fictions of the imagination. In no single entry in the various original records at Guildhall, nor in their respective wills proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury is either of them described as knight.)

Now at the date which the list of seventeen (Herbert's sixteen) represents (Christmas 1383), the actual number of Grocers who were members of the Court of Aldermen was eight, including the Mayor, who was not an Alderman of a Ward, but of course presided in the Court in virtue of his office. These were W. Baret (Cornhill), W. Venour (Castle Baynard), G. Cremylford (Langbourn), W. Staundon (Aldgate), R. Aylesbery (Dowgate), J. Furneux (Bread Street), J. Chircheman (Bridge), and the Mayor, Sir N. Brembre, who had been Alderman of Bread Street Ward from 1372 to 1377<sup>1</sup> and also 1378-1379, 1380-1381, 1382-1383 and was again elected in March, 1384.

[I have adopted the spelling of the Grocers' records, differing in some cases from that of the Letter Books at Guildhall, which I have generally followed in the body of this work]

Mr. Kingdon's assertion that there were "fourteen Grocer-Aldermen during Brembre's Mayoralty in 1385" (Introduction p. xx.), is equally incorrect. He finds a similar list (at the date which he means but here incorrectly states), bracketed as Aldermen, the names being (with some orthographical variations), those of Brembre, Haddeley, Carlille, Chaungeour, Venour, Hoo, Fastolf, Cremylford, Badby, Staundon, Furneux, Eynesham, Preston and Chircheman. Of the seventeen named in 1383, three, Warde, Aylesbery and Baret, are omitted. The two former were probably dead, as I know of no later reference to them, but Baret came back to the Court of Aldermen in 1390 and survived till 1411. Mr. Kingdon has made a very strange mistake here, though he has corrected it by anticipation on the preceding page (xix.), of his Introduction where he writes: "in 1386 there were fourteen." The date was not 1385 but 1386 ("Christmas the 10th year of King Richard" as Mr. Kingdon himself quite correctly translates the heading). At that time (Christmas 1386), the actual number of Grocer-Aldermen was eight, viz; Brembre, Haddeley, Chaungeour, Venour, Fastolf, Staundon, Preston and Chircheman.

The persons other than the above, who are named in these lists of 17 and 14 respectively, had held the office of Alderman in earlier years, but at the dates indicated had no claim beyond that of custom and courtesy to be so described.

The following table shows the number of representatives of the various Companies returned each year during the period of annual elections (1377-1394). The number of wards at that time was 24, one of which (Portsoken), did not take part in these elections and was not represented by a member of one of the Companies, its Alderman ex officio being the Prior of Holy Trinity; hence the number of elective Aldermen was 23. As the period includes that of the struggle for civic supremacy between the victualling guilds represented by the Fishmongers and Grocers and Vintners on one side and the non-victualling guilds represented by the Drapers, Mercers and Goldsmiths on the other, (the former under the leadership of Brembre and Philipot and the latter under that of Northampton and Twyford), this list may not be without interest to the historical student.

	Mercers.	Grocers.	Drapers.	Fishmongers.	Goldsmiths.	Skinner.	Ironmongers.	Vintners.	Woodmongers.	Waxchandlers.	Armourers.	Broders.	Company not known.	Election not recorded.

(The increased total of 24, exclusive of Portsoken, in 1394, is due to the division, which then took effect, of Farringdon into two Wards.)

1. Mr. J. H. Round's usual accuracy forsakes him when he writes (Dict. Nat. Biog., vol. vi., p. 255), that Brembre "first appears as an Alderman in 1376." His first election on September 21, 1372 is duly recorded in Letter Book G (fol. 293b). [Some mischievous sprite seems to have guided the pens of the most accurate writers, even Bishop Creighton and Mr. Round, when they contributed to the D.N.B.]

To these should be added the following Mayors, who at the dates indicated were not Aldermen of Wards, but ex officio presided in the Court:—

March, 1377 to March, 1378	.. ..	N. Brembre, Grocer .
March to October, 1379	.. ..	J. Philipot, Grocer .
October, 1379 to March, 1380	.. ..	J. Hadle, Grocer .
March to October, 1381	.. ..	W. Walworth, Fishmonger .
October, 1381 to March, 1382	} .. ..	J. de Northampton, Draper .
March to October, 1383	} .. ..
October, 1383 to March, 1384	.. ..	Sir N. Brembre, Grocer .
March to October, 1392	.. ..	J. Heende, Draper .
October, 1393 to March, 1394	.. ..	J. Hadle, Grocer .

The strength of the respective Companies in the Court of Aldermen was modified in the course of certain Aldermanic years by the following changes at bye-elections to fill vacancies from death or other causes:

1382-1383	An Ironmonger succeeded a Fishmonger.
1384-1385	A Skinner succeeded a Grocer.
1385-1386	A Vintner succeeded a Grocer.
1387-1388	Two Goldsmiths and a Woolmonger succeeded a Mercer, a Draper and a Grocer.
1389-1390	A person whose Company does not appear succeeded a Skinner.
1391-1392	A Grocer succeeded a Woolmonger.

[The substance of the foregoing note has already appeared in the issue of the English Historical Review, for July, 1907. I have now corrected the numbers assigned in that article to the Mercers and Drapers respectively for the years 1378, 1380, 1382, 1384, 1386, 1387, in which John Estone was one of the Aldermen. He appears to have been a Mercer [Letter Book H, fo. 45b], whereas I had erroneously reckoned him as a Draper, confounding him with a later personage of the same name, probably his son. The error is only incidental, and not material to the subject of the article, which deals mainly with the Grocer-Aldermen of the period under review]

PART II.

CHRONOLOGICAL LIST OF ALDERMEN.

The following pages contain the names of the Aldermen of the City of London from the reign of Henry III., arranged in chronological order according to their dates of election, so far as these are ascertainable, such particulars being appended in each case as I have been able to collect with regard to the civic and other public offices held by them from time to time, as well as the dates of death, precise or approximate, where it has been possible to procure them. In the present volume the succession is carried as far as the end of the 14th Century (1400).

In the first part of this work the succession of Aldermen in each Ward from the early years of Edward I. has been set out. This it has been found possible to ascertain with only a few lacunæ from the official records (Letter Books, Journals and Repertories) preserved at Guildhall. Where, as is most frequently the case in the names occurring in the first hundred years which these records cover, and also in a considerable portion of the fifteenth century, the actual date of election has not been preserved, it is possible to infer the order of succession in each Ward and to determine the approximate date, with a degree of exactitude almost tantamount to certainty, by noting the recorded attendances of individual Aldermen and by reference to the deeds enrolled in the Court of Husting, many of which are attested by the Alderman for the time being of the Ward in which the property was situated to which the particular deed refers.

At pages 235-237 I had added a few notes as to Aldermen of an earlier period than that covered by the Guildhall records to which I have referred, these being mainly derived from the not very accurate transcript of the Liber Trinitatis now in the Guildhall Library.<sup>1</sup> These may however be considered as superseded by the fuller information furnished in this portion of the work.

Since those memoranda were printed I have been enabled (as the result of a very careful study of the references to London Aldermen in the Catalogue of Ancient Deeds preserved at the Record Office and in the Calendar of Documents at St. Paul's Cathedral given in the Appendix to the 9th Report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission, supplemented by personal inspection of some hundreds of these deeds and documents,) to collect evidence as to the names of a considerable number of Aldermen of the 12th and 13th centuries previous to the date at which the Letter Books and Husting Deeds begin to supply them; to many of these it is possible to assign their particular Wards with either absolute certainty or a high degree of probability.

The most ancient list of the Wards now extant, so far as has been ascertained, is to be found in pages 47-50 of Liber L, one of the MSS. in the Library of St. Paul's Cathedral; this has been printed in facsimile in Price's Descriptive Account of the Guildhall. The date is very early in the 12th century, probably about 1115. In this document the number of Wards recorded is twenty in all, one being described as the Bishop's Ward, three bearing local names, and the remaining sixteen being distinguished

1. I find that on page 235 I reproduced, in my ignorance, two errors of the transcriber who wrote 'Cabur' for Tabur and 'Capell' for Castell. I have erred in good company, as the late Sir Walter Besant has (Medieval London, vol. ii., Appendix 3) made exactly the same mistake, through blindly trusting to an inaccurate authority.

as the Wards of individual citizens, who, although not expressly so styled, may, without doubt, be regarded as Aldermen. That that designation was already in use in connexion with the Wards at that period is evidenced by the fact that, a deed dated 14 Kal. Aug. [i.e. July 19] 1111, is witnessed by 'Turstenus' or 'Tursten,' 'Aldermannus de la Warde.' The Ward in question was probably Castle Baynard, the property to which the deed refers being situate close to the Church of 'St. Benedict Super Tamisiam,' (afterwards known as St. Benet, Paul's Wharf,) which parish at a later period was certainly comprised in this Ward. I believe that Tursten has been claimed as Alderman for Queenhithe Ward, but the identification of his Ward with Castle Baynard has the support of the Rev. W. J. Loftie [London (Historic Towns Series), page 78] on grounds which appear to me to be decisive.

The word 'Alderman' was in use before the Conquest, but I do not know of any earlier instance in definite connexion with a City Ward, and Mr. Loftie is doubtless right in saying that 'Tursten is the first Alderman of a Ward in London of whom so far any mention has been found.'

In the list referred to above (Liber L, St. Paul's MSS.) the Wards are arranged in the following order which I have numbered for convenience of reference.

- |                              |                                |

Mr. Loftie in a private communication to Dr. Sharpe (Records Clerk at Guildhall) dated May 16th, 1901, which has not been printed, has suggested identifications of most of these Wards, which he has deduced from a careful consideration of such evidence as the descriptions of the properties named under each Ward affords.

"Warda Fori" and "Warda Alegate" are obviously Cheap and Aldgate respectively. The name "Brocesgange" no doubt refers to the course of the Walbrook, and the Ward so designated can hardly be other than either Walbrook or Dowgate. In his 1901 letter Mr. Loftie leaves it an open question as between these two Wards: in his Historic Towns volume he inclines to the former (p. 96) though apparently (p. 92) not without hesitation. The fact, however, that the several pieces of land named as situate in Brocesgange Ward are each said to extend to the Thames [durat usque Tamisiam] seems to point to its identity with Dowgate.

Mr. Loftie's identifications of other Wards are as under:—

- |                    |                   |                     |
|--------------------|-------------------|---------------------|
| 1. Castle Baynard. | 7. Cornhill.      | 15. Vintry.         |
| 2. Broad Street.   | 9. Tower.         | 18. Queenhithe.     |
| 3. Cripplegate.    | 11. Aldersgate.   | 19. Coleman Street. |
| 5. Bishopsgate.    | 12. Billingsgate. | 20. Bread Street.   |
| 6. Candlewick.     |                   |                     |

I have taken the identification of 18 from a communication made to myself in May, 1907, by Mr. Loftie. In his 1901 letter he suggests either Queenhithe or Walbrook for 18, and either Queenhithe or Cordwainer for 16. I am inclined to identify 14 with Walbrook;<sup>2</sup> if, however, 17 is Walbrook, 14 is presumably Dowgate, and in either case I think 16 is Cordwainer and 18 Queenhithe.

2. There is a reference in Liber L to Herbert as Alderman in connection with property in the parish of St. John, Walbrook, the larger portion of which was comprised in Walbrook and Dowgate Wards.

Mr. Loftie has not suggested the identity of the Wards numbered 10 and 13 respectively; the Wards not named in the above suggestions are Bridge, Langbourn, Lime Street, Bassishaw, Portsoken, and that subsequently known as Farringdon. It may be taken as certain that neither Portsoken nor Farringdon was at that date included in the City Wards, and I am inclined to think that the same may be said of Lime Street and Bassishaw.

Of the persons named in the above list, Osbert Dringepinne, Hugh fitz-Ulgar and Ranulf fitz-Algod were amongst the 15 members of the Cnichtengild who gave their land and soke to the Priory of Holy Trinity in 1125 and were at the same time admitted members of that confraternity and Algar "Manningestepune" (i.e. Manning's Stepson) may not improbably be regarded as identical with "Algar Secusenne" whose name appears in the same list (Letter Book C, folio 135).

Between 1120 and the last quarter of the 12th century a few names of Aldermen occur. In Liber L (from which the list examined above is taken), we find mention under date 1142 of Azo as Alderman: he was an eminent goldsmith and son of Reimund (or Reinmund), whom he appears to have succeeded in the Aldermanry of Coleman Street Ward.<sup>3</sup> From the same source we have, without any precise date, Walter fitz-Terri, probably Alderman of Cripplegate, the property with which his name is associated being in Aldermanbury. From the Ancient Deeds in the Record Office, we get the names of Aldermen Godselin,<sup>4</sup> Geoffrey,<sup>5</sup> Jordan<sup>6</sup> and Blacestan,<sup>7</sup> of whom the two first named appear to be connected with Castle Baynard and Cornhill Wards respectively, Jordan (and possibly Blacestan also), with Billingsgate; Blacestan is named earlier than the other three, viz.: in the Priorate of Peter (1148-1167) whereas their names occur in the Priorate of Stephen (1170-1187); also Ernulf and Peter are named as Aldermen, one of whom was probably Alderman of Cripplegate, the other names in the deed, which is undated, pointing to the early years of Henry II.<sup>8</sup> Liber Trinitatis supplies Edmund, apparently Alderman of Aldgate. Peter is probably identical with Peter fitz-Walter (Sheriff 1174-75).

From about 1170 the deeds in the Record Office Catalogue relating to City property and attested by Aldermen of the Wards increase in frequency, and in addition to those who bear this designation, many others who are not definitely so described may, with some confidence, be assumed to have been entitled to it both from the positions which their names repeatedly occupy in the lists of attestations and from the fact that those names in many instances occur in the succession of Mayors and Sheriffs.

The name of Henry fitz-Ailwyn is of common occurrence without the addition of "Mayor" and therefore presumably before his election to that office, which he held continuously from at least as early as 1193 till his death in 1212. In one entry during the Shrievalty of John fitz-Nigel and John Waleraun (1177-78), he is definitely styled "Alderman."<sup>9</sup> Many deeds are preserved which were executed during his tenure of the Mayoralty, when his name usually appears as "Henry Mayor" simply: in one document he is described as "Henry fitz-Ailwyn fitz-Leofstan,"<sup>10</sup> in another as "Henry of Londonstone."<sup>11</sup>

Of these, the two Haverells were certainly Aldermen of Cripplegate<sup>24a</sup> and Sperling of Billingsgate, in which Ward he was succeeded by his brother Ralph early in the reign of Henry III. Theobald fitz-Ivo was presumably Alderman of Portsoken by delegation from the Prior of Holy Trinity, who at that time was Peter of Cornwall (see Note A below), Jukel is assigned by Mr. Loftie to Cripplegate (Historic Towns, p. 90); he is named in the St. Paul's MSS. as Alderman in connection with the parish of St. Mary Magdalene, Fish Street, the greater portion of which was in Castle Baynard Ward, of which Ward, notwithstanding Mr. Loftie's high authority, I am inclined to infer that he was Alderman. Peter Blund's Ward was probably Aldgate or Tower; that of Robert Blund and of William fitz-Alice, Bread Street.

Others during this period were almost certainly Aldermen though not so described in any extant document which I have seen. Such were Andrew Bukerel (Sheriff 1172-74),<sup>25</sup> Henry de Cornhill<sup>26</sup> and Richard fitz-Reiner<sup>27</sup> (Sheriffs 1187-88), John fitz-Hericon<sup>28</sup> and Roger le Duc<sup>29</sup> (Sheriffs 1189-90), John Bokointe or Bucuint<sup>30</sup> (Sheriff 1190-91), Nicholas Duket<sup>31</sup> (Sheriff 1191-92 and 1196-97), Roger fitz-Alan<sup>32</sup> (Sheriff 1192-93, and fitz-Ailwyn's successor in the Mayoralty), William fitz-Isabel or fitz-Sabel<sup>33</sup> and William fitz-Alulf<sup>34</sup> (Sheriffs 1193-94), Constantine fitz-Alulf<sup>35</sup> (Sheriff 1197-98) and his brother Ernulf fitz-Alulf<sup>36</sup> (Sheriff 1198-99), John Waleran<sup>37</sup> (Sheriff 1204-5), Alulf fitz-Fromund,<sup>38</sup> Jordan de Turri<sup>39</sup> (probably identical with the Jordan already mentioned), Henry fitz-Reiner,<sup>40</sup> William Facetus,<sup>41</sup> and Alan fitz-Peter.<sup>42</sup>

In the Mayoralty of fitz-Alan, who succeeded on fitz-Ailwyn's death in 1212, C. fitz-Alulf<sup>43</sup> is named as an Alderman together with Alan fitz-Peter, T. de Haverell, Joce fitz-Peter (Sheriff 1211-12), Andrew Nevelun—son of Peter Nevelun and hence called elsewhere Andrew fitz-Peter<sup>44</sup>—(Sheriff 1215-16), and Robert fitz-Alice. Andrew Nevelun was probably Alderman of Vintry.

NOTE A.—In Stow's Survey, vol. i., it is distinctly stated that fitz-Ivo was "instituted Alderman of Portsoken by Eustachius, the eighth prior, about the year 1264 because he would not deal with temporal matters." I had accordingly adopted that statement at p. 180 of this work, as others have done, including Sir W. Besant in his Medieval London (vol. ii., p. 241), which was published since my lists of Aldermen of the Wards were printed. There can be no doubt, however, that Stow is wrong. Fitz-Ivo's name appears as Alderman under date 1196-97, being the year of Shrievalty of Nicholas [Duket] and Robert Blund (in conjunction with "Henry Mayor" and William Fulbert, Alderman), in Ancient Deed A 5915 and again (without date but in conjunction with William Fulbert [sic] Matthew Blund and Alan Burser, Aldermen) in Ancient Deed A 7826. Moreover the name of Thomas de Wymburne (Sheriff 1252-53) is found as acting Alderman of Portsoken both before, during and after the Priorate of Eustace, being described as "Alderman" as early as 1256-7 (Ancient Deeds A 1867), as "Warden of the Soke" as late as 1270-1 (Ancient Deeds A 1866) and "Sokenreeve of Portsoken" in 1271-2 (Ancient Deeds A 1512).

Between 1215 and 1230 the Mayoralty was held by William Hardel "James Alderman," Salomon de Basing, Serlo le Mercer, Richard Renger and Roger le Duc, who were all presumably Aldermen before their elevation to the Chair, though I am not satisfied that this was an invariable rule in those days. [The last-named is probably not identical with the Sheriff of 1189-90, named above. Renger is definitely named as an Alderman under date, March 24, 1317<sup>44a</sup> and Serlo also appears to have been one at the same time.] T. de Haverell, C. and E. fitz Alulf, J. fitz-Peter, J. Sperling, W. fitz-Alice, and H. fitz-Reiner, who have already been named, appear definitely as Aldermen: also Andrew Bukerel<sup>45</sup> (who succeeded Roger le Duc as Mayor in 1230 or 1231 and survived till 1237-8, and must therefore be a different person from the Andrew Bukerel of 1172-73), Stephen Crassus or le Gras<sup>46</sup> (often printed erroneously le Gros), and Adam de Witebi<sup>47</sup> (Sheriffs 1210-11), Martin fitz-Alice<sup>48</sup> (Sheriff 1213-14), Benedict<sup>49</sup> (Sheriff 1216-17), Thomas Bukerel<sup>50</sup> (Sheriff 1217-18), John Viel or Vitalis<sup>51</sup> (Sheriff 1218-20), Hugh Tabur,<sup>52</sup> John de Cornhill,<sup>53</sup> John Hanin,<sup>54</sup> Laurence Lamb',<sup>55</sup> [sic, possibly an abbreviation for Lambyn], William de Bosco,<sup>56</sup> Robert de Woburn,<sup>57</sup> and William Wilekin.<sup>58</sup> Gervase de Aldermanbury<sup>59</sup> was probably an Alderman about this time; possibly also Constantine 'juvenis'<sup>60</sup> (Sheriff 1212-13). To the same period it seems likely that Henry de St. Elena<sup>61</sup> should be assigned who is named as an Alderman, probably of Bishopsgate; Tabur was Alderman of Bassishaw, Lamb' of Queenhithe; Woburn, apparently, of Aldersgate, and A. Bukerel, of Cripplegate.

In the Great Rolls of the Exchequer of 12 and 14 Henry III. (i.e., 1227-28 and 1229-30) the assessments of the different Wards for tallage are set forth in detail with the names of the Aldermen responsible for its collection. Twenty-four Wards are named in each list, all distinguished by the names of their Aldermen, except Portsoken (the Aldermanry of which was held ex officio by the Prior of Holy Trinity) and Bassishaw (here written "Bassushag") One Ward (Cheap) has both its local name and that of its Alderman (W. fitz-Benedict). The name of Roger le Duc, who was Mayor 1227-30, does not appear in either list, unless (which appears probable) he was identical with "Roger Burserius" with whose name I have not met elsewhere. The earlier list (that for 12 Henry III.) gives the following names:—

William fitz-Benedict.	Richard Raynger
Andrew Bukerel	(usually written Renger).
Michael de St. Helena.	Ralph Sperling.
Joce fitz-Peter.	Ralph Stepering.
Robert fitz-John.	Gervase fitz-Fulk.
John Viel.	Walter de Insula.
Ace le Mairemer.	John Travers.
Roger Blund.	Peter fitz-Roger.
Stephen le Gras.	James Blund.
John Waleran.	Roger Burserius.
Warine fitz-Nicholas.	Peter fitz-Alulf.
Richard de Russye.

In the later list (14 Henry III.) all these names are repeated, except that of Peter fitz-Alulf; his place is taken by John de Solariis (usually written de Solio), who, however, is twice named as an Alderman in the Mayoralty of R. Renger and Shrievalty of R. Le Duc and M. fitz-William, i.e., between 1225 and 1227<sup>61a</sup>.

I have not met elsewhere with the names of Ace le Mairemer, Peter fitz-Roger, and Peter fitz-Alulf as Aldermen. Waleran, fitz-Nicholas, Russye, Stepering, de Insula, and Travers are not found later, but occur in documents of earlier date: the rest appear as Aldermen both before and after this time.

Several of these can be assigned with practical certainty, and others with varying degrees of probability, to particular Wards. Thus fitz-Benedict (or as it is usually written, fitz-Benet) was Alderman of Cheap as already stated; A. Bukerel of Cripplegate,<sup>62</sup> J. fitz-Peter of Ludgate and Newgate (the modern Farringdon),<sup>63</sup> S. le Gras of Vintry,<sup>64</sup> R. Renger of Bridge,<sup>65</sup> G. fitz-Fulk of Aldgate,<sup>66</sup> R. Sperling of Billingsgate,<sup>67</sup> R. Stepering of Tower,<sup>68</sup> J. Travers of Langbourn,<sup>69</sup> M. de S. Helena may probably be allocated to Aldersgate,<sup>70</sup> James Blund to Broad Street,<sup>71</sup> Roger Blund to Cordwainer,<sup>72</sup> de Insula (i.e. Lisle) to Bishopsgate,<sup>73</sup> Russye to Candlewick,<sup>74</sup> and Viel to Broad Street.<sup>75</sup>

Joce, "junior"<sup>76</sup> appears among the Aldermen in the year 1231-2 (16 Henry III.), probably as successor to Russye; Richard de Hadestok<sup>77</sup> and Richard de Wimbledon,<sup>78</sup> who served respectively for Dowgate and Queenhithe occur in 1233-4 and 1234-5 respectively. During the next four or five years the names of Gerard Bat,<sup>79</sup> William Joynier<sup>80</sup> and Reginald Bungheye,<sup>81</sup> (all of whom reached the Mayoral chair while still among the junior Aldermen, if indeed they were then already Aldermen), are found as witnesses to deeds; also Stephen Bukerel,<sup>82</sup> who succeeded to Andrew Bukerel's seat for Cripplegate and Richard fitz-Walter<sup>83</sup> who served for Aldgate. Between 1239 and 1245 we come upon the names of Robert de Cornhill (probably Alderman of Lime Street),<sup>84</sup> Ralph Hardel,<sup>85</sup> Simon fitz-Mary (Walbrook),<sup>86</sup> William fitz-Richard (Tower),<sup>87</sup> Lawrence Frowyk (Ludgate and Newgate),<sup>88</sup> Thomas de Dunelm (i.e. Durham),<sup>89</sup> Ralph Eswy (or Aswy) who was Alderman of Cheap,<sup>90</sup> Michael Tovi,<sup>91</sup> and John de Gisors<sup>92</sup>; the three last named of these became Mayors whilst very junior Aldermen, unless (as I think nearly certain in the case of Gisors, and probable in that of Tovi), they reached the Mayoral chair before the Aldermanic bench. J. Norman also appears to have been an Alderman at this period, though not definitely so styled till later.

At the end of 1245 John de Coudres is named as an Alderman in the Chronicle of Mayors and Sheriffs (page 12), written by Arnold fitz-Thedmar, who a few years later attained himself to that dignity; R. Sperling, N. Bat and T. de Durham are named with Coudres. In the same year William Eswy (or Aswy) appears as Alderman, probably of Coleman Street.<sup>93</sup> In 1246-7 we meet with Walter de Winton (Dowgate)<sup>94</sup>; in that year Peter fitz-Alan served as Mayor. In 1249, fitz-Thedmar records the deprivation of fitz-Mary and the election of Alexander le Ferrun on March 8, to succeed to his Aldermanry (Walbrook).<sup>95</sup>

For the year 1249-50 (34 Henry III.), we have the names of 23 Aldermen, forming with the addition of the Prior of Holy Trinity who is not included, the complete list for that date; <sup>96</sup> of these, 13 are those of Aldermen with whom we have already met, the remaining ten appearing now for the first time definitely as Aldermen. They may be divided thus:—

Old.

New.

R. Sperling.	L. Frowyk.	Roger fitz-Roger (Mayor).	Nicholas fitz-Joce.
R. de Hadestok.	T. de Durham.	John Tolesan or Tulesan.	Thomas fitz-Thomas.
S. Bukerel.	M. Tovi.	Adam le Basing.	John Adrien.
Ralph Hardel.	A. le Ferrun.	John le Minur.	William Viel.
R. de Cornhill.	W. Eswy.	Robert Hardel.	Gervase le Cordwainer
W. fitz-Richard.	John Norman.		(also called Gervase Barn').
Nicholas Bat.

It is strange that neither J. Gisors nor P. fitz-Alan, though they had so recently been Mayors, is found in this list, but Gisors' name appears as an Alderman in 1251-52,<sup>96a</sup> and P. fitz-Alan's in 1261-62.<sup>96b</sup> The latter's name is also found in the years 1250-51, 1251-52, and 1257-58,<sup>96c</sup> in such a position as might suggest the rank of Alderman, though he is not actually so called at those dates, and may very probably have been so placed as an ex-Mayor, and on the whole I am inclined to the belief that he was not an Alderman at all until after his Mayoralty, and that he succeeded W. Eswy, as Alderman of Coleman Street about 1260, though he may have been Alderman of another Ward earlier.<sup>B</sup>

The only additional name before 1258 is that of Thomas de Wymburne, who is found acting as Alderman of Portsoken in 1256-57.<sup>97</sup> [See Note A, p. 365]

It is noted by fitz-Thedmar that in February 1258, the King deprived all the Aldermen of their Wards, but permitted them to be restored "if elected by the Commons of the City," with the exception of Ralph Hardel (Mayor), N. Bat, N. fitz-Joce, J. Tolesan, J. le Minur, fitz-Thedmar himself and Matthew Bukerel, who is here named for the first time.<sup>98</sup> Those not thus excepted secured re-election, with the exception of R. de Hadestok.<sup>99</sup> New Aldermen were chosen in place of the excluded ones, save that fitz-Thedmar's Ward (Billingsgate)<sup>99a</sup> remained in the hands of the new Mayor (W. fitz-Richard),<sup>100</sup> Osbert de Hadestok acting as Deputy - Alderman for that Ward.<sup>101</sup> Fitz-Thedmar himself does not record the names of the new Aldermen elected; we find for the first time in the course of the next two years those of John de Blakethorne (Aldersgate),<sup>102</sup> Richard de Ewell (Ludgate and Newgate),<sup>103</sup> and John Blund<sup>103a</sup> (probably Aldgate).

In November, 1259, fitz-Thedmar was restored to his Ward and, as he records in his Chronicle, the King "recalled to his grace and favour" fitz-Joce, le Minnr, and M. Bukerel. In the interval since their ejection from office the other deprived Aldermen, (Hardel, Bat and Tolesan) had died.<sup>104</sup> It does not appear that the removal of the King's displeasure involved the return of the deprived Aldermen to their Wards; neither fitz-Joce nor Minnr is again named in any list of Aldermanic attendances or attestations, but the name of M. Bukerel occurs as that of the Alderman of Langbourn in 1270-1.<sup>104a</sup>

NOTE B.—He appears definitely as Alderman of Coleman Street in Ancient Deed, A1901, in the year 1261-2.

Between 1259 and 1275 few new names occur among the Aldermen other than those which are found in the Hundred Rolls of the latter year, to which reference will be made later. Those not included by name or by implication in the 1275 lists are Adam Bruning<sup>105</sup> who succeeded Ewell in Ludgate and Newgate, Richard de Walebrook<sup>106</sup> (Bassishaw), Bartholomew Castell<sup>107</sup> (Cripplegate), Walter Hervi (Cheap), Geoffrey de Winton<sup>108</sup> (Bridge) and Edward Blund.<sup>109</sup> Hervi, who apparently succeeded fitz-Thomas in Cheap after the latter's disappearance<sup>110</sup> and later took his place as the leader of the democratic party in the City,<sup>111</sup> was deprived of his Aldermanry in June 1274.<sup>112</sup> In a deed of the year 1265-66 (when J. Adrien and W. Hervi were bailiffs), R. de Walebrook is described as "tunc custode Aldermannie de Colemanstrate" and B. de Castell as "tunc custode Aldermannie de Bassieshawe."<sup>113</sup> This is explained by the fact (recorded by fitz-Thedmar) that in that year all the Aldermen were temporarily displaced by the Earl of Gloucester and Wardens appointed in their stead. There is no later record of Walebrook in connexion with the Aldermanry of a Ward, but Castell, as stated above, was Alderman of Cripplegate a few years later. Edward Blund was probably Alderman of Bassishaw after Walebrook and succeeded by Thomas de Basing about 1269.<sup>114</sup>

Michael Tovi appears as Alderman of Newgate and Ludgate on December 9, 1264, and on three other occasions in the year 1264-65.<sup>115</sup> I am not sure whether this was the ex-Mayor or his son, both of whom are named as joint witnesses to undated deeds in the St. Paul's MSS., probably he was the son. I have not found the ex-Mayor's name amongst the Aldermen between 1257-58 and 1264, and he must have been Alderman of another Ward originally, as Newgate and Ludgate was held by L. Frowyk from about 1240 till about 1258, when he was succeeded by R. Ewell. (See p. 373).

In the troubles connected with Simon de Montfort's rebellion, the ex-Mayors Gisors and fitz-Richard, with Aldermen R. de Cornhill, J. Adrien, A. fitz-Thedmar, B. Castell, G. de Winton and also G. de Rokesle and W. de Durham, who became Aldermen shortly after, were conspicuous as adherents of the king's party; Tovi, fitz-Thomas, A. le Ferrin and S. Bukerel being on the other side (Chronicle Mayors and Sheriffs, p. 120).

We now come to the Hundred Rolls of 3 Edw. I. (1275), which contain three lists (one incomplete) of the Wards at that time. The first (vol. i., pp. 403-423), gives 16 Wards, five distinguished by local names ("Bassingshae," Cheap, Portsoken, Langbourn, Dowgate), the rest by those of their respective Aldermen, viz.:

Anketel de Alvne ( i.e. Auvergne),	Robert de Meldeburne,
Peter Aungier,	John Horn,
Wolmar de Essex,	Thomas de Basing,
John de Norhampton,	Walter le Pot' ( i.e. Poter),
William de Hadestok,	John de Blakethorne,
Simon de Hadestok.

A second list appears on pp. 423, 424, and a third on pp. 425-443. Both these are complete and they are very similar to each other. In both the Wards of Cheap, Portsoken and Dowgate are described by their local names, so also are Bassishaw, Langbourn and Walbrook in the third list, but not in the second.

The eleven Aldermen named in the first list reappear (with some orthographical variations) in both the second and the third, which also supply the following additional names, viz.:

Peter de Edelmeton,	William de Dunelm ( i.e. Durham),
Henry de Coventre,	Philip le Tailleur,
Ralph Faber (elsewhere called le Fevre),	Henry le Waleys.
Henry de Frowyk.

The second list adds John Adrian, Ralph le Blund and Nicholas de Winton who represent the respective Wards of Walbrook, Bassishaw and Langhourn named in the third.

We have thus the names of twenty-one Aldermen, two Wards (in addition to Portsoken, whose Alderman ex officio was the Prior of Holy Trinity), being designated by their local names in each of the three lists, viz: Cheap and Dowgate. Of these twenty-one Aldermen, seventeen are named under their respective Wards in part I. of this work. The others are P. Aungier, who served for Broad Street, W. le Poter (Cornhill), R. Faber and R. de Meldeburne. At p. 1 of this work I have assigned Meldeburne to Aldersgate, following a tentative, but (for the date indicated) erroneous, identification in Dr. Sharpe's Calendar of Letter Book A, p. 205. The Alderman of Aldersgate at this time (1277) was undoubtedly Blakethorne, who was serving for that Ward in 1258-9, 1267-8, 1269-70, and as late as December, 1280.<sup>116</sup> Meldeburne served for Coleman Street from as early as 1270-1.<sup>117</sup> I am, however, inclined to think that Meldeburne may have succeeded Blakethorne in Aldersgate in 1281, as both he and his successor in Coleman Street (J. fitz-Peter) are recorded as being present as Aldermen on May 13, 1282 (Letter Book C, fo. 52b) and W. le Mazeliner, the next Alderman of Aldersgate, does not appear as such earlier than December 11, 1282. By the process of exhaustion, it may be inferred that Ralph Faber was at this time Alderman of Lime Street. Mr. Loftie, misled by his description "de Cornhill," which probably refers to his place of abode (as in the similar case of John de Tulesan or Tolosan "of Walebroc" who was not Alderman of Walbrook Ward), has assigned him to Cornhill Ward,<sup>118</sup> which was certainly held by Poter.<sup>119</sup> Faber (or LeFevre) afterwards acquired the Aldermanry of Ludgate and Newgate in succession to Anketin (or Anketel) de Auvergne. (See page 143).

It is not necessary to refer in detail to the lists of Aldermen with their Wards which are printed in Dr. Sharpe's Calendar of the Husting Rolls, and of Letter Books A, C, E, as the dates to which they refer are covered by the succession of Aldermen given in Part I. With regard to the date of the first of these, Dr. Sharpe is undoubtedly accurate in assigning it to 1285 or 1286: the list corresponds (except for the absence of one name, the omission of which is satisfactorily accounted for by Dr. Sharpe in his footnote) with that of the Aldermen recorded in a Husting Deed of January, 1286. It is not possible to make, with certainty, a closer approximation to the actual date of the list than between June, 1285, the first-recorded mention of Martin Box as an Alderman (Letter Book A, folio 127) and March 3, 1287 (not February, 1286, as Dr. Sharpe has accidentally misdated it), when John de Norhampton's successor is first named [H.R. 17 (22)]. I concur, however, with Dr. Sharpe, who has gone into the question with me, that the most probable date is about the beginning of July, 1285, immediately after the appointment of R. de Sandwich to be Custos of the City. This suggestion receives strong support from the fact that on June 16, 1293, five days after the appointment of John de Breton as Custos, there was a General Election of Aldermen—those whose names form the list given in Letter Book C, fo. 6 (xxx.).

Having thus set forth the material which exists for supplying the names of Aldermen of London from an earlier period than that covered by the Letter Books at Guildhall, I proceed to give the succession in chronological order from c. 1230. It will be seen from the foregoing remarks that for the first forty years of that period the list cannot be regarded as certainly exhaustive, and in several cases it is impossible to assign Wards to individual Aldermen, and in others such allocation is only tentative. From the beginning of Edward I.'s reign we are on surer ground.

When the full date is given it is usually that of election; during the period of Annual Elections (1377-1394) the day (March 12) is that of assumption of office, the actual days of election not being recorded. Where the word "sworn" is appended in brackets, only the date of formal admission has been preserved; the words "and sworn" indicate that election and admission were on the same day. In the majority of elections after the fifteenth century and in some earlier ones, two dates are given, the earlier being that of election, the later that of admission.

The succession in each Ward is given in Part I. (pages 1-224); the following list gives the chronological succession of persons. Hence, when one or more translations from one Ward to another took place in consequence of a single death or resignation, the new Alderman is regarded as taking the place of the one who had died or resigned, not of the one to whose Ward he succeeded. Thus, Sir T. Crosby, the present (May, 1908) Alderman of Langbourn, is regarded as the successor of Sir Stuart Knill, at whose death Sir T. Crosby's predecessor in Langbourn (Sir J. Savory) was translated to Bridge Without.

The names of Mayors and Lord Mayors are printed in small capitals: those of persons elected Aldermen but (certainly or presumably) not admitted and sworn are in italics.

*a Aldermen named in the Hundred Rolls 2-3 Edward III.

2. I incline to the opinion that only one Alderman is designated by the name John Adrien, but it is possible that two of that name (father and son) were successively Aldermen of Walbrook, the elder having previously been Alderman of Bassishaw also. See note ad fin.

2a. Fitz-Thomas must have been Alderman of some other Ward before his election for Cheap, and there may have been an interval during which he was not an Alderman. See note ad fin.

In the notices of the names to which (D*) is prefixed, errors in the text of the D.N.B. have been corrected and omissions supplied by the present writer, which corrections and additions are printed in the Errata volume, and, so far as it has gone, in the new issue; unless supplemented by reference to these the original articles are either misleading or incomplete—frequently both.

2c Gilbert's name is omitted from Newcourt's list of Priors, but we have evidence of his acting continuously between 1261 and 1268 in Ancient Deeds, A 2374, 2394, 2652, 2674, and Liber Trinitatis I., fo. 57b. The date of death of his predecessor, John de Totynge, as given at p. 180 (June 15, 1258), is taken from Hearne's Neubrigensis Historia, vol. iii., p. 708 (my authority for other erroneous dates corrected at pp. 417, 418), but should certainly be 1261, as he is found acting as late as February, 1261 (Ancient Deeds, A 1698) and Gilbert's patent is dated June 21, 1261 (45 Hen. 3, m. 9). An earlier Gilbert is inserted by Newcourt under date 1214, whose election appears to have received the royal assent July 2, 1214 (pat. 16 John, m. 9), but I have found no evidence of his acting, and his predecessor, Peter, either retained or afterwards resumed his Priorate, as he was acting as late as May 3, 1221 (Ancient Deeds, A 2326).

5b. See p. 370.

6. Waleys was never (as stated in D.N.B.) Alderman of Bread Street. The entry in the Catalogue of Ancient Deeds to which the writer refers in support of his statement has been misunderstood by him. It merely shows that Waleys acted as Alderman of the Ward in regard to property situated in the parish of All Hallows, Bread Street, which comprised a portion of Cordwainer Ward as well as of Bread Street. His knighthood is, to say the least, doubtful and is not established by the entry to which the writer of the article refers, when he is simply styled "dominus," which is far from necessarily implying knighthood.

6a. Not "Paynns" or "Payne" as Mr. Loftie, from a misreading of the original of the Lansdowne MS. 558, names him in History of London (vol. ii., p. 416) and London (Historic Towns), p. 79.

6b. The name of l'Engleys is not found amongst the Aldermen in the Guildhall records, but he is described as "Alderman of that Ward" in connexion with property in the Parish of St. Margaret's, Lothbury, in Ancient Deeds, A 2261, during the Mayoralty of Rokesle and Shrievalty of Farndone and Wynton, i.e., between September 1280 and September 1281. The Parish includes portions of Broad Street and Coleman Street. L'Engleys was doubtless chosen towards the end of his Shrieval year (1277-8) to fill the vacancy in Broad Street caused by Bukerel's death.

*d Aldermen in 1320 named with their Wards in Letter Book E, fo. 104 b.

6c Both Northone and Hallingberi are named in the list of Aldermen amongst whom the nightwatch was distributed in the minute (misdated December 20, 23 Edw. I., i.e. 1294) recorded in Letter Book B, fo. 106 (xxxii. b). At page 225 I have given reasons for fixing the real date as 1296. I am now, however, after careful reconsideration, convinced that it should be 1297 (26 Edw. I). There is no other evidence of either of these having acted as Aldermen earlier than August 26, 1297, and it is certain from Letter Book, fo. 107 b (xxxi.), that Hallingberi was not an Alderman till after June 29 of that year. The three meetings of the Court of Aldermen which immediately precede the misdated one, took place in June and Ju'y, 1297, and William de Hereford, whom Hallingberi succeeded, appears [fo. 30 b (cviii.)] to have died not long before October 29 following. The only difficulty to be got over in fixing the date as December 20, 1297, is caused by the inclusion of the name of Walter de Rokesle, who had been succeeded by T. Sely between July and October, 1297. But as the list is not of attendances but of mere names of Aldermen, that of Rokesle had probably been retained by the negligence of the obviously careless clerk who had omitted to substitute that of his recently elected successor.

7<sup>c</sup>. Betoyne is generally described as a Goldsmith and is included in the list of Goldsmith-Mayors given in the MS. collection of William Smith (Rouge Dragon) [Guildhall MS. 482] whom I have followed at pp. 45, 205 and 343 of this work. It seems, however, clear from Letter Book E, fo. 53b, that he belonged to the Peppcrers' Guild in 1316 (see Sharpe's Husting Wills i., 445, and Riley's Memorials, p. 120).

10. Not November 11 as in D.N.B.

11. The statement in the D.N.B. that Walworth was an ally of Northampton is the exact reverse of the fact: he was one of the leaders of the "victualling" party in conjunction with Brembre and Philipot. The D.N.B. records only one of the four elections to Parliament and perpetuates the anachronism of styling him "Lord Mayor," which error is repeated in the cases of Brembre, Twyford and Northampton.

*e Aldermen in office in 1377 who lost their seats at the introduction of annual elections, being disqualified for immediate re-election.

12. The D.N.B. article on Philipot neither names his Ward nor gives the dates of his various elections, nor does it record that he recovered his seat after his ejection by Northampton. Neither he nor any of those knighted with him in 1381 was an Alderman at the time, and the number, exclusive of himself and Walworth, was three (not four as stated in the article).
13. The article in the D.N.B. reproduces the usual blunder about the sixteen Grocer-Aldermen. The text also, (corrected in the Errata volume and in the new issue on my information), wrongly dates his first election.
14. The article in the D.N.B. names only one of his four Wards, and suggests an incorrect date of death.

*<sup>e</sup> Aldermen in office in 1377 who lost their seats at the introduction of annual elections, being disqualified for immediate re-election.

Period of Annual Elections, 1377-1394.

From 1377 to 1394 inclusive, the Aldermen were elected annually (with the exception of the Prior of Holy Trinity, who was ex-officio Alderman of Portsoken, and not removable); they were sworn into office on March 12 in each year. Until 1384 no Alderman was re-eligible until the lapse of a year since he had last held office; after that date they might be re-chosen without any interval. Aldermen elected at the annual election of 1394 and their successors were not liable to removal except for special causes, which rule has continued in force to the present day with the exception of the brief period (1683-1688) from the surrender to the restoration of the Charter. Of the 23 Aldermen who vacated their seats under the new regulations at the election of 1377, the four seniors (Frestlyng, Little, Chichester and Tornegold) and two others (Aubrey and Fyfhide) were not again chosen;—(Tornegold died before the election of 1378);—but the remaining 17 found their way back to the Court of Aldermen at subsequent elections. During the period in which immediate re-election was prohibited, many of the Aldermen served in alternate years.

On August 6, 1382, N. Exton, who was one of the leaders of the victualling party, was deprived of his Aldermanry on account of his opposition to the Mayor (Northampton), and on the same day A. Karlill (ex-Alderman) was also declared ineligible for any public office in the City. (On June 20, 1384, when the victualling party was in power, the Common Council resolved that Exton had been wrongfully deprived, and both he and Karlill was restored to their civic rights.) Exton was succeeded by:—

- 1382, Aug... Gilbert Maghfild .. Billingsgate, .. S. 1392-3
 (or Maunfeld), 1382-3,
Ironmonger 1392-c 1397

We learn from Walsingham (ii., 71) that Sir J. Philipot was also deprived of his Aldermanry by Northampton and his party, and the Coram Rege Rolls fix the date of his deprivation as October 13, 1382, the day of Northampton's re-election to the Mayoralty. There is no record of, nor is there any allusion to, this event in Letter Book H, and neither there nor elsewhere has any indication been found of the election of a successor to Philipot.

- 1383, Mar. 12 This year only 10 ex-Aldermen were elected, viz. :—

SIR N. TWYFORD	T. Noket
T. Cornwaleys	W. Kyng
J. Boseham	R. Warbulton

It is remarkable that at this election no ex-Mayor was chosen; the Mayor himself (NORTHAMPTON) ceased to be an Alderman, and at the close of his year of office in October, 1383, he was succeeded by SIR N. BREMBRE (ex-Mayor and ex-Alderman of Bread Street).

In 1384 the law passed in 1377 was relaxed so far as to permit an Alderman to be re-elected at the expiration of his year of office, without the interval of a year which that law had interposed. The change which appears to have been initiated by the Mayor (Brembre) on his own sole authority was sanctioned by the King in letters patent dated March 8, 1384, subject to confirmation by Parliament, which was subsequently granted [Rot. Parl. iii., 172-3].

At the election of 1384 all those elected had had previous Aldermanic experience; eight who had served during the preceding year were chosen again, three of whom changed their Wards, the remaining fifteen had been Aldermen in one or more years before the election of 1383. The whole list is as follows:—

SIR W. WALWORTH	} ex-Mayors	T. Welford	H. Fastolf
SIR J. PHILIPOT		J. Estone	A. BAMME
SIR N. BREMBRE (Mayor)		†R. Warbulton	W. MORE
J. HADLE (ex-Mayor)		R. de Preston	*W. STAUNDON
J. Organ		J. HEENDE	*J. FRAUNCEYS
A. de St. Ive		J. Sely	†H. Vanner
*T. Cornwallays		†J. Chircheman	*W. Anecroft
R. Elys			*G. Cremylford

* Re-elected by the Wards for which they served in the preceding year.

† Elected by other Wards than those for which they served in the preceding year.

[Sir J. Philipot died in May, 1384 and was succeeded by J. Rote, an ex-Alderman. T. Cornwallays died in January, 1385; the vacancy caused by his death apparently was not filled till the annual election in the following March.]

In March, 1385, seventeen of the previous year's Aldermen were re-chosen, three of them changing their Wards; five ex-Aldermen returned to the Court; there is no extant return for Bassishaw. The twenty-two whose elections are recorded were:—

*SIR W. WALWORTH (ex-Mayor)	*J. Rote	S. Wynchcombe
*SIR N. BREMBRE (Mayor)	†R. Warbulton	N. EXTON
*J. HADLE (ex-Mayor)	*R. de Preston	*W. MORE
†J. Organ	*J. HEENDE	*W. STAUNDON
*A. de St. Ive	J. FRESSHE	*J. FRAUNCEYS
J. Boseham	*J. Chircheman	J. SHADWORTH
*R. Elys	*H. Fastolf	†H. Vanner
*T. Welford

On August 12, 1385, W. Tonge (ex-Alderman) took the place of Fastolf, who had resigned, but the latter appears to have resumed his seat shortly after (see note A, p. 204). A few days before the end of the year Sir W. Walworth died; his place was apparently not filled till the next annual election.

In March, 1386, there was again no infusion of new blood; 20 of the previous year's Aldermen were re-elected, two changing their Wards, and the remaining three seats were filled by ex-Aldermen. Those elected were:—

*SIR N. BREMBRE (Mayor)	J. Estone	*N. EXTON
*J. HADLE (ex-Mayor)	*R. Warbulton	*W. MORE
*J. Organ	*R. de Preston	*W. STAUNDON
*A. de St. Ive	*J. HEENDE	W. VENOUR
*J. Boseham	*J. FRESSHE	*J. FRAUNCEYS
*R. Elys	*J. Chircheman	†J. SHADWORTH
*T. Welford	†H. Fastolf	*H. Vanner
*J. Rote		W. Olyver

In March, 1387, all the Aldermen of 1386 were re-elected for their respective Wards, with the apparent exception of J. Boseham, for whose Ward (Cheap) no return is extant. In the course of this year three vacancies occurred through the deaths of Exton and Warbulton and the resignation of Preston ; the ex-Aldermen SIR N. TWYFORD and A. BAMME were elected to succeed the two first-named ; Preston's seat was taken by a new man, the first elected since 1383.

1387 .. .. William Wotton, .. .. Dowgate,
Woolmonger 1387-92
 Will, August 24, 1391, enrolled October 22, 1397 [H.R. 126 (52)]

Sir N. Brembre was executed by the sentence of the "Merciless" or "Wonderful Parliament," in February, 1388, a few days before the Aldermen for that year came into office.

In March, 1388, eighteen of the existing Aldermen were re-elected, two changing their Wards ; three ex-Aldermen and two new men completed the list. The twenty-one seniors were :—

*J. HADLE (ex-Mayor)	*J. Chircheman	*W. STAUNDON
†SIR N. TWYFORD	*H. Fastolf	*W. VENOUR
*A. de St. Ive	†A. BAMME	*J. FRAUNCEYS
*T. Welford	*N. EXTON (Mayor)	*J. SHADWORTH
*J. Rote	*W. MORE	*H. Vanner
*J. HEENDE	J. WALCOTE	W. Shyringham
*J. FRESSHE	T. Carleton	*W. Wotton

The new additions were :—

1388, Mar. 12 Thomas Austyn, Mercer Langbourn, .. S. 1388-9
 1388-92
 „ „ John Loneye .. .. Cripplegate, .. S. 1389-90
 (or Loveneye), Mercer 1388-94
 M.P. London, 1390 ; Middlesex, 1407 ; Auditor, 1392, 1386, 1388.

T. Carleton died before the close of the Aldermanic year, and his seat was filled by an ex-Alderman, H. Bamme, who was acting as early as January 12, 1389 (Letter Book H, fo. 245b).

At the election of March, 1389, all the Aldermen were re-elected except Vanner, to whose seat W. More was transferred, the other twenty-one being returned for their former Wards. There is no record of More's successor in Castle Baynard Ward.

At some date between March and October, 1389, Rote either died or retired, and his place was taken by a new man :—

1389 .. .. John Pynchon, .. .. Cornhill, 1389-92
Goldsmith

In March, 1390, nineteen Aldermen were re-elected for their respective Wards ; Venour changed his Ward ; the other three seats were filled by the election of two ex-Aldermen and one new man. The 22 seniors were :—

*J. HADLE	} ex-Mayors	*J. Chircheman	*J. SHADWORTH
*SIR N. TWYFORD		*A. BAMME	*W. Shyringham
*A. de St. Ive		*N. EXTON (ex-Mayor)	*H. Bamme
*T. Welford		*W. MORE	*W. Wotton
W. Baret		*J. WALCOTE	*T. Austyn
A. Karlill		†W. VENOUR (Mayor)	*J. Loneye
*J. HEENDE		*J. FRAUNCEYS	*J Pynchon
*J. FRESSHE

The only new name is that of :—

1390, Mar. 12 William Brampton, .. Bridge, .. .. S. 1394-5
Stockfishmonger 1390-1406
 M.P. London, 1390, 1391, 1397, 1399 ; Auditor, 1390. Died November, 1406 ; Will, November 6, proved November 13 [P.C.C. 12 Marche]

In the course of this Aldermanic year Sir N. Twyford died; there is no record of any election to fill his place.

At the election of March, 1391, all the Aldermen were re-elected except two (Chirchman and Walcote). Two ex-Aldermen (H. Vanner and W. Olyver), were elected, and there was one new-comer, viz:

1391, Mar. 12 Thomas Vynent, Mercer Bishopsgate, .. S. 1390-1
1391-3

Will, March 18, 1393, enrolled March 9, 1394 [H.R. 122 (67)]

During the year there was a new Prior of Holy Trinity.

1391, Aug. 14 Robert de Excestre .. Portsoken, .. vice Rysynge
(Prior of Holy Trinity) 1391-1407
Died July 31, 1407.

In March, 1392, those returned were twenty of the existing Aldermen, one ex-Alderman (G. Maghfeld) and two new men: the names are:—

J. HADLE (ex-Mayor)	A. BAMME (ex-Mayor)	W. Shyringham
A. de St. Ive	W. MORE	W. Olyver
T. Welford	G. Maghfeld	H. Bamme
W. Baret	W. VENOUR (ex-Mayor)	W. Wotton

In June, 1392, the Mayor (Heende), and the Sheriffs (Shadworth and Vanner) were deprived of their offices and imprisoned for a short time. Heende appears to have been deprived of, or to have resigned, his Aldermanry, and to have been succeeded by J. WALCOTE, who was acting as Alderman of his Ward (Candlewick), on September 1, and was present at the elections of Sheriffs and Mayor on September 21 and October 13. W. STAUNDON also replaced Wotton about the same time, being present on the election days and acting as Alderman of Dowgate on September 24.

The name of W. Creswyk appears among the Aldermen present on September 21 and October 13; there is no direct evidence as to his Ward, but the lists of attendances show that he must have taken the place of Hadle or Venour or More, and inasmuch as the two last named were re-elected by their old Wards in March, 1393, and Hadle's name does not appear again amongst the Aldermen in 1392 or at the annual election of 1393, it may be confidently conjectured that he vacated his seat and was succeeded by Creswyk. The succession should therefore be continued thus:—

1392, c Aug. William Creswyk, Grocer Lime Street,
1392-3

Will, October 19, 1406, enrolled June 13, 1407 [H.R. 134 (88)]

At the annual election of 1393 seventeen of the existing Aldermen were re-chosen, two of them (A. Bamme and W. Staundon) removing to other Wards: the remaining seats were filled by an ex-Alderman (R. Elys), and five new men. The Court now consisted of—

W. Baret	J. WALCOTE	J. SHADWORTH
A. Karllill	G. Maghfild	H. Vanner
R. Elys	W. STAUNDON (Mayor)	W. Shyringham
J. FRESSHE	W. VENOUR (ex-Mayor)	W. Olyver

In October, 1393, J. HADLE was elected Mayor, although not an Alderman at the time.

In March, 1394, the last of the annual elections took place, when the number of Wards was increased to 25 (including Portsoken) by the division of Farringdon into two Wards: J. FRAUNCEYS, who had been Alderman of the undivided Ward since 1383, was chosen for the Outer division, and D. BARENTYN (an ex-Alderman) for the Inner.

Nineteen of the old Aldermen, in addition to Fraunceys, were again chosen, two of whom (Olyver and Evote) changed their Wards. The Mayor (Hadle) and two other

15. The writer of the excellent article on Whittington in the D.N.B. carefully refrains from styling him “Lord Mayor” and notes that his knighthood is only legendary. He is, however, incorrect in saying that no return exists of the M.P.’s for London in 1416 (see reference quoted on p. 270, footnote 111), and he names only one of his Wards, omitting that for which he served for 25 of the 30 years during which he was an Alderman.

ex-Aldermen, besides Barentyn, were also elected, there being one new addition. The seniority of the 24 old Aldermen dating from these first elections was as under :

J. HADLE (Mayor)	G. Maghfeld	W. Brampton
R. Elys	W. STAUNDON	R. de Excestre
T. Welford	W. VENOUR	(Prior of Holy Trinity)
J. HEENDE	J. FRAUNCEYS	T. Newenton

A. BAMME (ex-Mayor)	H. Vanner	R. WHYTYNGDONE
W. MORE	W. Shyringham	T. KNOLLES

NOTES ON THE ALDERMEN, 1230-1400.

1230. Andrew Bukerel. } They, with other Aldermen of the same patronymic, Stephen Bukerel. } were members of the family (of Italian origin) which has given its name to Bucklersbury.
1237. Simon fitz-Mary was the founder of Bethlehem Hospital.
1248. John Adrian. It is very difficult to determine whether there were two Aldermen of this name or only one. We meet with the name for the first time as an Alderman, in the list which is printed on page 368 from Ancient Deed, A 10849, under date 34 Henry III. (1249-50). It recurs frequently in succeeding years amongst the Aldermen from this year till 1284. John Adrian is named as an Alderman (without specification of a particular Ward) under dates 1250-1, 1252, 1253, 1257, 1258-9, 1265-6, 1268-9, 1270, 1277, 1283, 1284.

"John fitz-Adrian," [son of Adrian ("Filius Adrian")] appears as "Alderman of the Ward" in connexion with property in the parish of St. Michael, Bassishaw (which was apparently then, as afterwards, co-terminous with Bassishaw Ward), in Ancient Deed, A 2084, under date 1256-7 (41 Henry III.), and again in St. Paul's MS., 1191, in connexion with the parish of St. Mary, Abchurch (including portions of Candlewick and Walbrook) in the Mayoralty of J. de Gisors and his own Shrievalty (1258-9). In Ancient Deed, A 1785, under date 54 Henry III. (1269-70), "John Adrian" (without the "fitz") is named as "Alderman of the Ward" in connexion with property in the parishes of St. Dunstan, Tower and St. Mary Bothaw, the latter of which includes parts of Dowgate and Walbrook.

In Ancient Deed, C 850 (1269) "John fitz-Adrian" and "John, his son," are named together among witnesses, neither of them being described as Alderman, that appellation being in this deed only applied to the "Alderman of the Ward" (Cordwainer), Henry le Waleys. "John Addrian, draper, senior," is named as a creditor of Henry de Fingrie in Letter Book A, fo. 7, under date February 25, 1277.

From the references quoted on p. 216, it will be seen that John Adrian was acting as Alderman of Walbrook in April, 1277 and October, 1284 (the name occurring repeatedly during the intervening period amongst the Aldermen present at meetings of the Court), and his successor in that Ward is found acting in February, 1285, whilst the (undated) Will of a John Adrian was enrolled April 23, 1285. These dates afford strong presumptive evidence that the Will was that of the Alderman of Walbrook.

John Adrian was Sheriff in 1258-9 and again in 1266-8, and also Mayor in 1270-1. John (fitz-John) Adrian was Sheriff in 1277-8, and whenever he is mentioned in that connexion in Letter Book A, the description "fitz-John" is carefully included. It is hardly probable that the Mayor of 1270-1 who had previously served the Shrievalty for two terms was identical with the Sheriff of 1277-8, and I think it may be taken as certain that the latter was the former's son.

At p. 216 I have assumed that the Alderman of Walbrook whose term ceased early in 1285 was the father; at p. 234 I have corrected this on the assumption that it was the son. My reason for doing so was that in the Will of Johu Adrian, enrolled in April, 1285 (but undated), his son John is spoken of as being still under age and provision is made for his Wardship; it is therefore obvious that unless the Will was several years old (in which case this provision would have become superfluous), the son named in the Will could not have been the Sheriff of 1277-8, and in that case the testator and the Sheriff of 1277-8 were probably identical with the Alderman of Walbrook, who must have succeeded his father in the Aldermanry at an earlier date.

I am now, however, disposed to adhere to my original view, viz.: that only one John Adrian was an Alderman, and that his son was the Sheriff of 1277-8, but not an Alderman. The fact that in Letter Book A the Alderman of Walbrook is never, and the Sheriff of 1277-8 is invariably, described as "fitz-John" seems to render their identity most improbable. The most tenable conclusion appears to be that John Adrian, the Mayor of 1270-1, was Alderman of Walbrook throughout the period c 1258-85, having previously been for some years Alderman of Bassishaw. If the Will enrolled in April, 1285 was his, we must assume that it was made during his son's nonage, and that he omitted to make a fresh one when the provisions had been rendered inoperative by the latter's attainment to his majority.

[At p. 236 I have put Adrian as Alderman of Tower in 1253-4, on the assumed authority of Liber Trinitatis l. 146. I find, however, that although Adrian as "Alderman" attested a deed dealing with property in that Ward, he did not sign as "Alderman of that Ward," and the inference that he was so, though frequently found to be correct in such cases, is not warranted without further evidence. Mr. Loftie in London (Historic Towns) p. 87, has assigned him to Candlewick, but this is apparently due to a misunderstanding of the entry in St. Paul's MS. 1191, referred to above, where he is associated as Alderman with the Parish of St. Mary Abchurch, which comprised a portion of Walbrook Ward as well as of Candlewick]

- c 1248. Thomas fitz-Thomas. The leader of the popular party in the City. When Mayor in October, 1265, he was seized and imprisoned in Windsor Castle; he presumably died (naturally or otherwise) in prison, as nothing of later date is known of him from any extant record. A very doubtful entry (undated) in Liber Trinitatis iii., 471 b, appears to connect him with Queenhithe Ward as Alderman at some period of his civic career. He was certainly Alderman of Cheap in 1264-5 (Ancient Deed, A 1673).
- c 1264. Michael Tovi. The name is sometimes written "Toni" or "Tooni." He was, as I have indicated in the footnote at p. 374, probably son of the ex-Mayor. ("Michael Tovi, Goldsmith," and "Michael Tovi the younger," are named as witnesses to a deed included in the St. Paul's MSS.). The later Alderman was doubtless identical with "Michael Thovi the younger," who was hanged (14 Edw. I., 1275-6) "by reason of the murders and robberies which the Aldermen imputed to him" (French Chronicle of London, Ed. Riley, p. 237).
- c 1272. Nicholas de Winchester. He was son of Geoffrey of Winchester, formerly Alderman of Bridge.
- 1286. John de Banquette. He was pressed to death in the crowd at the Coronation of Edward II.
- 1292. Walter de Finchingfeld. He was son-in-law of Henry Frowyk (Alderman, 1272-86).

1293. Nicholas de Farndone. He was son of Ralph le Fevre, and married Isabella, daughter of his predecessor, William de Farndone.
1312. Anketyn de Gisors. He was a brother of John de Gisors (Mayor, 1311-13, 1314-15), as also was Henry de Gisors (Alderman, 1330-43).
1320. Edmund Lambyn. He was a brother of his predecessor, John Lambyn.
1320. William de Caustone. Possibly the Alderman of Broad Street may have been the uncle of the late Alderman of Bassishaw, but I think they were identical.
1321. John de Bureford. He was son-in-law of Thomas Romeyn (Mayor, 1309-10).
1322. John Hauteyn. He was son of Walter Hauteyn (Alderman, 1290-3).
1327. John de Pulteney. He gave his name to St. Lawrence Pountney (formerly St. Lawrence, Candlewick Street). The statesman, W. Pulteney, Earl of Bath, was descended, as also is the present Earl of Crewe, from a son of the Alderman's sister.
1333. Richard de Rothyng. He built the Church of St. James, Garlickhithe.
1335. John Hamond. He married the widow of Adam de Salisbury (Alderman, 1325-30).
1339. John de Refham. He was son of Sir Richard de Refham (Mayor, 1310-11).
1339. Thomas Leggy. The patronymic of this civic magnate (who married a daughter of Thomas Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick, and was ancestor of the Earl of Dartmouth) generally appears in the City records in this uneuphonious form and always with a final i or y, which doubtless represents its pronunciation at that time.
- The legend that he was the first "Lord Mayor" of London is simple rubbish, and has no contemporary (or other plausible) authority. The charter of Edward III. conferring on the Mayors the right of having gold or silver-topped maces borne before them, which is erroneously supposed to have involved the assumption of the modern designation, was not, as has been alleged, granted in Leggy's Mayoralty, but in that of his predecessor, Adam Fraunceys, being dated June 10, 1354.
1347. John Lovekyn. Sir William Walworth was apprenticed to him and inherited his large house in Thames Street, which was in the fifteenth century bequeathed to the Fishmongers' Company and was used by them as their Hall. Lovekyn rebuilt the Church of St. Michael, Crooked Lane.
1348. Henry Picard. He is said to have feasted Edward the III., the captive Kings of France and Scotland and the King of Cyprus during his Mayoralty.
1350. John Costantyn. He was son of Richard Costantyn i. (Alderman, 1319-22) and brother of Richard Costantyn ii. (Alderman, 1336-43).
1358. Stephen Cavendisshe. He has been assumed to have been an ancestor of the Dukes of Devonshire. There may have been a connexion between the families, but the direct descent is more than doubtful.
1369. John Warde. He married a sister of John Not (Mayor, 1363-4).
1370. John Aubrey. He was son of Andrew Aubrey (Mayor, 1339-41 and 1351-2). His widow, who was of the same family as Adam Fraunceys (Mayor, 1352-4), married John de Montacute, Earl of Salisbury, and was ancestress of the great Earl of Warwick (the King-Maker) and of Cardinal Pole.
1372. John Philipot. He was son-in-law of Richard de Croydon (Alderman, 1367-75). His name survives in Philipot Lane.

1376. Thomas Cornwaleys. He was ancestor of the Marquis Cornwallis.
1377. William Wodehous. He is said to have been an ancestor of the Earls of Kimberley.
1377. { Adam Karlill. } These four Aldermen were charged with conniving with { Walter Sibyle. } Wat Tyler, a charge which, so far as the three last are { John Horn. } concerned, seems fully warranted by their conduct. Dr.
 { William Tonge. } Sharpe notices the fact that they were all of the victualling class (see Letter Book H, p. xxvii.), which I regard as only a coincidence. If Dr. Sharpe's suggestion that the popular resentment aroused by their proceedings found expression in the subsequent reaction in favour of Northampton and the non-victualling party is correct, it is only an illustration of the proverbial unreason of a democratic electorate, inasmuch as the more prominent leaders of the victualling party (Walworth himself, Philipot and Brembre) were conspicuous on the side of order, and received knighthood from the King in recognition of their active loyalty.
1379. John Sely. On Whitsun Sunday (May 16th) 1382, he appeared in the procession to St. Paul's in a cloak without a lining, whereas he should have worn one lined with green "taffata" or "tartaryn"; as a penalty for this breach of civic propriety he was ordered to entertain the Mayor and Aldermen to dinner at his house on the following Thursday "at his proper charges."
1381. John Chircheman. He was the builder of the Custom House.
1382. John Walcote. In the year 1388 a person who (like Othello, but in a different sense) was distinctly "rude in speech" was imprisoned in Newgate and compelled to do penance on his release, for insulting this Alderman. The minutes relating to the matter as recorded in Letter Book H, fo. 224, are given as translated by Riley, in Mr. Deputy Baddeley's Aldermen of Cripplegate Ward, pp. 229-230, where there is also an account of similar proceedings against an irreverent butcher who had made opprobrious remarks to Alderman William Wotton a little later in the same year.
1382. John More. } These Aldermen were strong supporters of 1383. Richard Norbury. } Northampton and the non-victualling party, and suffered with their leader, being imprisoned in Nottingham and Corfe Castle respectively at the same time that Northampton was committed to Tintagel.
 They were originally sentenced to death, which was commuted to ten years' imprisonment (September, 1384), from which they were released in June, 1386.
1383. John Furneux. He is one of the sixteen Aldermen of the Grocers' Company named in their records for 1383. A person of the same name, very probably identical with him, is described as a draper in Letter Book H (ff. 52, 205 b), under dates December 16, 1376, November 9, 1386, and again as a "taillour" under date November 24, 1378 (fo. 97).
1390. William Brampton. Was removed from his office of Bailiff of Southwark in 1382 for delaying the delivery at the market of fish imported by foreigners (Letter Book H, fo. 153). Brampton was himself a fishmonger, and it was decided that his successor should not be interested in the trade.
1393. Thomas Knolles. He is said to have been an ancestor of the Earls of Banbury (and consequently of the present Lord Knollys). He was father-in-law of John Chichele (Chamberlain, 1434-49). The Editor of the Dictionary of National Biography writes of him as "Sir Thomas" and "Lord Mayor," both designations being inaccurate.
- c1399. William Askham. He was an apprentice of Sir William Walworth.

After the election of Lawrence, who was a Tory, on May 7, 1718, seven of the nine Whig Aldermen present (Ahney, Heathcote, Humfreys, Peers, Fryer, Conyers and Delmé) at once withdrew from the Court, and so prevented there being a quorum and deferred Lawrence's admission. For an account of the proceedings at Aldermanic Elections in the later years of Anne's reign, and the unscrupulous machinations of the Whig Lord Mayors and their supporters in the interests of their party, see Dr. Sharpe's London and the Kingdom, vol. ii., pp. 640-645.

[There is some difficulty as to the exact date when Sir R. de Basing ceased to be an Alderman. He was present at a meeting of Aldermen on July 26, 1297 [Letter Book B, fo. 106 b (xxxii.)] and again on November 30th, 1297 [fo. 103 b (xxxv.)] when his successor (Northone) was also present. On August 26 in the same year Northone had been in attendance but not Basing (Lib. Cust. fo. 43 b). In the record of the November meeting he is described as Sir Robert de Basinge, citizen and knight, his name standing by itself and preceding those of the undoubted Aldermen: it seems certain that he was not actually an Alderman of a Ward then, but was permitted to attend the meetings of the Court, and I think this was also the case at the earlier date; see p. 250 for a similar instance of an ex-Alderman (H. le Waleys) being present at a Court]

- Page 112 Add Note A.—There is no direct evidence to show that N. Hauteyn, whose Aldermanic service only extended over a few weeks, was Alderman of Coleman Street Ward, but there was no other vacancy in the the year 1298 which he could have filled, as of the five Aldermen (other than himself) elected that year, three (Refham, Leyre and Honilane) were present with him at a Court of Aldermen on June 13, 1293 [Letter Book B, fo. 94 (xxxix.)] and therefore no one of them could have been his successor, whilst Norhamton (see Note A, p. 43) remained an Alderman until the late summer or autumn of 1299. Hence the remaining one, Pycot, who was Alderman of Coleman Street as early as August 3, 1298, must have been the successor of Hauteyn.

The following dates of Congé d'élire, royal assent and restoration of temporalities are taken from the Patent Rolls or Calendars of State Papers, and where they conflict with those of election, (which, of course, must be between those of Congé d'élire and royal assent), as stated in the text should be substituted for them. (The dates of “acting” in the text being taken from the Husting Rolls, and those of attendance at Court of Aldermen from the Letter Books and Journals at Guildhall, may be relied upon as generally accurate.)

1661-79, paragraph 6. This identification of the J. Parsons elected for Bramber is very doubtful, though it has (or had, when this note was written) the support of so excellent an authority as Mr. Duncombe Pink. I think it is hardly doubtful that the candidate for Bramber was identical with the J. Parsons whose Will, showing that he had property in that borough, was proved March 2, 1683 (P.C.C. 36 Cottle) before the date of the Alderman's first election to that dignity.
